"Let us have faith that right makes might, and in that faith let us to the end dare to do our duty as we understand it"—Abraham Lincoln

AMERICA OR NO AMERICA?

"If we Americans ever put restrictions upon individual ambition and enterprise by adopting government ownership, then we shall have necessarily a government far different from the one that has fostered the development of the United States, and consequently we shall have a far different country to live in. Government ownership, once begun in this country, will soon be extended to the factory and the farm—to government ownership of all business and industry, including the colleges and universities and newspapers that play with the idea. It will be the first step toward the full communist program as exemplified in Russia and defined in the dictionary, namely: 'abolition of all private property, and state control of labor, religion and social relations', including the raising of families. This is admitted by all government ownership advocates who are at once honest and mentally able to apply the significance of their slogans and shibboleths; it is denied or doubted only by the self-deluded."—Samuel Insull, President, Commonwealth Edison Company.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

THAT business is usually as good with a business concern as the men back of it make it.
 THAT advertising is mighty good sales insurance. Use plenty of it.
 THAT quality and service holds customers, but it takes advertising to get many new ones.
 THAT a lot of business concerns try to kid themselves into believing that they do not need advertising to secure business.
 THAT a lot of these fellows are running loose; somebody should wise them up. If they don't, they will wind themselves up sooner or later, and it's usually sooner.
 THAT when these concerns buck up against advertised quality, they are "goners."
 THAT many a business is dead and the owners know it; there is only one chance to revive it and that is by advertising.
 THAT some places of business are dead and the owners don't know it. Somebody should tip them off, for the sooner they realize it, the sooner they will make way for a live one.
 "I NEVER HEARD OF YOUR GOODS" IS ONE OF THE BLOWS OFTEN HANDED DEALERS. IT IS THE WORST THING THAT COULD BE SAID ABOUT THEM, AS "NOT KNOWN" MEANS "NO SALES." ADVERTISE.

Kill-joy: One who scolds naughty youngsters for doing the things he no longer has the capacity to enjoy.

As a rule, to say that a man has the leading role in a community is to say that he has the leading roll.

Some men are born fighters and some join the democratic party for reasons more obscure.

TODAY'S RECIPES
Vegetable Soup—One fourth cup potatoes, one-fourth cup carrots, one-fourth cup cabbage, one-half cup celery, two tablespoons parsley, one tablespoon onion, one cup strained tomatoes, one teaspoon of sugar, one teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon kitchen bouquet, one and three-quarters tablespoons gelatin. Dice or chop the vegetables and cook in two and one-half cups salted water until tender. Add the strained tomatoes and seasonings and enough water to make one quart of liquid and season to taste with salt and paprika. Soften the gelatin in one-quarter cup cold water and dissolve in the hot stock. Chill and serve garnished with parsley.
Ginger Cookies—One cup brown sugar, one cup molasses, one cup shortening, one egg, one tablespoon ginger and cinnamon, one-half cup hot water, one tablespoon soda, one teaspoon salt, flour to make soft dough. Bake in moderate oven.
Berry Muffins—One-quarter cup butter, one-third cup sugar, one egg, two and two-thirds cups flour, four teaspoons baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt, one cup milk, one cup cherries. Cream the butter, add gradually the sugar and egg well beaten; mix and sift flour, baking powder and salt, reserving one-quarter cup flour to be mixed with berries and added last; the remainder alternately with the milk.
Macaroni, Neapolitan Style—Three fourths pound dried beef, one cup navy beans, one cup broken macaroni, salt to taste, one and one-half cups salad oil, one onion, one-fourth cup chopped parsley, one quart tomatoes. Soak the beans over night and simmer until tender. Cook the macaroni in boiling salted water. Cook the onion and parsley in the oil, add the tomatoes and continue cooking until almost as thick as conserve. Sauté the beef in some of the oil reserved and mix with the drained beans, macaroni and tomato mixture. Bake fifteen to twenty minutes in the oven. This will make two quarts of mixture or twelve servings of two-thirds cup each. Each serving will supply 412 calories.

