

Editorial and Feature Page of Klamath News

THE KLAMATH NEWS

Owned and Published by
KLAMATH NEWS PUBLISHING COMPANY (Incorporated)
 Officers and Directors: Nate Otterbein, president; Byron H. Hurd vice-president; Ben H. Stevenson, secretary; Walter Stronach, treasurer.
 (Constituting the owners of the entire outstanding stock issue.)
 B. H. STEVENSON Managing Editor
 J. W. McDONALD Editor
 WALTER WEST Business Manager

Entered at the Postoffice at Klamath Falls, Oregon, as second-class matter.
PUBLISHED EVERY MORNING EXCEPT MONDAY
 Office I. O. O. F. Building, 102-122 S. Fifth St.
 Telephone 877

Address all communications and make all remittances payable to
THE KLAMATH NEWS PUBLISHING COMPANY

In ordering change of address, subscribers should always give the old as well as the new address

Subscription Rates—All Subscriptions Payable in Advance

Delivered by Carrier, per month	$ 30
Delivered by Carrier, six months	2.50
Delivered by Carrier, one year	5.00
Outside Klamath County	5.00

FULL LEASED WIRE, UNITED NEWS AND UNITED PRESS
 (Longest in the World)

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE CITY OF KLAMATH FALLS

"Let us have faith that right makes might, and in that faith let us to the end dare to do our duty as we understand it"—Abraham Lincoln

KLAMATH FALLS, CAPITAL CITY OF THE LAND OF CONTENTMENT

To dream is not the prerogative of the impractical. All the successful men have the ability to build castles in the future—not the ephemeral structures of the day-dreamer, but edifices founded upon reality. Their dreams are blueprints drawn with an eye upon probabilities and possibilities.

Klamath Falls has been called the "Capital City of the Land of Contentment." Jay Upton, State Senator, who knows Oregon, who knows the Pacific Coast, who knows the west, has likened Klamath county to the land of paradise and Klamath Falls its capital. Senator Upton on Sunday rode south from Klamath Falls "through miles of productive lands and magnificent timber, crossed over streams of life-giving water, saw oil derricks rising to the sky, viewed herds grazing on the hillsides—peace and plenty appeared on all sides." The senator recounted the present promised railroad development here and predicted this county would become a rail center of outstanding importance. His vision of a greater Klamath Falls and Klamath county is not an idle speculation, nor is it a sop thrown on the public. He told us of the grounds upon which he bases his prediction and his grounds are good.

The territory embraced in Klamath county—a commonwealth as large as Delaware—has over 30,000,000,000 feet of standing marketable timber; over 400,000 acres adaptable to agriculture, nearly half of which is under gravity irrigation systems with an abundance of water available; $4,000,000 worth of live stock and poultry. These are the potential natural resources, not considering the specialized agricultural products, dairying, box manufacturing, lumber mills and allied industries.

Already peoples in all parts of the nation have their eyes on our wonderful county and before long Klamath will be a county which will startle us in its strides toward leadership.

NO TREES TO BURN

Each person who goes into a national forest to enjoy the shade, the streams, the quiet and peace of 'God's first temples' should constitute himself a committee of one on prevention of the destruction of our trees. The American public is one of the greatest offenders in forest destruction because of its carelessness with fire.

Matches are kept from small children who have no sense of responsibility. This should not be necessary in the case of adults. One tree will make millions of matches, and one match can destroy a million dollars' worth of trees. The future of our nation depends largely upon a lasting supply of timber. We have no trees to burn.

Some of our leading families are leading the bill collectors by a scant yard.

Watch Your Step!

HEART AND HOME PROBLEM

Youth must have the companionship of youth. Mothers who make it difficult for their children to meet other young people on an equal footing, in congenial surroundings, make a grave mistake. Of course the mother who does not allow her daughter to go out at night except when chaperoned or in unquestionable company, is wise. And even then young girls should not be allowed to "run" too much, because growing boys and girls need plenty of sleep and rest. But young girls should be allowed to meet their friends in their own homes frequently. Mothers can help by planning little picnics or small dances, with light refreshments and phonograph music. When young people are not encouraged to meet under such wholesome circumstances then they meet secretly in dance halls or other questionable resorts.

