Woman Is Fined For Breaking Evidence

Mrs. Barclay, of Chilquin, was fined $25 yesterday by Police Judge Gaghan when she pleaded guilty to a charge of breaking glass on a street. She was arrested on a charge of possession and transportation of liquor but smashed the evidence on the pavement. The judge fined Officer Collins $10 for front and splashed up into his face and Collins testified he distinctly recognized the forbidden liquor. Judge Gaghan told the jury, however, that the law is not the liquor but actually property of court, and fined Mrs. Barclay $25 for breaking bottles on the street.

Her companion, W. M. Harris, of Chilquin, was fined $25 for failing to display proper lights, driving without an operator's card and for transferring license plates from one machine to another.
