

Sammy Olson And Rocky Strambo Re-Matched Here In Big

TWO BOYS WHO FOUGHT SLASHING 10-ROUND DRAW, SETTLE DISPUTE HERE JUNE 19; OTHER GOOD BOUTS

Carlson and Coffman Rematched On A Winner Take All Basis; Myers and Harris On Card As Well As New Faces

In line with the policy of Promoter Brownie, to make each local fight card just a little better than the one before, announcement came from Scandinavian hall headquarters last night that a big double main attraction would be staged Tuesday night, June 16.

Of the two big main events, the outstanding will be the return engagement of Swede Olson and Rocky Strambo, the two gents who fought a draw, and put up the best scrap ever seen in a local ring when they met last month.

Here's the lowdown on how they happened to be re-matched. Rocky made a statement to The News before leaving, that if ever matched with Olson again he could give him one great mauling; that Olson hadn't landed one blow that was felt under the skin. But this bird Rocky didn't stick around long enough for Olson to fling a comeback. Olson, however, did come back and came back with a loud ballyhoo (after Rocky was out of hearing distance—way up in Spokane) that if Rocky had noticed this around before leaving he would attempt to match up with Rocky on the last card. Rocky finally heard this bold challenge of the Galesburg Swede, and has been burning the wires up to Brownie to get the matchmaker to sign the two up. Brownie, scenting the feeling of hostility, immediately got the two boys together on a 50 per cent winner, 40 loser basis. Without a doubt that last Strambo-Olson tangle was a Klamath classic. Without a doubt it should pan out the same way this time.

The other main attraction is the John Carlson-Joe Coffman affair. The two boys put up the best scrap on the last card here. And here's the lowdown on the way these boys were signed up. Carlson, who lost the decision to Coffman, is so confident he can stage a comeback that he is entering the ring on the next card on a winner-take-all proposition. Did Coffman accept? He'd be a danged old fool if he didn't, with one lacing over Carlson to his credit. So there'll be a neat little pot for these two game youngsters to go after.

Maurice Harris, of Ashland, has been induced to come here to fight the semi-windup with Hyne Myers, who socked Wilbur Harrington down in short work on the last card. Harris also has knocked the stuffing out of Harrington. So, on the face of things, the two boys look like a pretty even match. Neither Harris nor Myers have had a real chance to show their stuff here, because of weak opponents. This should be the crucial and acid test.

Two new faces will be seen in the preliminaries in Gunboat Smith, of Chico, a protege and sparring partner of Swede Olson. Gunboat will meet up with Jack Brush of Sacramento. These two boys have never been seen in action here, but they look like comers in their daily workouts at the Scan.

Pelicans Average For Hitting .240; Doc Noel in Lead

Doc Noel, Pelican slugging center-fielder, is leading the team batting, after three league games since the season opened. Doc went ahead of Al Norwest in the last game against Weed, when Norwest, after leading the league in batting, was at bat five times, failing to get a hit. The team's batting average is .240, or an average of 8 hits for each three games played thus far.

Player	AB	H	Pct.
Noel	12	5	.417
Carroll	5	2	.400
Norwest	13	5	.385
Mathews	12	4	.333
Watts	9	3	.333
Mohler	10	2	.200
Arnold	9	2	.222
Clark	9	1	.111
Bannister	2	0	.000
Foster	1	0	.000
Demitt	7	0	.000
Bayness	11	0	.000

Yanks Meet Defeat At Hands of Bucky Harris' Champions

The great winning streak of the New York Yanks, which had stretched almost as long as a split second, was finally brought to a finish yesterday when Dutch Reuther, the nomad southpaw of the major leagues held them in check at the Yank stadium.

The Washington Senators won 8 to 3. The Yanks had won two games in a row equalling their own record for the season. The Senators broke even on the series, but despite their victory they are still three full games behind the Athletics, who lead the league in defiance of the probabilities as they were estimated before the season began. The Athletics beat the Red Sox in Boston, 12 to 2, and have done even better than the so-called perfect ball club, the New York Giants. Connie Mack's team has won 30 out of 43 games, and the Giants have won 29 out of 42.

The third game of the day in the American league was a victory for the Cleveland Indians over the Browns in Cleveland, 11 to 10. The Indians scored 3 in the last half of the ninth to win.

As a starter for their tour of the west, the Giants nosed out Rogers Hornsby's Cards in St. Louis, 11 to 10. It was the first meeting of the teams since Branch Rickey and the Sunday school regime were removed from control of the Cards, and it was also the first defeat the Cards had suffered since Hornsby took hold of them.

The Brooklyn Dodgers are slipping toward third place, for the Cubs beat them in Chicago 11 to 9, while the Pirates, just behind the Brooklyn team won from the Phils in Pittsburgh 16 to 3.

The day's work was all but a clean sweep for western teams in the National, as the Reds beat the Braves in Cincinnati, 7 to 6 in 11 innings. The Cards were the only losers in the home phalanx.

GIBBONS-TUNNEY SCRAP TOMORROW NIGHT EXPECTED TO BE MERELY A CLEAN BOXING MATCH—WITHOUT KO

NEW YORK, June 4.—The prize fight business will climb out of its striped sweater Friday night and out from under the cap that has lopped over its muffin ear ever since John L. Sullivan was a preliminary boy.

A pair of prize fighters who are almost too sweet for the business, will fight 15 rounds for the championship of nowhere at all.

One of them will tear himself away from the midst of his numerous family to go to his work, and the other, an intellectual fellow, who positively never says "ain't got no" will lay aside his volume of essays and turn down the lamp of his study, to meet him. They are, in the order of these descriptions, Tommy Gibbons of St. Paul, Minn., who took to the ring as a second guess in life after he had prepared himself for a career in the steam-fitting profession, and Gene Tunney, of Greenwich Village, New York city, where misunderstood young intellectuals of both genders used to congregate, to live their lives in their own way and wear Russian smocks if they wished, without interference from the faculty, the police or the board of health.

This match between Gibbons and Tunney has been emphasized to the extent that the Polo Grounds probably will be full of expensive trade Friday, on the ground that the winner will emerge as the true challenger of Jack Dempsey and, probably the next heavyweight championship of the world.

There is no law to prevent Tom Gibbons or Gene Tunney from amusing himself with such an idea, but the fact should be kept in mind that Jack Dempsey has incurred a wife and a career in the speechless drama of the movies, to say nothing of a refined distaste for the low conducts of the prize fight business. Thus there is no noisy likelihood that Dempsey will ever fight the winner, or anyone else.
