

K. F. SPORTSMEN TO HAVE PICNIC

Klamath Sportsmen's association met in regular session last night at the chamber of commerce rooms. Considerable business of routine nature was transacted, but the most interesting was the arrangements concerning the celebration of the wind-up of the membership campaign. The original plans embraced a banquet to be given by the association, at which the losing team was to act as waiters, but this was abandoned in favor of a basket picnic to be given at the Crooked Creek hatchery, Sunday, June 28, and committees were appointed to attend to the arrangements of the affair. Percy Southwick, Jud Short and Alvo Whitlatch were appointed as a committee to catch the fish for the big fish fry, and arrange the hatchery grounds for the comfort of the guests. Rosecoe Largent, C. C. Johnson, E. F. Duffy, Gene Campbell and Homer Knight will be the chefs for the occasion. A. R. Renner will attend to the coffee. The baskets will be received and spread by another committee to be put to work after they arrive at the grounds.

The Crooked Creek hatchery grounds are state grounds, and are beautifully located for such an event, and furthermore, it is a point of interest that all will enjoy visiting, especially at this time of the year.

Your membership card in the association will be your meal ticket for the occasion, so if you haven't got one yet, hustle around and get it before June 28, or you will be held up at the picnic grounds for a dollar before you can fall in line for the feed. Bring your basket, and what you figure your crowd will eat, and don't forget the date—Sunday, June 28.

CITY BIDS OPEN ON SEWAGE BOND

The city council last night at their regular weekly meeting opened bids on the $9,037.16 Sixth Sewer Unit Deficit Bonds and owing to the remarkable closeness of two of the three bids the final acceptance was left to the finance committee to decide.

The First National bank of Klamath Falls offered par at 5 1/2 per cent interest for the issue and the Lumbermen's Trust Co. of Portland offered $102.47 per hundred at 6 per cent. According to Merle West, head of the finance committee, the difference between these two bids on the total $9,037.16 will amount to only a few cents, and this will probably stand as a record for close bidding on city bonds for some time to come. The third bidder was Freeman-Smith & Camp of Portland, with an offer of $102.373 per $100 at 6 per cent. This bid was also considered remarkably close to the first two.

Ordinances for the surfacing of three more paving units were passed their first and second readings last night, the first being East Main to its connection with Sixth street to be surfaced with crushed rock or gravel, the second unit to be paved with concrete or bitulithic was Ninth street north to High, and the third, Huron street from Pacific Terrace and Esplanade to Eiderado. In these three units the police judge was empowered to call bids.

Showing that the present epidemic for hard surfacing of Klamath streets is still in full swing, City Engineer Gene Henry last night presented estimates on paving for four more small districts, Washington street from 7th. to 8th., Jefferson from 9th to the Irrigation canal, the alleys in block 14 and 15 of the original townsite, and Lincoln street from 11th to the cemetery.

KLAMATH KIDDIES REACH CORVALLIS

"The delegation arrived safely at 6:40 Sunday evening all well."

Such is the communication received by the Klamath News from Frank Sexton, Klamath County club leader, who had under his wing more than 60 boys and girls from Klamath county who took advantage of the 12th annual summer school offering of six weeks at the Oregon Agricultural college in Corvallis. The course is given in the interest of the boys and girls club work throughout the state and Klamath county was given the first session for, during the past four years, the largest delegation to the school has been sent from Klamath county.

The group left Sunday morning at 6 o'clock for Ashland where they boarded a special train for the valley city. A number of Klamath Falls business men offered their cars in order to save the transportation over the mountains. Those who motored the boys and girls to Ashland were: Willard Peyton, H. N. Moo, John C. Boyle, L. P. Sablin, W. H. Lodge, James Swanson, O. M. Hector, Christ Blanas, Sidney Abbott, R. C. Thomas and E. H. Balsiger.

Moving pictures will be kept of all activities of the camp life, including the boys and girls at work at play during their recreation hours, during study periods and class recitations and how they are cared for in general during the six week period.

unless complications set in. Sheriff Hawkins, whose wife will have a little job of patching to do today on a trousers leg, where a bullet passed through, declared after the gun battle: "That man Kendall is game to the last. He stood up in a dazed condition and traded shot for shot with the crazed Burk."

At 4 o'clock this morning it was reported at the hospital that Kendall would have to be operated on at 8 o'clock in the morning. The operation will be on his shattered arm, and possibly a portion of the shoulder.

War Time Romance Is Shattered By Adultery

LONDON, June 15.—Another war time romance between a British peer and a gaily girl has sunk in the sea of marital discontent. The Marchioness of Queensbury whose name was Irene Richards when she was cavorting on the stage of the famous Gaiety theatre, was divorced Monday by the marquis. His lordship alleged that his marchioness had been living since December of last year with Sir James Hamet Dunn.

FEELING AGAINST BRITAIN
PEKING, June 15.—Crowds of Chinese visited the foreign office Monday and later the home of the foreign minister, demanding that China sever relations with Great Britain.
