WETS JOIN DRY IN ENFORCEMENT ON HIGHER PLANE

Politics Now Eliminated From Bureau; Petty Raiding To Stop

WASHINGTON, June 24.—Wets and drys, in agreement probably for the first time in history, have joined in approving the new reorganization of prohibition enforcement machinery as a step that will take it out of politics.

Speaking for the Anti-Saloon league, the most famous of the prohibition organizations, General Counsel Wayne B. Wheeler said:

"Reorganization of the prohibition enforcement demand will make for efficiency and speed in law enforcement. It will doubtless eliminate politics from prohibition enforcement better than under the present agents under civil service, so that this policy will be fixed by statute."

Speaking for the leading wet organization, the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, Captain W. H. Stayton, national chairman, said:

Reorganization of the prohibition enforcement unit marks the entry of common sense, good faith and good judgment in the enforcement of the dry law. The new arrangement does much to get rid of political influence. If it succeeds at all, it must succeed because its honesty and good points command themselves so highly to the people that they will give it their moral backing."

Wheeler regards the new regulations looking to more rigid control of industrial alcohol as one of the most important steps thus far taken. He estimates that 6,000,000 gallons of industrial alcohol leaked out through bootleggers for beverage purposes last year.

Wets have been particularly indignant at petty raiding by federal officials and hailed the new program as a departure from this form of personal interference.

Tennessee Friend of Charley Hale Skips

An affable stranger, claiming to hail from his old home town down in sunny Tennessee, walked in on Charley Hale at the news agency yesterday, and after some preliminary pleasantries, the stranger asked Hale for the loan of his car, as he claimed he wanted to run out to the edge of town on a short errand.

The stranger was given the car, and he tore down the street at a great rate of speed, barely missing two small children who were crossing the street, swerving towards the sidewalk he clipped the front wheel off a car parked alongside, but did not injure the borrowed car enough to halt his wild flight.

At a late hour last night the man from Tennessee and the Hale car were both still missing, but the police were carrying on a diligent search for the wild-driving south-cerner.

HONG KONG, June 24.—(United News)—The situation is rapidly growing worse, as foreign refugees flock to this city from Shameen.

Sixty punjabi troops have also left Hong Kong for Canton.

All electric light wires leading to Shameen island, the foreign suburb of Canton, have been severed, leaving the defenders without lights, according to a Times dispatch from Hong Kong.

Foreigners on the little island fear an attack under cover of darkness.

OLD MAN BEATEN UP SEVERELY AT TOURISTS' CAMP

Father Ferociously Beaten By Son-In-Law Leads With Authorities To Be Merciful

Sam Husted is in the Klamath General hospital, seriously, but it is not believed fatally injured, the result of an assault at the Bunnell tourist camp by his son-in-law, Henry Askins, 25, following a family quarrel that had been brewing for the past month. While Husted's injuries about the head do not appear serious at the present time, doctors in attendance say the case could possibly prove fatal within 24 hours from either paralysis or spinal meningitis.

According to Husted, the dispute arose over some money his son-in-law is alleged to owe him, and over the possession of a car, for which Husted claims he has the bill of sale.

Given Severe Beating
The word argument over Askins retired to a nearby hose to get a drink. While he was drinking he heard Husted call his (Askin's) wife a liar. Returning to the scene he flayed the elderly father-in-law unmercifully with his fists. As in the Way-Murphy encounter last month, Husted seemed only to have received a severe beating, and it was half an hour before he became unconscious, and went into convulsions. He was taken to the hospital immediately and Askins was arrested by Garry Cozad while at work as a plasterer on a new house being constructed.

Askins was being held in the county jail last night pending $1,000 bail, on a charge of assault and battery. He is the father of two infant children.

Husted Asks Mercy
At the hospital last night Husted told his story in tears. He asked that his son-in-law be let off easy, because of the two small children whom he (Husted) loved dearly. Whether the charges are pushed will depend largely upon the outcome of Husted's condition. It is expected, however, that Husted will be released from the hospital within a day or two.

The family came to Klamath Falls from Kelso, Wash., only a short time ago. Askins is said to have a good record for sobriety, and to have been a steady worker. It was declared last night that the young Mrs. Askins was attempting to affect conciliation between her husband and father already.
