The ninety-two mile trip around Klamath lake offers the motorist who does not particularly care for long drives a very interesting day's outing.

Leaving Klamath Falls about 10 a. m., and taking the road on the west side of the lake one arrives at Point Comfort at noon. Here a picnic lunch may be spread under the trees, or if preferred, an excellent luncheon may be had at a resort that was at one time the summer home of a well known capitalist.

There are two very fine resorts within a short distance of each other, and if one is so disposed, an hour or two may be spent in swimming, or in pursuit of the gamey trout for which this section is noted.

After leaving Rocky Point the road skirts the lake for some distance, then suddenly the car plunges into a magnificent stand of timber, emerging into the open country shortly before Fort Klamath is reached.

If a leisurely drive has been made, the town of Fort Klamath will be reached at dinner time. An hour here and the trip can be resumed in time to reach Klamath Falls before it is necessary to switch on the lights, and with several minutes allowed for a stop at the Wlul-Kee Indian convention.

K. F. BOY SCOUTS PASS HARD TEST

Habert Totten, Chester Hamaker and Seigfried von Berthelendorf, scouts in Troop No. 1, Klamath Falls chapter of Boy Scouts, successfully passed the compass test in their second class scout work, according to an announcement made yesterday by Scoutmaster Julius Mueller.

Other tests for all scouts will be conducted at the Lake of the Woods summer camp during the six weeks duration of camp activities. Practical courses in the use of the bandage, life saving, swimming, camp cookery and general woodcraft art will be featured in the camp this summer.

On Monday morning at 9 a. m. all scouts are requested to be at the chamber of commerce headquarters where the active campaign of the Stop Forest Fires association will begin.

A picture of the scouts and campfire girls will be taken before the drive for the memberships into the association. According to Mueller a feature prize will be given to the Boy Scout troop and to the group of campfire girls who obtain the highest number of memberships in the drive for signatures of pledges in the campaign.

16 Cars Loaded With Liquor Are Captured

PORTLAND, June 27.—Sixteen automobiles loaded with liquor were scheduled to move from Willapa harbor to Portland Thursday night from the cargo of liquor seized there by federal officials, a special signed story in the Portland News said today.

A Portland bootlegger admitted to Fred L. Bolt, the writer, that he had been making nightly journeys to the rendezvous.

"I was lucky to get through Thursday night," the bootlegger was quoted as saying. "Two cars came through—another and mine. Fourteen turned back. I tell you the road was 'hot.' Since I came away, the ship has left the harbor and put out to sea. I know that. And right now Hazeltine, the prohibition agent, is burning up the road."

KLAMATH SPORTSMEN HOLD PICNIC CROOKED CREEK THIS AFTERNOON

A heated controversy has arisen between Nate Otterbein, secretary of the Klamath Sportsmen's association, and five high-class local chefs, who have agreed to prepare the trout for the big sportsmen's picnic and banquet at the Crooked Creek hatchery today.

Nate claims you can't "barbecue" trout, at least that the expression so used by The News last week was incorrect. Now comes the distinguished cooks, unanimous in their assertions that the news report, as written, was technically correct. E. F. Duffy, who juggles a mean skillet says: "You barbecue a steer that dresses out around six or seven hundred pounds, and you can barbecue a sucking pig that won't weight over ten, so why can't you barbecue a 20-pound fish? I don't claim I can barbecue a fish. I know I can."

Anyway, whether these trout are to be barbecued, fried, or par-boiled, there will be plenty for all and cooked to a turn at Crooked creek today.

To add official dignity to the occasion, the following wire was received Friday by the secretary from Harold H. Clifford, chairman of the state game commission: "Will attend fish fry at the Crooked creek hatchery on Sunday afternoon, June 28th at 2 o'clock."

A membership card in the association admits the bearer free to all the fish he can eat, and all the rest of the day's program. Non-members are just as welcome, but they will be taxed a dollar, and thus become full-fledged members.

A booster for Klamath county and Klamath Falls and every legitimate industry therein—that's the Klamath News.
