MONDAY, JUNE 1ST, MARKS CLOSE LARGEST VOTE OFFER OF CONTEST

Many contestants who call at the contest department are expressing new determination to put forth their best efforts during this period. Reports from contestants in both city and county and their friends, filled with the same sort of enthusiasm, make one believe that the remainder of the race will be more spirited and exceedingly close.

Four weeks more and this interesting campaign will come to a close and the most stupendous list of prizes ever conceived by a newspaper in this part of the country will be distributed.

The first "period" of the contest comes to a close on June 1st, at 9 p. m. The present vote scale of "200,000" extra votes on every $30 in subscription collections will be in effect until that time—then the schedule is very sharply reduced.

The longer you delay in getting in "full swing" the less valuable your subscription will be from a vote standpoint. And that is what you are after—votes—or you should be after them if you expect to be one of the big prize winners.

A few of our old subscribers are behind in their subscriptions and one of the objects in staging this contest was to bring such accounts up in advance or at least to date. For this reason, collections secured from old subscribers to apply on their account earn the same votes in proportion to the amount paid as advance payments do. Before the contest closes, contestants will be given a list of delinquent subscribers. This list will help in a great many ways in getting old accounts paid up. Of course, in soliciting payments from old subscribers it is not necessary to have the expiration date, for any money collected from an old subscriber is applied on his account and automatically pays up according to the amount collected.

If each contestant will take the time to explain this to the subscriber, that old accounts must be given attention, you will be surprised at the amount of money that you can bring in. Each and every contestant is an authorized agent of The News and is authorized to make subscription collections from both old and new subscribers.

If there ever was a time contestants should make every minute count it is now. The race is close. There is little difference between the leaders and anyone in the race can be leaders in a few days if he or she will keep at it. The difference is nothing, really. Go after all promises that have been made you since you started in the contest. Now is the time they count most, so go after them now.

General Miles Laid To Rest In Arlington

WASHINGTON, May 19.—General Nelson A. Miles has taken his place in the quiet fields of sleep above the Potomac, in Arlington cemetery, among other military heroes who were comrades and brothers in arms in those stirring days of the past, in which he was a central figure.

The lieutenant-general who has written his name large in American military history was buried Tuesday with a ceremony whose splendor was only surpassed by that with which the unknown soldier was laid to rest.

Representatives of every branch of the service, a military escort of nearly 3,000 men, preceded the slow moving caisson through the streets of the capital and up the winding road to the mausoleum on the heights overlooking the Potomac and the city.

Nine commanders, who have records of distinguished service, walked beside the caisson, as honorary pall bearers. General Pershing, retired commander in chief of the American army rode in the procession on his horse. President Coolidge, titular commander in chief of the nation's forces sat among the military chieftains at the funeral service in the church.

Thousands of people stood along the line of march, hushed by the tones of Chopin's funeral march as the military here was borne past.

Another crowd had gathered in the cemetery long before the time for the ceremony there. From the top of the hill where the mausoleum stands, they watched the funeral procession leave the city two miles away and wind slowly up the long hill.

Paul S. Jackson, who will be principal of Klamath county high school next term. Mr. Jackson was chosen from a wide field of prospective candidates. He is at present principal of the Olympia, Wash., high school.

RUM SMUGGLERS WILL HAVE SLIM PICKINGS SOON

Navy May Be Called Into Action To Clamp Lid Down Firmly

WASHINGTON, May 19.—War on the rum smugglers has only begun, treasury officers warned Monday. Operations of the coast guard, regarded as highly successful in the opening phase, will be effective eventually in completely breaking up the liquor smuggling business, it was said.

This is the judgment of high treasury officials after watching the progress of the coast guard fleet in the first ten days of its campaign off the New York coast.

The plan for the future is simple—it is to keep the rum smugglers on the run. They will be chased from place to place so insistently that they will be unable to make the necessary arrangements on shore for landing liquor. The farther they are driven from the chief consuming centers around New York the greater risk they will run. The longer they haul they have to make after getting their liquor ashore, the more expensive the business will be and the more opportunity the government will have to interfere.

As a result of reports which connected his name with propaganda to put the navy on the trail of the rum pirates, Wayne D. Wheeler, superintendent of the anti-saloon league said the navy should not be used except as a last resort. However, he remarked significantly that George Washington once used the army to suppress the whiskey rebellion and that the law gives the president authority to employ such parts of the land and naval forces of the United States as he may deem necessary to enforce the faithful execution of the laws of the United States or to suppress an insurrection or rebellion in state or territory when the laws of the United States are opposed. A bill was introduced in congress to amend the law to give the president the authority with specific reference to liquor smuggling.

MANEUVERS END TODAY ABOARD U. S. S. BIRMINGHAM HONOLULU, May 19.—The maneuvers in which the United States fleet has engaged the last three days will be terminated today when the fleet returns to anchorage off the coast of Maui.
