

AGENCY WOMEN'S CLUB COMPLETES YEAR'S PROGRAM

KLAMATH AGENCY, May 22.—The Klamath Agency Woman's club concluded their year's program with a social affair Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Frederic A. Baker. Plans had been made for a lawn party, the grounds being decorated for the occasion and tables with bouquets on them, and chairs being placed for the guests. However, rain forced the crowd inside. Reports were given of the work done by the club since its organization in February, by the civic and program committees, their spokesman being Mrs. William H. Zeh, and by the social committee, of which Mrs. B. A. Sanders is chairman. About twenty-five ladies from Chiloquin, members of the Woman's Community club of Chiloquin, were present, at the special invitation of the Klamath Agency club. Mrs. A. R. Tenbrook, president of their organization, gave a splendid talk. A short program ensued. Mrs. Harry E. Dobbins sang several songs. Mrs. J. W. Allan gave two readings in dialect, being costumed to suit the part she played, that of a Swedish immigrant. A contest was taken part in by all the guests. Then refreshments, consisting of ice cream and individual French pastries were served. The club has now adjourned its study and social meetings until September.

they may encounter if they deviate at all from Peary's path is not known. They may make their way across ice floes or they may stumble upon unknown lands. These they are authorized to claim in the name of the king of Norway. Months of mushing would bring some of them, perhaps all six to Etah, the northernmost Greenland settlement, and there they could await the arrival of vessels which call there when the waters are comparatively free of ice. There is no radio aboard the planes, because the weight would have been too great. The world must wait until the men return or until some subsequent expedition finds a trace of them, to learn of the great adventure.

LAND PURCHASED FOR A RAILROAD

ments of the past few weeks, Mr. Hovey states that it looks like a sure bet the O. C. & E. would be built as planned, and also that the Hill lines were sure to invade this country just as soon as preliminary arrangements can be made, and the proper interstate commerce commission permits granted for the proposed extensions.

Prospects for Klamath never looked better, he said. The new lines giving better eastern outlets will work as a big advantage to Klamath lumbermen. The new arrangement will be the means of lumbermen here taking up a more economic marketing system, permitting them to ship more common lumber east instead of throwing these valuable grades of common lumber into box shooks as they are doing now.

EXPLORERS ARE AT NORTH POLE

There is water aboard the planes, but if they crash they will not want for water in that land of snow.

Mother Ships Useless
Months might elapse before the world would know the fate of the fliers if ill fortune overtakes them going or coming. It would be impossible for either of the mother ships to bring relief to the fliers any great distance from Kings Bay, because of the impenetrable ice packs which are believed to surround the pole on all sides. If they tumble from the sky onto the ice the fliers will be compelled to seek Peary's route from northern Greenland to the pole. Then will follow weary, perhaps hungry, certainly cold and unpleasant days of slogging through country that was not created for the comfort of the white man. Just what sort of country

LOCAL I. O. O. F. HONORS MASTER

The Klamath Falls lodge of Odd Fellows was honored last night with a visit from Henry Young of Hermiston, Oregon, newly elected grand master of the state organization. Oran P. Steele, grand marshal of Pendleton, and E. L. Kenyon, grand chaplain of Baker.

A big turn-out of local members and visiting members from the surrounding towns were on hand at last night's meeting. The grand officers all expressed surprise and delight with the progress and spirit of the city of Klamath Falls. Two of them had visited here years ago, but Grand Master Young had never been to Klamath, and he expected to find a little one-horse town here with ram-shackle hotel accommodations. He could scarcely find words to express his surprise upon being ushered to the White Pelican along with the other officers, where accommodations had been arranged for the visitors by the local lodge.

New Cabaret Outfit Buys K. F. Equipment

Mr. and Mrs. O. N. Gram of Valejo, California, who have taken a four year lease on a storeroom in the McCarthy building, for a first class cabaret to be opened May 30th, are sparing no expense in fitting up ideal quarters for their new business, according to local merchants.

Yesterday the cabaret people purchased the last word in grand pianos from the Earl Shepherd Co. Also a hardwood floor is being laid in the storeroom for the benefit of patrons who wish to dance there. One Klamath business man pointed out that the Grams bear the best of references from the cities in the south.

MUSICIANS MEET TO ORGANIZE UNION

Local musicians met last night and decided to organize a local union. About eight men appeared and pledged themselves to bring in additional members next meeting, which will be held next Friday evening, May 29.

A goodly interest was displayed but owing to previous engagements of Houston's orchestra several musicians were absent and the charter application is being delayed on that account as the boys felt the charter should comprise 100 per cent. from the outset.

PORTLAND ORCHESTRA HERE
A quartet of Portland musicians, known as the Broadway Novelty orchestra, have arrived in Klamath Falls to play at local and out-of-town dances in and around the city during the summer. T. V. Shipman is leader of the novelty four jazz musicians.

See The HILLAH MONSTER

In Our Island Window Until 10 a. m. Sunday

GILA (PRONOUNCED HEELY)
From The Burning Sands of the Mojave Desert, U.S.A.

The Grand Advance Agent of Potentate Emil Britt and his Shrine patrol from Hillah temple—All Novices who cross the burning sands will be allowed to kiss the monster as a special reward of valor.

Zoological Facts About Gila Monster—This reptilian quadruped, with beaded skin, was captured in Salt River valley, Arizona. This animal is supposed to be deadly poison. More so than a rattlesnake, maybe. Scientists are undetermined as to its venomous characteristics. Generally a person bitten by one of these dies. Some however recover. Never seen in a circus. This is the chance for you to see one of the Creator's most curious and scarce freaks of nature. They are found only in the great American desert of Arizona and New Mexico, in the United States. It is said the Navajo and blanket weaving Indians of the south got their patterns originally from the patterns of the gila monsters, no two of them being the same. It's coloring is protective, making it hard to see in its natural habitation. Gila monsters are scarce because of the long periods between reproductions.

This monster takes food but once in ten to fourteen days, and a drink less often. Its diet is eggs, one at a time. If he had a hump in his back he would become a symbol of thirst as has the camel. Scientists have estimated the age of this reptile quadruped at two hundred ten (210) years. Each black stripe estimated to count for twenty years of time. This one is within an inch and seven-eighths of being as long as the largest one known to have ever been captured. Some folks pet them like a friendly dog. Take a look at this one and see its tongue flash in and out. Then decide whether you want to order one for a mouse trap or a pet.

Shrine News—Hillah Temple, Southern Jurisdiction of Oregon, Ashland, holds its spring ceremonial here for initiation of novices who desire to cross the burning sands. Ceremonial will be held in Scandinavian Hall Saturday night, May 23. Shrine colors are red, green, yellow. Extend to visiting Shriners the hospitality and courtesy of the entire city of Klamath Falls.
