Rancher In—Bob Cheyne was among the Friday visitors in Klamath Falls from his ranch in the Merrill road district.

From the South—A business visitor in Klamath Falls this week-end is Sam Soble from San Francisco, who arrived yesterday to transact business.

First Beet—The first sugar beet to be brought to Klamath Falls for display was taken from the Francis J. Bowen ranch in the Bonanza district yesterday afternoon, and brought to the chamber of commerce by M. H. Oldemeyer. The sugar beet is continued proof of the success of this type of plant in the Klamath country. The beet tops are fully a foot tall, these being used for cattle food. The meat of the beet is much larger in diameter than the average turnip and the body of the plant white and juicy.

From the South—Interesting tourists arrive in Klamath Falls every day, and among these may be rated Edward K. Potter of Los Angeles, who, with his family, is enroute to Crater lake. Potter is deputy county assessor of Los Angeles county, and was loud in his praise of the splendid road from Ashland to Klamath Falls, which he recently had the pleasure of enjoying.

Bishop Rancher—Alvin T. Bodie, with his family, is among the first of the ranchers from Bishop, Calif., in Owens valley, to make the trip to Klamath Falls. Bodie was not a member of the caravans that came from the south to inspect Langell valley, but on a tour of this section of Oregon, he plans to see as much of Klamath county as possible.

Williams In—"Buck" Williams returned last night from his ranch in the Malin country, where he has spent the past week-end in the interests of his cattle.

Bend—Mrs. J. D. Davidson is among the recent arrivals in the city, coming last night to Klamath Falls from her home in Bend.

Lakeview—Among the visitors in Klamath Falls for the remainder of the week from Lakeview are S. Bailey and Laurence Nolte.

Portland—Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Heitkemper of Portland are among the interesting visitors in the city for the remainder of the week. They also plan a trip to Crater lake. Heitkemper is a prominent jeweler of the Oregon metropolis.

Cattleman—Frank McArthur, cattleman of the south, is in the city for the remainder of the week to transact business from his home in Likely, Calif.

Alturas—J. H. Mahan, a resident of Alturas, is among the visitors in the city this week-end from his home in the northern section of California.

Beatty—Mrs. F. J. Schmitz of Beatty is in the city for the remainder of the week to visit with friends and shop. Schmitz is owner and conductor of a store in Beatty.

Hill Visitors—Southern visitors in the city this week include Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Keegan, who are residents of Hill, California. They are listed among the tourists in the city to use Klamath Falls as the central point of their trips in this vicinity.

From the East—Charles Farthing arrived in the city yesterday afternoon from St. Louis to transact business in Klamath Falls with city merchants.

Bonanza—Among the numerous out-of-town visitors in the city yesterday were Mrs. W. O. Smyth from their ranch in the Bonanza district.

New Pine Creek—Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Morfitt, who conduct a ranch in the New Pine Creek district are listed among the out of town visitors in the city to spend the day, arriving last night.

Merchant—H. E. Enders, prominent Ashland merchant is in Klamath Falls to transact business for the remainder of the week.

For Game—Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Burton, arrived in the city early to get a "good ringside seat" for the McCloud-Klamath Falls baseball game on Sunday. They arrived in Klamath Falls last night.

Lumberman—Among the visitors in the city this week from Bend are B. V. Wright, lumberman of the neighboring city.

From the South—Among the southern visitors in the city who are mainly intent upon visiting the scenic spots in Klamath county are Miss Lillian B. O'Connor and Miss Rose Goldspring. They intend to leave today for Crater Lake.

Tourists—Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Agnew, tourists from their home in Agnew, accompanied by their daughters, Alberta and Martha, are among the interesting visitors in Klamath Falls this week.
