Search Still On For Grid Mentor

Screening of applicants for the post of head football coach at Klamath Union High School is still being conducted, C. E. Cleven, high school principal, said this week, and applications are still being accepted.

According to Cleven, "We have a number of desirable applicants, all high caliber people, but screening is still in the administrative stages."

Cleven added that he hoped to be able to screen them to a fine point, where he will recommend to the board of education, a person, or persons who would suitably fill the needs not only of the coaching staff, but of the instruction program as well.

The principal noted two completed interviews during the past week, and one telephone communication with another applicant. He also said he had an interview scheduled with another applicant early in March.

Applications for the post of head football coach have been received from Idaho and California, as well as a number from Oregon. In addition, the board is considering possible candidates from within KUHS who have indicated their desire for the post.

"We are equally anxious to fill the vacancy created by Bob Williams on the coaching staff," Cleven said, "but there are a number of factors which we must weigh in the decision."

Upon final screening, Cleven will submit successful candidates to the board of education for final study. The board will then make known its intentions.

Williams moves from the Pelican coaching staff to the position of assistant principal, effective with the 1965 fall term. He is presently assuming the duties of instructor and councilor at the school.

Finley Denounces CBS Transaction

By SAM FOGG
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — As far as Senate hearings are concerned, the baseball season was over today.

An inquiry by the Senate antitrust subcommittee into the purchase of the New York Yankees by CBS came to a close Wednesday. Chairman Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., indicated that he is ready to begin work on a bill which would place baseball on a business basis under federal monopoly regulation but exempt such player practices as the reserve clause.

Hart held open the possibility that his Senate group might hold another hearing or so. But subcommittee sources indicated that they would deal with fringe areas not involving baseball.

The sports anti-trust bill sponsored by Hart was approved by the subcommittee last session, but never came up for floor action after the controversial $11.2 million Yankee sale to the CBS network stirred up a storm.

The four days of hearings this year set off no fireworks even though a closing witness was outspoken Kansas City owner Charles O. Finley.

Finley denounced the CBS transaction as bad for baseball but didn't wax contentious before the Senators.

The final witness in Wednesday's hearing, Chicago White Sox owner Arthur Allyn, declared the Yankees were dead as far as their off-the-diamond domination of American League affairs is concerned.

Allyn acknowledged that the Yankees had exercised undue influence in the past over other league owners because of their leadership on the playing field.

"I believe the owners have blown the whistle on that domination," he said.

Both Finley and Allyn voted against the sale at a league meeting last year. Allyn said he still was dissatisfied with the purchase but felt that the dispute was partially responsible for curbing Yankee dominance of league operations.

Snead Eyes Competition In Tourney

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (UPI) — Sam Snead, with a six-under-par practice round tucked under his belt, tees off today with some 400 competitors chasing him in the annual $40,000 Teacher Trophy golf tournament for senior pros.

Among the competitors in the 27-hole tournament over the Fort Lauderdale Country Club course were such as Gene Sarazen, Jimmy Demaret, and E. J. (Dutch) Harrison.

Snead, at 53 still a master and possessor of one of the game's classic swings, banged out a 66 in a practice round Wednesday. He won the tournament at the PGA course in Palm Beach Gardens last year with a 279, nine under par.

His toughest competition then came from hulking John Barnum, who finished three strokes in back of the West Virginia slammer. Barnum picked the Caribbean tour of the tournament here this year, however, and won't be around to bother Sam again.

The tournament is for the old pros — those 50 and over.

The winner of the tournament collects $3,500, plus a trip to England to meet the British Seniors champion. Another $14,000 will be distributed to winners in eight age groups.

County Title Race Closing With Chiloquin Riding High

By DON McKINNON
Herald and News Sports Editor

As the curtain begins to fall on the last act of County B League basketball, two things appear certain.

First, that the Chiloquin Panthers will take the bow for clinching the county title, and second that a tie may force a playoff in the number four position of the league.

On the first subject, with only two games remaining on the slate for each team in conference action, Chiloquin's Panthers are solid favorites for the crown.

Curtain Ringer

Chiloquin faces Malin this weekend at Malin, and should come up with a narrow margin victory. Then the Panthers tackle a tough Merrill crew on Chiloquin hardwood in the curtain raiser, and while the Huskies are tough competition, Chiloquin should pull them down.

Currently boasting a 7-1 record, Chiloquin would wind the season up with a solid 9-1 record, but even with a loss somewhere along the home stretch, the Panthers are secure in their spot.

Only Merrill has an opportunity to upset the standings. Two wins at this stage would give the Huskies an 8-2 record, as opposed to Chiloquin's 7-3, should they drop the next pair.

Disadvantages

But Merrill is at Chiloquin, its first disadvantage, and Bonanza visits Merrill, another not too encouraging situation. It's especially serious in light of the fact that Bonanza claims to have found a combination that works, and could be trouble if they have.

Interestingly enough, the county league has found itself faced with a problem. Perhaps this problem is easily enough solved, but it may force an extra game. The problem: Gilchrist and Malin are tied currently for fourth place, and the outlook is for a final game tie between the two clubs.

