Mrs. Scott, expert in the cooking the elusive glory, in Klamath Falls but days. Mrs. Scott is doing the Westinghouse Electric and has been here since with the Link River Electric as her headquarters. First of the week Mrs. Scott to a number of interested persons the possibility of the oven as a means of cooking delicious cakes. Her recipes original, some of them have prizes at various times. It proved that by using the electric oven cake falling so prevalent at this altitude entirely overcome. Today Mrs. Scott baked an oven, placing the meal in the 1:30 o'clock and leaving for two hours without opening. The food consisted of roast, canned peas and carrots, potatoes, green beans, and hard. The peas and the were cooked in the same the even heat of the oven it possible that the carrots tender and the peas not go much. All of the articles placed in a cold oven right up to a cooking temperature when the heat was automatically shut off. Even the custard treated in this manner, a possible only by electric.

Mrs. Scott will bake a ham in the oven which she will serve in sandwich tomorrow for "Father's Day." She has had an opportunity to see the store in operation and tomorrow "Father" given a chance to see how better and better "Mother" able to cook if she has an electric range. The Westinghouse electric range means that the house can set the clock, the evening's meal in the and leave it for the entire the assurance that she have a perfectly cooked meal hungry family when dinner arrives. Scott will leave here Sunday morning but has left the assurance that she will return for demonstrations. Any woman has troublesome questions the preparation or cooking with electricity will receive help from Mrs. Scott if it is written out and left at the Link River Electric or mailed to her in care of Westinghouse Electric company, Francisco.

Rigid investigation of the condition of buildings housing other night dance clubs is being made by Boston city officials as an aftermath of the collapse of the building housing the "Pickwick Club," which killed close to 100 merry-makers and injured scores. "Building experts believe that the "overload" on the floor and the weakened condition of the building due to excavation activities alongside it, were contributing causes of the collapse. Photo, the most striking one taken after the collapse, shows the manner in which the floors gave way and how the one brick wall which remained standing, menaced rescue work.

On September 1, the date set for a strike should the two sides fail to come to an agreement there will be between two and a half and three months supply of anthracite coal of domestic sizes.

Special Electric Range Demonstration Ends Tomorrow

Saturday is Mrs. Jessie Scott's last day in Klamath Falls demonstrating the Westinghouse Automatic Electric Range, the "Range with the Clock."

Mrs. Scott is a widely known electric cooking specialist. Whether you are now buying a range or not, you should not miss this opportunity of meeting her.

We want all mothers and wives to come in while Mrs. Scott is here. Watch her bake cake, then try a sample. Learn how cooking can be made better and easier, and how you can conserve your own time and strength for other things.

Tomorrow is the last day. It is also Men's Day. Why not see to it, that the man of the house comes to tomorrow's demonstration? Mrs. Scott can soon satisfy him that you need an automatic electric range. Tell father to come and see the thing working—and taste the roast and cake!
