OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE CITY OF KLAMATH FALLS

"Let us have faith that right makes might, and in that faith let us to the end dare to do our duty as we understand it"—Abraham Lincoln

MR. DEPEW'S OPEN SECRET

On his 91st birthday Mr. Depew looks upon the world to find it good. So congenial are his habits, his habits and his thoughts, that he makes no secret of his wish to remain here as long as may be possible. "I am," he says, according to the Morning Oregonian, "more firmly convinced than ever that this is a mighty good world to live in, inhabited by mighty companionable and lovable people." So saying Mr. Depew dines abstemiously and retires at a comparatively early hour, having permitted himself that annual indulgence of his—the birthday party. There really appears to be no reason for his cheerfulness of view and careful conduct, considering why this hale and hearty old gentleman should not find out the century and fare still further down the vale of years.

Mr. Depew has come to be regarded as a national figure as an orator, his long public career, have directed attention toward him; yet there are many public men who, when age creeps upon them, retire and are no longer heard of until death allows them a headline. So it must be that this elder statesman has found, wholly without seeking, another way to compel the public regard. He has. By constant cheerfulness, by retention of the privileges of work, and by repeated utterances of homely, serviceable philosophy, he has proved that even the venerable need not rust.

That is why we all are so much interested in Mr. Depew and his birthdays.

WHEN HE IS DRUNK

Certain chemical elements combined produce explosions. Judge Fred Stadter knows that two of these are gasoline and moonshine, says the Portland Journal. The reference is somewhat figurative, it is true. But the explosion is literal, as many a street corner casualty testifies.

The motorist who takes a drink and undertakes to drive a machine is drunk, says Judge Stadter. A person who drives when intoxicated has earned jail, fine and separation from his driver's license.

The motorist who takes a drink and drives may protest—they all do—that because in a fashion he can steer the vehicle he is not drunk. The fact that he drinks and drives makes him all the more dangerous. Alienists find even more subtle reasons than the effects of a swig of moonshine for declaring that a person is mentally incompetent.

Motorists who do not drink and drive, together with pedestrians who are reluctant to be killed by speed fiends and moonshine drunkards, feel safer because of Judge Stadter's ruling.

A WISE DECISION

Japan is wise in not reopening the immigration question, says the San Francisco Examiner, and in instructing her newly appointed ambassador to cultivate friendly relations between the United States and Japan.

Particularly is this appropriate since Japan has passed her alien land bill, forbidding ownership of Japanese land by citizens of any country that denies such a right to Japanese.

The former Japanese ambassador, by his threat, made it practically impossible for congress to refrain from passing the Japanese Exclusion act, even if American conditions had not made such legislation imperative in any case.

Individuals can be good friends without living together, and nations should be able to do likewise, particularly when they can engage in commercial and educational relations to vast mutual advantage.

It isn't really authority that people respect, but only their own hides.

RUINS OF PRINCETON, IND.

More than a score of lives were lost when Princeton, Ind., was struck by the devastating tornado. This photograph shows the manner in which homes and business buildings were leveled along the city's principal thoroughfare.

French Troops in Morocco Carrying on Real Warfare

ALGER, May 6.—The French troops in Morocco are carrying on real warfare, according to a dispatch from the French government. The troops are fighting against the Arab tribes in the region of the Sahara. The French government has announced that the troops have been successful in capturing several important towns and forts. The fighting is expected to continue for some time.