The letter that follows is representative of many hundreds I regularly receive:

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of sixteen and am fairly good looking. Why is it that I am not popular with either sex? I know it is not because of my clothes because I have all that I want and don't get a chance to wear them out. I wish I could get acquainted with one boy that was really a boy. My mother does not allow me to go out very often at night, and I think that is one reason no one wants to go with me. They all say I'm too slow because I won't let them kiss and hug me everytime I'm with a boy. Please tell me if I should go out without letting my mother know or just sit in the house at night.

BASHFUL PEG.
 You are too young to need to worry about your unpopularity with boys, but you should have some girl friends. However, your mother is acting wisely in not allowing you to go out nights unchaperoned. Confide in your mother and make her your ally. Ask her to let you give a party now and then for both boys and girls. Surely she won't object to that.

UNIQUE QUESTION
 "Dear Mrs. Thompson: Is there such a thing as keeping the children too young? My daughter is fifteen

Billy Sunday stopped a newsboy in a city where he was conducting a revival and inquired the way to the postoffice.
 "Up one block and turn to the right," said the boy.
 "You seem a bright little fellow," said Sunday. "Do you know who I am?"
 "Nope!"
 "I'm Billy Sunday, and if you come to my meeting tonight I'll show you the way to heaven."
 "Aw, go on!" answered the youngster; "you didn't even know the way to the post office."

The colored minister was loud in his praise for the goose which Elder Johnson had served for dinner.

Finally he said: "Brother Johnson, where did you get such a fine, fat, tasty goose?"
 "Pahson," replied the elder, "when you preach a specially good sermon, does I ever ast you where you got it at?"

When Queen Liliuokalani was in England during the English queen's jubilee, she was received at Buckingham palace. In the course of the remarks that passed between the two queens the one from the Hawaiian islands said that she had English blood in her veins.
 "How so?" inquired Victoria.
 "My ancestors ate Captain Cook," replied Liliuokalani without a smile.

Klamath Post Legion Delegates Off To Big Convention Tomorrow

Klamath Falls delegates to the state American Legion convention to be held in Prineville the coming week-end, will meet delegates from all of southern Oregon, at Fort Klamath on Wednesday, to proceed in a caravan to Prineville. Other southern Oregon cities to make the trip besides Klamath Falls, will include Medford, Roseburg, Ashland, Grants Pass, North Bend, Marshfield, Bandon, and other cities. The visitors will go through the Medford entrance to Crater Lake on their way to Fort Klamath. Advertising Klamath county will be one of the main features of the trip, according to Dr. G. A. Newson, who will be one of the delegates.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

MENU HINT
 Breakfast
 Grapefruit
 Cooked Cereal, Sugar and Cream
 Bacon and Eggs
 Potatoes Creamed
 Coffee
 Luncheon
 New Potatoes, Mint Sauce
 Spinach
 Green Peppers Stuffed with Eggs
 Cream Muffins, Maple Syrup
 Dinner
 Roast Veal, Brown Sauce
 Mashed Potatoes
 Buttered New Peas
 Salad in Cucumber Boat
 Molded Dessert with Whipped Cream
 Angel Cake Coffee

