SHIPMENT OF YOUNG DUCKS TO PELICAN

A shipment of ducklings from the famous Otto Ruchardt duck farm at San Francisco arrived in Klamath Falls last night consigned to the White Pelican hotel. The White Pelican is giving a series of special Sunday evening dinners and these ducklings were ordered for that purpose. Many reservations for family dinners have been made for the dinner Sunday evening. Harry Borel will play during the dinner hour.

COOLIDGE SAYS GET BUSY AND FORGET WASH'N

(By United News Leased Wire) WASHINGTON, May 1.—President Coolidge wants the country to forget Washington for the next six months and devote itself wholeheartedly to its private business. His view is that the less the country hears about Washington for a while, the less it is harassed by meddling officials, and the greater certainty and peace of mind there is regarding national policies, the better off the country will be as a result.

It was made clear at the White House today that President Coolidge hoped that the government would "play possum" as much as possible, confining its routine duties but not stirring up excitement and uneasiness by proposing new laws and other changes.

He wants to give the country an opportunity to feel that things at Washington are as settled as they can be, that business men can go ahead and make commitments without worrying about possible changes in the law that might affect their investments and operations.

In accordance with this policy the president, through a White House spokesman, tended to discourage the talk of a ship subsidy now. Inquiry was made concerning the plan of T. V. O'Connor chairman of the shipping board who wants to make all seamen in the merchant marine naval reservists and pay them $20 a month out of the federal treasury.

President Coolidge believes that if this proposition is to be considered it must be viewed wholly as to its value in the national defense. If it is to be graded purely as a subsidy to help out the ship owners, the government must also consider whether it would be willing also to pay part of the wages of men employed by farmers, railroads and other business enterprises in addition to shipping.

It was clear from the words of the president's spokesman today that for the next six months pending the return of congress, the White House will have little to say to the country. The well known Coolidge silence is to be applied to official matters more than ever before.

GARY MURDER CASE IS STILL MYSTERIOUS ONE

(By United News Leased Wire) GARY, Ind., May 1.—For the second time "positive identification" of the burned and mutilated body of a girl found several days ago on the sand dunes here has proven false.

After the body had been identified as that of Mrs. Josephine Desidero by her mother and several friends, two Gary constables Friday disproved this by saying they had seen and talked with Mrs. Desidero several days after the discovery of the body of the girl.

N. P. COMING INTO KLAMATH

All efforts of the northern lines have been rebuffed, however, and the Southern Pacific has been said to have been actively interested in the applications of the O. C. & E. (Strahorn line) and N. C. & O. for extensions in central Oregon, in the belief that these applications would forestall entrance of northern competitors.

While the public service commission's case brought a tentative report from Examiner Kaphart that the Union Pacific should be forced to build southward from Bend to a junction with the Natron cut-off at Odell and then southward to Lakeview, the Union Pacific has resisted this recommendation.

The Union Pacific once projected these lines that since settlement of the Central Pacific case, and drafting of the Ogden gateway agreement with the Southern Pacific, the Union Pacific is content to have the traffic delivered to its line at Odell for the eastern movement.

Some railroad officials believe that a movement by the northern lines toward Klamath Falls may force the Union Pacific to make some movement of its own. With the northern lines in the rich producing Klamath Falls area, a great amount of the traffic originating for the north central states would move over either the Great Northern and Northern Pacific.

The Northern Pacific message read as follows:

"Mr. Charles Donnelly, president of the Northern Pacific company, advised that the Northern Pacific board of directors have been considering for some time the question of extending the Oregon Trunk railway southward to Klamath Falls, and that at a meeting held in New York today it was decided by unanimous vote to file at once with the interstate commerce commission an application of public convenience and necessity, and to make at once definite location of the proposed line."

O. C. E. WILL GET RIGHT TO EXTEND ON TO LAKEVIEW

Had far outstripped Oregon in development due to the fact that Washington has four transcontinental railway lines running across the state, all state developments resulting in Washington leading all other states in the Union in production of lumber, as well as outstripping Oregon in other important industrial development.

New Development Era Since 1912 the public service commission of Oregon has been working steadily on forcing the revival of railway development through the forsaken interior of Oregon. "Now it begins to look like our work would at least be crowned with success," Mr. Corey continued. "The businessmen of Portland and the whole state have wakened from their lethargy and are now backing up the commission. It looks like a new era is set to dawn in the real development of Oregon."

Economy of weight and space and durability are claimed for an English inventor's Diesel engine in which the cylinders move with the pistons but for a shorter distance.
