

AMAZING NEW CURE FOR LEPROSY DISCOVERED IN THE PHILIPPINES

April 29. ANOSOME—only killed patients. American physicians were forced to assume subordinate positions in order to carry on their work among the lepers. Even Filipinos are now convinced leprosy is curable, he said, and thousands have come to Cullion for treatment, many submitting voluntarily to live on the island, despite the fact that a few years ago Cullion was known as the "Isle of Living Death."

"We need money and buildings and more medical men at Cullion," Wood declared, "and we hope to raise $1,000,000 for the work in a campaign in the United States. The Insular government has been generous and contributed one-third of the total health funds for the fight on leprosy. It can do no more without seriously injuring other health work. I am confident Americans will aid in this great work."
