ROCKY PLAYS LOSING GAME FROM FIRST ROUND, BUT FIGHTS GAMELY ON; COFFMAN LACES KID CARLSON

Frankie Murphy Challenges Olson And May Be Next Headliner; Kid Harris Gives Fans Something To Yell About With Flashy Work

Sammy Olson knocked out Rocco Strambo in the tenth round in the headliner bout at Scandinavian hall last night. Up to the final round of the bout Olson had dealt Strambo a severe drubbing. Round after round he left-handed Rocco, and almost invariably the piston-like south paw of the six feet, one and one-half inches of Swede brawn and muscle found its mark on the Italian's face and body. As early in the fight as the third round Sam had Rocco staggering around the ring in a helpless condition, but the former sparring partner of Jack Dempsey took everything that came his way, and weathered through until the gong sent the men to their corners for a minute's rest.

Round after round, Olson followed the same tactics, and it seems that there was no end to Rocco's endurance. One minute and fifteen seconds after the bell rang, calling the men to the center for the final round, Olson suddenly changed his tactics and started a right hook for Rocco's upper section. The blow landed square on the chin and the punch-drunk Italian went down for the count of nine. Just ten seconds later Sam sent a right hand hook to the solar plexus, and the Italian sank to the floor and remained there while the referee counted the fatal count of ten. Rocco's seconds rushed into the ring and carried him to his corner and worked on him for several minutes before he was able to leave the ring. Rocco took his punishment bravely, trying always for an opening to put his own deadly right to the button, but Olson's defense and reach were invulnerable to the Italian.

Joe Coffman Wins
The semi-windup event was a fast, clever go. Joe Coffman winning easily over Johnny Carlson. Johnny put up a good fight, but Joe was in wonderful condition and fast as a flash. Joe was the aggressor throughout.

The first round was about even, with the men sizing each other up. The second, third and fourth were Coffman's by a mile. The fifth round was even. The last round Coffman won by a Mormon block. The crowd was decidedly Coffman, and the decision was well received.

Harris-Myers Bout Draw
In the special six-round bout between Hyne Myers and Maurice Harris, the crowd shook the house from cellar to garret, especially in the fifth round, when Harris floored Hyne with a straight right to the jaw. Hyne took the count of five, and upon rising was landed the right again, but the game little plasterer started after Harris with renewed vigor, and finally fell into a clinch.

Up to the fifth, Myers had given Harris a terrific lacing. It was Hyne's fight all the way up to the knockdown. In the sixth Myers tore into Harris and had the Ashland boy out on his feet all through the round. The go was declared a draw, which was not received well by the crowd.

Gunboat Smith and Joe Walters fought a four-round draw. The atmosphere received a heavy lacing in this go. The whole card was well received, and the fans showed their appreciation by liberal cheering.

Murphy Challenges
Frankie Murphy was introduced just before the main event started, and challenged the winner of the match. Murphy has been working here for the past ten days, and has made a tremendous hit with the fans, and the consensus of opinion is that he is the logical contender for the headliner in the next card.

Noel and Arnold in Tie for Individual Hitting Distinction

Five Pelicans Are Hitting Above .300; Stick Work Has Been Improving

Individual batting of the Pelicans has undergone some peculiar changes in the past few games. It seems that those who started out strong are in a slump and those who appeared to be weak in the first three games have demonized with the stick in the past two. The real leaders of the league are Doc Noel and Bert Arnold, who are in a tie for first honors. Norwest, Mohler and Matthews are the only other serious contenders for the highest average. The list follows:

GENE TUNNEY TO TAKE DEMPSEY? NOT FOR AWHILE

NEW YORK, June 16.—Gene Tunney has no hope of fighting Jack Dempsey this year, and very little desire, for that matter. Realizing that another 12-month of luxurious living and idling will bring Dempsey into the ring with an unbroken three-year stretch of inactivity behind him, Tunney is willing to force a match for the championship this summer and devote the interval to the concurrent tasks of perfecting and collecting.

Billy Gibson, who lost one meal ticket when Benny Leonard got fat, but picked up another when he purchased Tunney's contract for a pint of shillings, has arranged five dates for Tunney, within the next six weeks or two months. Gene will go on tour, upsetting a selected group of top-heavy tumblers for exercise, and profit, beginning with a bout at East Chicago, Ind., with Tiny Jim Herman of Omaha. His next patient will be Italian Jack Herman, the sleeping beauty of Hackensack, N. J., who used to be Luis Firpo's favorite partner. Kansas City will be the site of Herman's Titanic slumber, and July 3 the date.

