BOXERS IN FINE CONDITION FOR BIG FIGHT CARD TUESDAY NIGHT

Scandal is running riot through the bunch of leather pushers the promoters of Scandinavian hall have assembled for Tuesday night's program. The boys are getting "caty" which is a natural result of good fighting condition. The principals have all worked hard and are in the prediction stage.

Sammy Olson says he will knock Rocco Strambo loose from his fighting legs. Rocco comes back with the rejoinder that he will knock Sammy over into his manager's lap. Johnny Carlson says he will put Joe Coffman to sleep, but Joe's repartee is to the effect that he will send Johnny down "queer street."

Hyne Myers is like the man on a roof with a mouth full of shingle nails—he has nothing to say—but the little slugger has won a home with the fans here and goes about his work in journeyman style. Maurice Harris is a hard hitter and this go may furnish plenty of pyrotechnics.

The beef trust comes on the scene as a curtain raiser when Gunboat Smith, a 200 pounder will exchange swats with a leviathan in the person of Jack Brush.

The whole card is a well balanced affair and does not suffer by comparison with programs put on by clubs in other localities that seek national support. There are no champions among them but some of the "rail birds" are predicting bright futures for one or two of the boys.

Olson is a faithful trainer and is always just about the "pink," but it was learned after his recent battle with Rocco that Sammy had been sick and that he weakened in the latter part of the fight. All admit that he has a good left hand with a good extension to it; that he is not an easy mark to hit. He came here with a good record and his local performances have gained for him many followers.

Strambo has been working out with Tiny Herman in Portland. Herman, who is training for his fight with Martin Burke, at New Orleans, June 29, is a terrific hitter and this should enable Rocco to absorb Sammy's heavy gun shocks. The fact should not be overlooked that Rocco owns some "burling berthas" himself and any time he lands on an opponent's mumbler or solar plexus the canaries start to warble.

Joe Coffman in the semi-wind-up is a fast shifty boxer and has had the advantage of working out with Frankie Murphy since the old master arrived here from the coast. Coffman and Murphy have been roughing it for the past few days and Joe is confident that he will be returned the winner in his bout with Carlson. Johnny hits as hard as any boy in his class and is ready for the go. This bout should be a humdinger.

Hyne Myers in the special event has been taking on all comers from Sam Olson down to the rubbers in his workouts. Myers asks no favors in his training and when his stable mates want to get rough Hyne adopts the Roman maxim and goes the way of the least resistance. If they want to be lady-like the little boxer assumes the role of a gentleman, but when they get rough, he makes a fight of it.

Harris who will oppose Myers seems to be a boy of the same temperament as Hyne and is not adverse to exchange wallops with any of the numerous classy boxers that are working here. His friends concede nothing to Myers and think Harris will make the little fighter step lively.

Gunboat Smith and Jack Brush promise to start the show off with a bang.

Rocco arrived here last night. He was expected to arrive Friday night, but advised over the long distance that he was working out in Portland and would be in good condition when he arrived. The big Italian fights frequently and is not far from fit at any time.

The work of training is tapering off and yesterday was probably the last of the all-around work. Reports from managers and close observers are to the effect that all the principals are fit "lets go."

The out-of-town supporters of the boxers are making reservations and for the information of local fans tickets are now on sale at The Smoke, the Mecca, the Pastime and the Waldorf.

Rocco Strombo made the announcement last night upon his arrival here that he has signed up to fight Jack Rennie at Vancouver, B. C., and "Kid" Norfolk at Seattle June 26.

Rocco is looking fine and will work out today at 2:30 p. m.

Paul Berlenbach must gain two decided victories before he can claim a clear hold on the world's light heavyweight championship. He must lower the colors of Jack Delaney and Jimmy Slattery before he can sleep at night serene in the thought that no one is waiting outside his door with a maul.

Delaney already has a knockout victory over Berlenbach. Slattery has proved conclusively that he is one of the cleverest and hardest hitting light heavies in the game. The very night that Berlenbach outpointed McTigue to win the title Slattery gave a more impressive exhibition of boxing in the same ring while knocking out Jack Burke.

Berlenbach committed himself to a match with Delaney at the time he signed up for the go with McTigue. And unless he shows to better advantage than he did the last time against hammering Jack, there may be a new champion in the one-horse class in a couple of weeks.

Jack Dunn's Baltimore Orioles aren't making as much of a run-away race in the International League as they have in recent seasons. Therefore there is great joy in the box office of almost every club in the circuit. All four first division clubs still have better than a mathematical chance to beat out the Orioles. And efforts of the second division clubs to bounce any one of the first division clubs are drawing big crowds.

As a result estimates place the increase in gate receipts this year, to date, over last season at about 20 per cent.

Incidentally the Toronto club has hit the stride that Manager Dan Howley prophesied in Augusta last spring. Toronto would have won a pennant last season had Baltimore not had Lefty Groves. Howley's outfit won enough games to give a

NEW YORK, June 13.—Waite Hoyt turned in his first win of the season today, and the Yankees ended up the series with the Cleveland Indians by defeating them, 7 to 4.

Hoyt had quite a struggle until the last half of the seventh, when, with men on the bases, due to a base on balls and error, Bob Meusel hit his 16th homer of the year in the left field stands. The attendance was 20,000.

Score— R. H. E.
Cleveland 4 10 4
New York 7 11 0

Batteries—Uhle and Myatt; Hoyt and Schang.

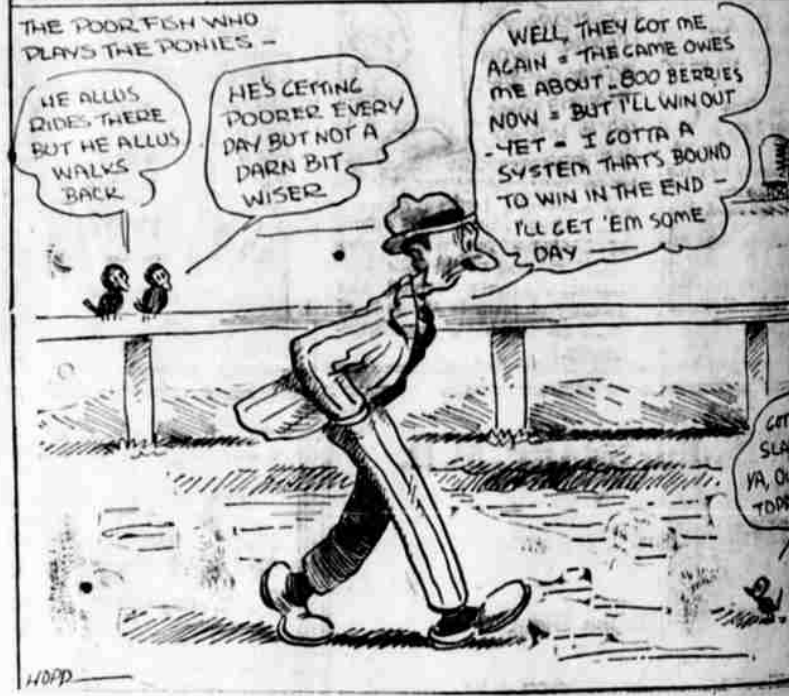

BOSTON, June 13.—The Browns defeated the Red Sox, 7 to 6 today. They also won the series, three to one. The Browns hit Zahntzer for 11 hits in seven innings, while the Sox made 12 off Gaston. Todt was the hitting demon of the day, getting three out of four.
