Woods to Shady Pine. During 1964 well over 60 small cable reinforcing jobs were started and completed. Cost of these projects was almost $102,000. During 1965 it is expected that the volume and cost of cable jobs in Klamath Falls will exceed the 1964 figure.

Growth of telephone service and investment in Klamath is a continuous process, Dickerman said. PNB's telephone plant investment in the county now exceeds $9.7 million. Backing up this investment are 120 employees with an annual payroll of $12,000. Dickerman pointed out that growing needs for phone service in Klamath Falls adds to the local economy in a way few people know about.

The Western Electric Company which does most of PNB's work is scheduled to open a new office in Klamath Falls on Saturday, March 6, between 1 o'clock and 4 p. m. The office is located in the second story, north wing of the newly remodeled post office building.

Anyone interested in National Forest administration is urged to come. Forest multiple use displays will be exhibited and functions of your Winema National Forest will be explained.

The Winema National Forest is the newest national forest in the nation. The forest was organized in 1961 from former Indian Reservation land and portions of the Rogue River, Fremont and Deschutes national forests. The office was located in temporary space at Fourth and Main streets until remodeling was completed on the post office last December.

central office and dial PBX installation work maintained four employees in Klamath Falls during 1964.

One of 1964's biggest projects was the installation of a completely new telephone system to serve the campus at Oregon Technical Institute.

Planning for the new system had gone on for two years prior to the installation last summer of almost 280 telephones to serve both administration faculty and student needs.

In addition to providing telephone service on the campus PNB also provides central circuits for the fire alarm, heat and clock systems.

Since all phone company cables are buried on the new campus, PNB engineers an underground system designed to serve OTI over the next 20 years. Over 2.5 miles of cable were buried on Highway 97 at the entrance road to the OTI campus. These same facilities will serve the new Presbyterian Intercommunity Hospital when it opens this year.

Klamath Falls as a result of the estimates its costs of restoring local and long distance facilities in the area in excess of $15,000.

A quick look at the past in which 3.5 miles in the flooded Keno area, ice and winds continue to threaten the poles throughout the area.

A U. S. Navy life raft has been pressed into service by the company to enable men and equipment to reach the endangered poles to make temporary swamp anchor installations. Until the flood waters recede the hazards will continue.

Although exact figures are not yet known the company estimates its costs of restoring local and long distance facilities in the area in excess of $15,000.

Another good measurement of growth is the number of local and long distance calls placed on an average business day. In 1963 Klamath Falls customers placed some 80,800