Plan to Save
 One of the most important decisions the June bride can make is to save, even if it is very little. The same satisfaction comes to the housewife at the end of the year in looking over well-managed accounts and seeing a surplus in the bank, as comes to the man who successfully carried through his business. No set rule can be laid down for budgeting, but these percentages may be some help to the beginner: One-fifth of the income for shelter; one-fourth for food and one-fifth clothing; one-tenth saving and one-fourth personal expenses and upkeep.

THE BEST OF ADVICE

Chancellor Elmer Brown tells graduates of New York University to think—"not as a luxury, but as a duty."
 Reading and learning are things that anyone can do of his own free will; but not so THINKING. Schopenhauer was one who subscribed to this view.
 Thinking must be kindled, like a fire by a draught; it must be sustained by some interest in the matter in hand.
 This interest may be of purely objective kind, or merely subjective. The latter comes into play only in things that concern us personally. Objective interest is confined to heads that think by nature; to whom thinking is as natural as breathing; and they are very rare. This is why most men of learning show so little of it.
 "It is remarkable," Schopenhauer observes, "what a different effect is produced on the mind by thinking for oneself, as compared with reading."
 "It carries on and intensifies that original difference in the nature of two minds which leads one to think and the other to read."
 "That is, reading, forces alien thoughts upon the mind—thoughts which are as foreign to the drift and temper in which it may be at the moment, as the seal is to the wax on which it stamps its imprint."
 "The mind is thus entirely under compulsion from without; it is driven to think this or that, though for the moment it may not have the slightest impulse or inclination to do so."
 But when a man thinks for himself, he follows the impulse of his own mind, which is determined for

HEART AND HOME PROBLEMS

Many girls are like Cinderella in that they have older, cynical sisters attempting to keep romance out of their lives. Sometimes it is jealousy that is responsible for this attitude of the older ones, but more often the older sisters are endeavoring to protect the younger sister from having unhappy experiences similar to their own. The latter seems to be the case here:
 Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am 24 years old, and am going with a real nice young woman. We have been going together for half a year, and express our love for each other in every possible way. She has several older sisters. One is married to a real lovely man. Her married sister doesn't want us to go together. She says she doesn't want her younger sister ever to get married. I told her sister that I was willing to wait for two years, but that didn't remove her opposition. I am sure that the rest of the family, by tending to the girl's interests, is working up a good business. I should a girl be before I know her own mind? Because I had my heart broken before, and I don't want to get married again. How long should I go together before I am engaged?
 It is likely that the reason sister's opposition is so plainness she has encountered own marriage. She may be happy with her husband, but posing her sister's marriage only desires to save her a similar experience. For I doubt if you can win her over. But if the family agrees to the match, get married? There is no time for young people to get together before becoming married. The important thing is that they are sure of their minds. The interval between betrothal and marriage should be a test of devotion and understanding.

DINNER STORIES

After effecting an entrance into the bank the burglar found his way, easily enough, to the strong room. When the light of the lantern fell on the door he saw this sign written in red letters:
 "Save your dynamite. This safe is not locked. Turn the knob and it will open."
 For a moment he ruminated. "Anyhow," he reflected, "there's no harm in trying it if it really is unlocked."
 He grasped the knob and turned it. Instantly the office was flooded with light, an alarm bell rang loudly, an electric shock rendered him helpless, while a panel in the wall opened and out rushed a bulldog which seized him firmly.
 An hour later, when the roll door closed on him, he sighed:
 "I know what's wrong with me. I'm too trusting. I have too much faith in human nature."
 Young Harold was altogether much too garrulous in school to please his teachers. Punishments were tried without any apparent effect upon the boy, until at last the headmaster decided to mention the lad's fault in his monthly report. So the next report to Harold's father had these words: "Harold talks a great deal."
 Back came the report by post duly acknowledged, but with this written in red ink: "You ought to hear his mother!"
 The story is told of the composer Handel that a tenor once found fault with his conducting, exclaiming from the stage: "If you can't conduct any better, I'll jump down there and show you."
 Happily came Handel's retort: "Wait till I advertise it, because more people will pay to see you jump than to hear you sing."

Scene of Anti-Foreign Riots in China

Anti-foreign feeling is running high in Chinese cities, and at Hongkong, a British protectorate, authorities are holding coolie rioters in check with difficulty. The photo shows Hongkong harbor.
