ARTISTS COME TO PINE TREE NOVEMBER 3

Moscow Artists, Second of Kiwanis Musical Entertainments, Will Be Pleasing

The Moscow Artists will be at the Pine Tree theatre Monday evening, November 3, this being the second of the musical entertainments which the Kiwanis club has arranged for Klamath Falls. The program of the Moscow Artists, given partly in original peasant costume, is entirely one of Russian music rendered by Russian artists of attainment. It will feature some of the numbers that have recently caught American fancy in the tours of the Russian Grand Opera company, The Russian Ballet, and "Chauve Souris."

No less interesting in the personnel of this Russian organization. It is headed by Yasha Garoy, a noted Russian tenor and composer. He first visited America several years ago with the Russian Grand Opera Co. His voice is one of wide range and magnificent quality, and his mastery and rendition of numerous operatic roles have received high praise from America's foremost critics. He is a brilliant pianist as well as a vocalist of distinction.

Mme. Vera Eighena Sadovskaya, who was one of the leading dramatic sopranos in the Imperial Russian Opera, will vie for honors with Garoy. She was the talented wife of a surgeon-general in Kerensky's third army and sang with the Imperial Opera during the Czarist regime. She barely escaped death in the hands of the Bolsheviks, following the collapse of old Russia. She was a nurse during the war, and received three medals for her services. Mme. Sadovskaya is a gifted artist with a most beautiful voice.

Ivan Karoff, Russian baritone, typifies the robust type of Russian vocalist, rich and sympathetic in tonal quality and yet with surprising range and power. Like Yasha Garoy, Ivan Karoff, too, is a pianist of compelling merit. He has received especial comment for his interpretation of the old masters.

Vanlea Skolska will be enjoyed in a big repertoire of violin numbers, classical numbers of particular appeal and also special arrangements of folk songs. Her obligato work, too, is worthy of especial note.

It is interesting fact that Garoy's arrangements of the peasant songs of Russia are now being used on concert programs by many of the world's leading artists. A special group of his arrangements will feature every program, including his "Moscow Festival Song," his arrangement of the "Hymn of Russia" and "Cossack Melodies."

The Moscow Artists bring a musical expression of the soul of Russia, with the choice bits from the libraries of the world famed composers—the folk-songs of the peasants, the rollicking songs and dances of the Cossacks, the song of Russian tragedy and songs of love.
