

What does Klamath Falls mean to Weyerhaeuser?

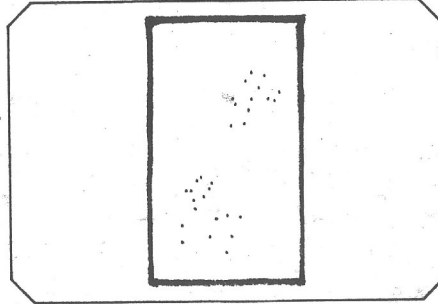

High grade logs Weyerhaeuser's nearby tree farm lands provide a perpetual supply of logs for our Klamath Falls operation. Selective harvesting and planned reforestation keep these lands green and productive year after year.

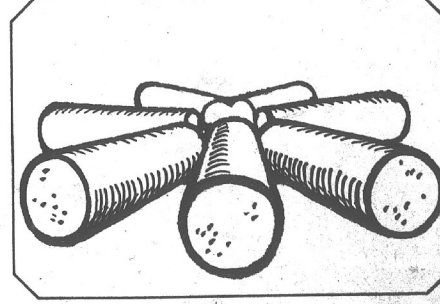

Construction lumber In our sawmill, we use logs from our tree farm to produce high quality lumber, most of it Ponderosa pine which is ideal for various types of structural lumber important to a balanced range of wood products.

Specialty products The timber in this area is ideal for certain specialized products. They include the high quality mouldings, finish, trim and other millwork we make here, as well as industrial wood parts.

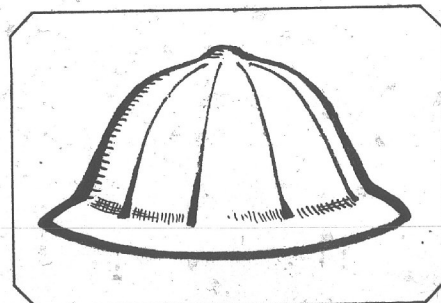

Versatile hardboard One of the important products of our Klamath Falls mills is hardboard in a variety of grades and types. These panels go to a national market for use in home building, cabinet work and industrial products.

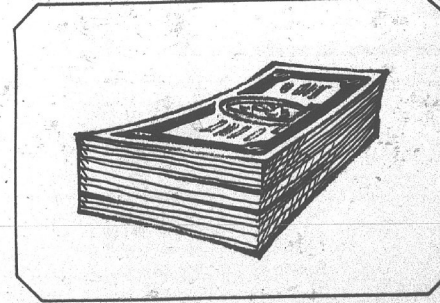

Pres-to-logs Leftover shavings that might otherwise be wasted in our planing mills are used to manufacture clean-burning, long-lasting Pres-to-logs. This is one of many ways we strive for maximum utilization of our timber resources.

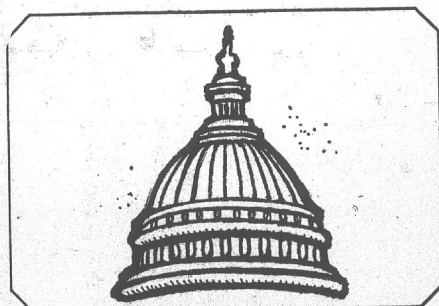

What does Weyerhaeuser mean to Klamath Falls?

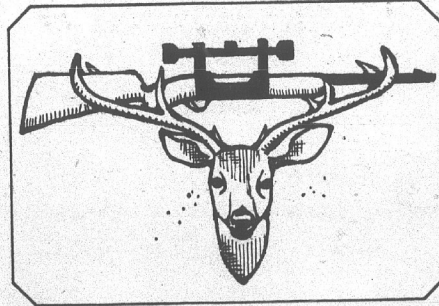

Jobs Weyerhaeuser provides jobs for nearly 1,400 people in woods and mills at Klamath Falls. These are permanent jobs made possible by the tree farm system of growing trees for the future and they are important to this city's economy.

Payrolls The total Weyerhaeuser payroll in the Klamath Falls area is about $8 million annually. These dollars help support hundreds of other people in service businesses, retail stores and other aspects of Klamath Falls' economic life.

Taxes Taxes on timber lands and Weyerhaeuser manufacturing operations are an important source of government income for schools, roads and other needs. Our total tax payment on local operations amounts to more than $1 million annually.

Recreational areas We're proud of you for the cooperation you gave us last year. With 14,000 hunters in the woods there were only 21 fire violations. Picnic areas were litter-free, and Christmas tree cutters observed designated areas.

Community service Weyerhaeuser people devote many hours every year to United Good Neighbor Fund, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and many other projects and organizations that help make Klamath Falls a good place to live and work.