The Custom

It is the custom of the county league to match their fourth place against Paisley in a playoff to determine who gets the tournament berth. Tied at three wins and five losses each at the moment, both Malin and Gilchrist play Bly in their remaining games. These should prove to be to their advantage, barring upset, but on the negative side is the fact that Malin meets Chiloquin this weekend in what should be a certain defeat, and Gilchrist faces Bonanza in its final effort.

Unless Gilchrist can come up with an upset, chances are the league will be forced to play off the tie, so that one of the teams can meet Paisley, a not too enviable situation for either club.

Only Bly, which currently boasts a season record of no wins against eight losses, is without problems. They don't have to defeat anybody, except for the sake of winning one.

Cookie Gilchrist Traded To Denver

By MARTIN GLEASON
United Press International

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI)—Cookie Gilchrist, who provided the Buffalo Bills with plenty of thrills on the field but with almost as much grief off it, is finally gone from the scene of his greatest triumphs.

The 29-year-old Gilchrist was traded to the Denver Broncos for 24-year-old Billy Joe Wednesday in a swap of 250-pound fullbacks. The deal climaxed two months of negotiations between the American Football League clubs.

Bronco Coach Mac Speedie said in Denver that the Broncos also gave a "substantial" amount of cash to Buffalo to complete the deal.

Lou Saban, coach of the AFL champion Bills, said that Joe "should be great" running behind one of the top lines in the league. "He has the size and it's what we need," Saban said. "I am mostly concerned with a man who can get the short yardage."

Joe, reached at his home in Coatesville, Pa., concurred with his new boss, saying Buffalo's great line will give him an opportunity to "demonstrate what I have."

Joe, who also said he was hurt at leaving Denver, added that the trade was unexpected although he had a feeling it might be coming. "I didn't have a very good season last year," he explained.

Gilchrist, who was named United Press International's Most Valuable Player in 1962 after capturing the first of two rushing titles while with Buffalo, goes to a Denver team that is attempting to rebuild after winning only two games in 1964.

Cookie joins another AFL rushing champion, Abner Haynes, who captured that honor in 1960 in the Denver backfield.

Saban indicated Gilchrist has been trade bait for a long time —even before the November 1964 flareup that saw Cookie fired and reinstated within a 30-hour period after a bitter verbal battle with Saban.

"Under the circumstances it is the best for all concerned," Saban said. "The man has done a good job for us and we wish him all the best in Denver."

Viking Rookies Scare Wolves; Eastern Next

By DON McKINNON

With a roster filled with rookies from the junior varsity, Portland State managed to give Oregon College of Education a scare this week, but the Vikings fell in their effort.

While their 72-67 defeat to the Wolves erased any possible chance to get into the upper bracket in the Oregon Collegiate Conference, their final two games have even more far reaching effects.

Portland State tackles the league leading Eastern Oregon five this weekend in their final conference series, and the likelihood of anything short of a massacre is worth mentioning.

But the most severe blow from the loss of the 10 Viking cagers through disciplinary action was felt by Oregon Technical Institute, which up to that moment had hopes for at least a tie for the OCC crown.

The two certain losses by Portland State this weekend makes it almost impossible for the Owls of OTI to move up from their present second place standing.

Oregon Tech has a final two-game series with Oregon College this weekend, and mathematically were in the running for the crown. Now, a split at OCE, and two losses by the Viks at Eastern, spell doom for the talented Owl cagers.

In fairness to coach Sharkey Nelson of Portland State, whose action sent the OCC into a nose dive, the disciplinary action was deemed absolutely necessary, and commensurate with the violation. Sharkey's reserves put out a tremendous effort in the OCE contest, and may yet offer a surprise for Eastern.

Bulldogs Defeat Malin Mustangs

DORRIS — The Butte Valley Bulldogs, paced by Jim Griffin and Stan Egeline, defeated Malin's Mustangs 73-61 in a non-conference clash at Dorris this week.

While Reuben Aldinger gathered a total of 26 points for high game scoring honors, he was pushed throughout the evening by the Bulldogs' 6-3 senior Jim Griffin, who pumped 23 points through the hoop in a winning effort.

Egeline added 16 points to the winner's total, assisted by Reg Stannus with 11. Randy LeQuieu and Bob Bauer of Malin collected 12 and 10 points respectively in their bid to overcome the host Bulldogs.

Butte Valley held a one-point, 16 - 15 advantage at the first quarter break, then spread the lead to 39-30 at halftime. In the third quarter the Bulldogs widened the gap to 54-39, finishing strong at 73-61.

The Malin Junior varsity had things pretty much their own way in the preliminary action, topping Butte Valley's juniors by a 60-26 margin. High point earner for Malin was K. Winebarger with 10 points. D. Lucas added seven for the losers.

Scoring:

BUTTE VALLEY — Robinson 6, Criss 6, Egeline 16, Connors 2, Fleming 2, Griffin 23, Goodman 4, Stannus 11 and Titus 1.

MALIN — Tofell 4, Bauer 10, Greene 1, LeQuieu 12, Winebarger 2, Rogers 1, Aldinger 26, Duncan 4.
