

Snappy Sporting Notes

WINNING A BIG BLUE WINNER HARD JOB

Reds in Stride.
The Reds, abiding in second place, with seven victories and three failures, belong three flights down. They won from the Cardinals again, 7 to 5 in St. Louis. Perhaps they were inflated to fury by the seizure of Garry Herrmann's beer.

In Pittsburgh the Pirates took another push in the face from the Cubs, 7 to 2, the fifth time the Cubs have done this to the Pirates since April 14. Even without Habbit Maranville and a couple of other steady athletes out of the game, the Cubs have won five out of ten.

Anyone wishing to grasp this strange situation is advised to use ice tongs.

Nurmi and Ritola Want Too Much to Run in the Relays

DES MOINES, Iowa, April 24.—We refused to engage Nurmi and Ritola at exorbitant prices to appear here, and in so doing upheld the amateur traditions upon which the Drake relays were founded," said K. L. Wilson, athletic director of Drake university, in explanation of the failure of Paavo Nurmi and Willie Ritola, Finnish runners to appear in the 16th annual Drake relays, as had previously been planned.

Wilson would not say what amounts were demanded as "expenses" by the Finnish runners, stating that the sum was "exorbitant."

Local officials of the Central Amateur Athletic union declined to be quoted as to the sums demanded as expenses by the two Finnish track stars, but insisted that both were still in amateur standing.

Hornsby Has Narrow Escape From Pitched Ball By Adolph Luque

ST. LOUIS, April 24.—Ordered to the bench for three or four days, with a slight concussion of the brain, Rogers Hornsby, the star infielder and slugger of the St. Louis Cardinals, has narrowly escaped the fate of Ray Chapman and Frank Chance.

Adolfo Luque of the Cincinnati Reds, accidentally nicked Hornsby's skull with a pitched ball in Thursday's game here. Dr. Robert F. Hyland, physician of the Cards thoroughly examined Hornsby, but discovered no fracture to the skull and only a slight jar to the brain.

If the ball had caught Hornsby square at a different spot on the head however, he might have gone down like Chapman, the shortstop of the Cleveland Indians, who was killed by a pitched ball in a game against the Yanks at the Polo Grounds.

SEVEN RECORDS ARE BROKEN IN BIG DRAKE MEET

DES MOINES, Iowa, April 24.—Seven meet records were smashed the first day of the 16th annual Drake relays here today. Events were run off on a fast track in spite of the precipitation earlier in the day.

Harold Osborne, world's champion high jumper, who was scheduled to appear in a special event in an effort to establish a new record, wired officials that he was stuck in the mug at Durant, Iowa "where the pavement ends." He will appear Saturday instead.

The special 220 yard low hurdle race failed to produce a new record but it brought together some of the greatest hurdlers the world has known.

Brookings of Iowa won the event in :24 2-10. Gurtliher of Ohio State as second; Kinsey, Illinois third and Cuhel, Iowa, fourth.

In the preliminaries of the discuss throw Richardson of Missouri university hurled the discuss 140 feet, 10 3-4 inches, smashing the former meet record of 138 feet 6 3-4 inches made by Platt of Denver in 1923.

All of the entrants in the preliminaries of the shot put qualified for the finals and five established new meet records. Those qualifying were: Schwabe, Wisconsin; Purma, Kansas, state teachers' college; Wiherg, Iowa and Munz of Michigan. All except Munz heaved the shot better than 43 feet 8 1-8 inches, the present meet record made by Purma in 1924.

Butler college, Indianapolis established new meet time in the medley relay 4:40-229-880 mile, turning the track in 7:43.9, smashing the old meet time of 7:52 made by Butler in 1924.

Other records Friday included three events in the high school section the mile relay, quarter mile relay and the two mile relay, and two Iowa conference records in the mile and one-half relay events.

DAILY PEGS

Written by Westbrook Pegler

course, there wasn't any resounding national outcry fight between Tommy Gibbons and Gene Tunney, but at they have determined to settle the unimportant question—who's who, between them, the battle in itself shouldn't bad. The championship fight isn't always the best one, although the title tumults in the heavyweight class Dempsey came to the top have all been rough and rousing. It is a failing of the customers to rally round the royal and crowd their money on the scalpers and to neglect the battles in the back lots of the cauliflower plantation. Gibbons and Tunney are a fairly close match, Gibbons has a perceptible edge in the matter of aggressiveness, although the whole world knows he's no Firpo. Harry Wills is very clever against Firpo, but in this case it was a bumpy against a wheelbarrow, and you only saw the fist. Gibbons is a lot better boxer than Wills, and if it is any heavyweight as smart with two fists he hasn't yet had his name on the roster of the division.

Gibbons has a defensive tendency, but it was over-emphasized against Dempsey at Shelby and against Carpenter at Michigan City, because he knew that in either case a ramblam on the mouth might turn on the music for him. In fights with the Sailor Martins, the Soldier Jones and Farmer Lodges, Gibbons has run up about 35 knockouts, you can't knock out even a Farmer Lodge by ducking and blocking.

Tunney is a body puncher, and most of his rib-roasters counter blows. He lingers along until the other man leads, he ducks, blocks, or takes the punch and sends his ribs bumping against the body.

You might put the names of all the heavyweights in a hat and draw out a far more entertaining match with your fist. But 30 minutes of Gibbons and Tunney in the ring is a lot more entertaining than 30 years of Jack Dempsey and Harry Wills in the papers, which seem to have been set as the battleground of a 30 years' war.