In the fall or winter, Tunney probably will fight the winner of the Harry Wills-Charley Weinert bout of July 2. Tex Rickard will try to entice the winner into a match with Tunney at the new Madison Square Garden, and thereby build up the war veteran for a magnificent promotion at one of the ball yards, when the flowers bloom again.

"Around the World College" Will Teach 450 on High Seas

The S. S. Orduna is being prepared for use as an "Around the World College." It will sail from New York in September under the sponsorship of New York University for a 240 day cruise. Classes will be held on board for the 450 students, and the work done will count as a part of their regular college course. Dean James E. Lough (above) of N. Y. U., is director of the experiment.

SPORTS DONE BROWN

Gene Tunney today stands in the front ranks of the heavyweights because of his knockout victory over the veteran Tommy Gibbons recently.

Gibbons starts the one-way journey down the road to retirement and oblivion. But one query prompts itself as an afterthought of their recent battle.

That query is: What about the Dempsey-Gibbons affair?

Ever since the day of that fight there has been talk that Jack carried Gibbons along. Some of this talk was backed up by the statement that certain individuals, at the point of a gun, explained to Dempsey's manager, Jack Kearns, that Gibbons must be on his feet at the end of the fight.

To Gibbons' defense, however, came his friends with the statement that Dempsey, up to his meeting with the St. Paul man, had never met such a skillful defensive boxer and ring general as Thomas the Gibb. They pointed out that Gibbons was the first man in Dempsey's experience who was clever enough to stop the Manassa Mauler's short, annihilating body punches.

Let's accept this last idea. If this was the case what is Dempsey's status right now? The man who was reputed to be too clever for Dempsey, got socked on the head by Tunney so often that he finally fell to the floor, groggy and gone.

The man who stopped the terrific short punches of the so-called greatest puncher in the world, couldn't stop or take what Tunney, young and still a bit lacking in experience, offered.

Figure that out. Supposing Dempsey was trying at Shelby. Where, then, does he stand in relation to Mr. Tunney?

Gene Tunney's victory over Gibbons was clean cut and decisive. Gibbons has and offers no alibi for his defeat. Youth told over age once more, Gibbons was two years older than he was the day he met Dempsey. But those two years—22 months spent in careful living, regular workouts and training for at least one big fight, cannot be blamed for the defeat.

The outstanding result of that Tunney-Gibbons battle is the queer light it throws on the Dempsey-Gibbons affair.

One of the things Eddie Collins has done in whipping the White Sox into a winning ball club is to give Johnny Mostil a permanent home in centerfield. For years Johnny never knew in what field the next day would find him.

TY COBB JUGGLES AND MUFFS EASY FLY BALL; BABE RUTH THIRD HOMER OF BELATED

Giants In Slump, Have Dropped Five Straight Big League Season Is One Third Over And Athletics Look Like Winners

(By United News-Express Wire) New York, June 16.—Even though Ty Cobb muffed a fly ball that a substitute fielder for the Brindville Bloomer girls could have caught in her hip pocket, even though Babe Ruth hit a home run, his third of the season with a man on base, the New York Yankees broke their ninth two-game winning streak of the season when they lost to the Tigers in New York Tuesday afternoon. The score was 5 to 3.

There were four official mistakes in the Yanks report card, but the Brooklyn Dodgers made eight in losing a game to the Reds, and there were 35 altogether in the eighth games in both societies. The St. Louis Cards were the only club to come through the day with a horse collar or zero in the error column. Cobb's muff and Ruth's homer, two great spectacles, occurred in the last half of the third inning. There were two out when Shanks of the Yanks raised a short fly to Cobb who played it so badly that Shanks went to third before the Tigers could get the ball back into useful displayed in the recent French tennis championship tourney—her first real effort since her illness of a year ago—indicates that she is ready for a brilliant season, a season that bodes ill for her European rivals.

If this be the case it is to be regretted that she and Miss Helen Wills, pride of America, are not slated to meet this season. Miss Wills does not plan to go abroad, and so far no effort has been made to bring the French star to the U. S.

However, despite a nervous temperament that forces her to seek rest at times, Miss Lengien seems able to play on, year after year, at her best. Miss Wills, with another season's experience behind her, will be at the top of her form. In 1924, it is to be hoped, will see these two queens of the court cross racquets.
