DINNER STORIES

An American traveler was taking his first trip across the Atlantic. In the smoking room he got into conversation with another traveler.
 "And to what country do you belong?"
 "Gee," was the nasal response, "I guess I belong to the greatest and dandiest country on earth. The country where all the men are brave and all the women are beautiful."
 "Aye!" interposed the American as the other paused for breath. "So do I. But, tell me, ye seem to have lost your accent."
 The magistrate frowned severely upon the prisoner in the dock. It was the fifth time the same lad had been before him on a charge of poaching.

"Do you realize," said the father, turning to the boy's father, "that this boy of yours has been before me far too many times? In fact, I am thoroughly tired of seeing him here."
 "Not half so tired as I am," said the father.
 "Then why don't you take his hand and teach him the right way?"
 "I've shown him the right way," said the disgraced father, "but young fool always gets caught."
 A doctor who had taken up a specialty in the treatment of skin cases was asked by a friend who happened to select that particular branch of medicine.
 "There were three perfectly reasonable," replied the physician, "patients never get me out of bed at night, they never die, and they get well."

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

THAT you should be proud of your city? Your faith in it should never waver. You should work hard for the betterment of your home city. You should get behind every movement for its advancement and PUSH HARD. You should have nothing but the fairest motives in all you do. You should advocate one for all and all for one when it comes to building the home city. What helps your neighbor will help you. Your first duty is to think of your city. You should pursue this course as straight as an arrow in its flight. You should make up your mind to boost your city and work for it as hard as you can, then work a little harder. You should let the message of hope, faith and confidence which you breathe forth for your home city, be broadcasted far and wide. If all your citizens have faith, trust, confidence, perception, judgment and the realization in their hearts that they must do their best for the home city, the sky is the limit as to what you can do. Your business judgment should make you boost. No one should let the balance of their years be like those past and gaze with unseeing eyes upon the great opportunities that are before them. None should hesitate, go ahead as one to make your city a greater city.

WHEN GOVERNMENT SAVES

"Far from hurting business, the government's economy policy has been of the utmost advantage to business," says the New York Sun. "It has already resulted in a reduction of several hundred million dollars a year in federal taxes; it promises to bring about a tax reduction of $200,000,000 or $300,000,000 more next year.

"When the government saves money it does not mean that the money is not spent. What it does mean is that, instead of being spent by officials to keep unnecessary bureaucrats in unproductive jobs, the money is left in the hands of the man who earns it, and he may decide himself how it shall be spent."

The president will find the people behind him in his determination to administer national affairs in an economical and business like manner. State officials can follow the lead of the president.

A philosopher is one whose placid mind dwells upon the thought that so many people haven't shot anybody yet.

A rich man is one who "has" money. But the rest of us are using the actual money and he sees little of it.

 Luncheon: Bird Egg Salad, Cream Potatoes with Parsley, Raised Cake, Raspberry Punch
 Dinner: Roast Leg of Lamb, Mint Sauce, Boiled Potatoes, Buttered Peas, Raspberry Pie, Tea or Coffee, Hot or Iced

TODAY'S RECIPES
Bird Egg Salad—Mash cottage cheese and moisten with well-seasoned French dressing. Mix with finely chopped pecan meats. Shape like small bird eggs. Dry a little parsley on back of stove or in warming oven and rub between fingers until very fine. Sprinkle the little eggs with parsley, arrange in nests of heart lettuce leaves. Garnish with radish roses and serve with French dressing.
Radish Roses—Wash radishes carefully. With a sharp vegetable knife make five or six lengthwise incisions through the skin and then peel back the skin to look like flower petals. Cut down through the center two or three times and let stand in a pan of ice water until the radishes open out like roses.
Raised Cake—One pint bread sponge, one and one-half cups sugar, one-half cup maple syrup, two-thirds cup shortening, two teaspoons soda, two tablespoons of hot water, two cups of sifted flour, one cup raisins, one teaspoon cinnamon, 1/2 teaspoon cloves, nutmeg and allspice, one-half teaspoon salt.
Raspberry Punch—Place one box raspberries in a saucepan and add: One-half cup water, one and one-half cup sugar. Bring to a boil and cook slowly until the fruit is soft. Rub through a fine sieve and add one-half cup Maraschino cherries, cut into tiny bits, add the liquid from the bottle of cherries. To use place one-half cup of the prepared raspberry syrup in a tall glass and add: One tablespoon lemon juice, one-half cup crushed ice. Fill with carbonated water.

THE BEST OF ADVICE
 BY CLARK KINNARD

To us rich and poor, care of great matter.
 But those we look upon as savages, viewing us always toiling, our brows wrinkled with care, afraid of heat and cold, do not see that we have any advantage of them.
 And riches and poverty, after all, are a thick or thin costume and our life—the life of all of us—identical.
 For we transcend the circumstance continually and taste the real quality of existence; as in our employments, which only differ in the manipulation but express the same laws; or in our thoughts, which wear no silks and taste no tea and cream.

In a crowded life of many parts and performers, on a stage of nations, or in the obscurest hamlet in Maine or California, the same elements offer the same choices to each newcomer, and, according to his election, he fixes his fortune in absolute Nature.

All this was in Emerson's mind when he wrote:
 "There is no chance and no anarchy in the universe."
 "All is system and gradation."
 "Every god is there sitting in his sphere."
 "The young mortal enters the hall of the firmamental there is he alone with them alone, they pouring on him benedictions and gifts, and beckoning him up to their thrones. On the instant, and incessantly, fall snow storms of illusions."
 "He fancies himself in a vast crowd which sways this way and that and whose movements and doings he must obey; he fancies himself poor, orphaned and insignificant. "The mad crowd drives hither and thither, now furiously commanding this thing to be done, now that."

 "What is he that he should resist their will, and think or act for himself?"
 "Every moment new changes and new showers of deceptions to baffle and distract him."
 "And when, by and by, for an instant, the air clears and the cloud