TODAY'S RECIPES
Bacon and Eggs—Have the bacon cut in thin slices, dip first in beaten egg, then in cornmeal or cracker crumbs. Fry brown and lay in two rows the length of the platter, then a row crosswise. Break the eggs (allowing one or more to each person) into warm, buttered skillet, season with salt, pepper and a little butter or thick cream; stir carefully as soon as they begin to whiten. Have the bacon where it will keep warm and as soon as the eggs are cooked make a border around the bacon and serve at once.
Green Peppers Stuffed with Eggs—Cut a slice from the stem end of the peppers, remove the seeds and plunge the peppers into boiling water. Cook them for ten minutes and drain them. Fill the peppers with nicely seasoned cooked chicken, minced fine. Bake five minutes, basting once or twice, then drop an egg into each pepper; finish cooking; serve at once on rounds of hot buttered toast. Garnish with asparagus tips or parsley.
Cream Muffins—Mix together well the yolk of one egg, two tablespoons sugar, one cup sweet milk and one-half cup melted butter. Sift in a little flour to which has been added two tablespoons of baking powder and the stiff white of the egg. Add enough sifted flour to make a thick batter. Bake in muffin pans in a moderately hot oven.
Tomato Salad in Cucumber Boat—Remove seed pulp from the cucumber so as to form a boat. Cut the pulp into cubes. Sprinkle with salt and set on ice. Have ready some fresh tomatoes cut in cubes. Chop, drain the cucumber pulp, place it on top of tomato and fill cucumber boats, sprinkle with a work done, or at least, that we have tried to do the work.

The professional optimists would have us believe that there is more of a reward than this. But, let us look at it as Carlyle did: "If a man gets meat and clothes, what matters it whether he have $10,000 or $10,000,000, or $500 a year? He can get meat and clothes for that; and he will find very little difference intrinsically, if he is a wise man."

One of the wisest of men offers this advice: "Don't be ambitious; don't be at all too desirous of success; be loyal and modest." Materially, this may not be the best of advice, but there is a nobler ambition than owning a gold-trimmed limousine, encrusted with diamonds.

In an address to a group of students, Carlyle said: "I have no doubt that you will have among you people ardently bent to consider life cheap, for the purpose of getting forward in what they are aiming at of high; and you are to consider throughout, much more than is done at present, that death is a thing to be attended to continually—that you are to regard that as the very highest of temporal things to you."

"There is no kind of achievement you could make in the world that is equal to perfect health."

What are nuggets and millions? An American financier said recently: "Alas, why is there no sleep to be sold?" Sleep was not in the market at any quotation. And he, with millions and insomnia, died for lack of it.

Carlyle imagined a perfect man as being one with his intellect a clear, plain geometric mirror, brilliantly sensitive of all objects and impressions around it, and imagining all things in their correct proportions—not twisted up into convex or concave, and distorting everything, so that he cannot see the truth of the matter without endless groping—healthy, clear, and free.

Here, then, is something more to be desired than the things that most men seek.

DINNER STORIES

It was just after the banquet and toasts were the order. The toastmaster arose to introduce a prominent elderly speaker, and said: "Gentlemen, you have just been giving your attention to a turkey stuffed with sage. Now you will please give your attention to a sage stuffed with turkey."

THE BEST OF ADVICE

A good gentleman discourses at some length on the question of whether this is as good a time to live as the golden days of Greece and Rome. Why worry about such a matter, since all of us must live now?

Carlyle once expressed himself to the effect that there is one thing a man is born to in all epochs. He is born to expend every particle of strength the Almighty has given him, in doing the work he finds he is fit for—to stand it out to the last breath of life, and do his best.

We are called upon to do that; and the reward we get—which we are perfectly sure of if we have merited it—is that we have got the

Children's Pictorial Cross Word

HOW TO SOLVE
 The words start in the squares and run either down. Only one letter in each white square. The words are four, and the letters in the white will form words. The puzzle—the first word—the drawing. Below are the other words.

Running Across
 Word 1. In the picture
 Word 5. A conjunction Word 7. Scattered
 bed of loose straw.
 Word 10. A prefix
 Word 11. Opposite
 Word 12. A national banner; a naval officer.
 Word 15. The same as
 Word 16. In bed.

Running Down
 Word 2. A little child
 Word 3. Skill
 Word 4. A number together or under the same Word 6. A large person that doesn't make any Word 8. A way to Word 9. Common food.
 Word 13. To weep with ing of the breath.
 Word 14. Wealth

SUNDAY'S PUZZLE ANSWER

