Calif. Financier To Put $200,000 Into K. F. Homes

Henderson Of Long Beach Seeks To Invest Big In K. F. Building

That, within the year, he expects to build in Klamath Falls no less than 50 houses at a cost of more than $200,000, was the statement made last night by S. E. Henderson, millionaire financier of Long Beach, Calif.

Mr. Henderson was registered at the White Pelican hotel with Mrs. Henderson.

"I have never in my life seen a town which offered the future that Klamath Falls offers," Mr. Henderson said. "I'm willing to take a chance—and I don't believe I'm going to lose."

Henderson said that he had looked over the town very carefully before making this announcement. He explained that a number of towns had been visited before he had come to this decision.

Henderson, who has financed the building of many beautiful homes in Long Beach and takes pride in their attractiveness will erect homes here which will be a credit to the city, according to present plans. They will be of varied types of new models and none will be of the small "cracker box" variety.

BIG LAND FRAUD IS INVESTIGATED

Alleged American Swindler Causes Poverty And Hunger To Many

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 12.—(United News)—Promotion of a huge Mexican land deal which brought suffering and death instead of promised riches is charged against Dr. John C. Dysart of El Paso, arrested, here Wednesday.

At liberty on $10,000 bail following conviction in Texas on charges of sending improper matter through the mails, Dysart is accused in a new indictment of using the mails in a scheme to defraud.

According to arresting officers, Dysart sent circulars through Texas and New Mexico, describing the possibilities of riches in 218,000 acres of land which he proposed to colonize.

C. M. Lyman, John Porter and J. W. Poe went to Mexico with their families to take up their residence in this "land of plenty." They found a scorching sun, hardship and starvation, and Lyman's wife and three children died from effects of the trip. It is charged in the complaint against Dysart.

The promoter will be returned to El Paso for trial.

Klamath News Tells Of Riot To Whole City

Two hours after the Salem prison riot occurred, a graphic story of the sensational get-away was on the streets of Klamath Falls in the Klamath News.

Nine hundred papers, telling the news to approximately 3000 Klamath Falls people, were sold. One half hour after the extra was on the streets, every section of the city had been covered by a corps of newshoys.

Again the News was the first to tell a big event to the community.

ENFORCEMENT OF LIQUOR LAWS IN U. S. LOOMING BIG

New Dry Chief Calls State Directors To Confer On National "Cleanup"

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—(United News)—During the next few days Lincoln C. Andrews, dry czar, will talk personally with every one of the present state prohibition directors and divisional chiefs, in order to size them up. He will determine which of them will be elevated to regional directorships, and which will be retained in other positions.

Meanwhile, dry forces throughout the country are making a general "clean-up" before the reorganization becomes effective September 1. In this, state directors and divisional chiefs are co-operating, and their ability will meet a final test. This "clean-up" is reflected publicly in large raids in New Orleans, Cleveland, Buffalo and other points, and may be expected to show in the next few days in other places. They must show something or out they go.

Andrews sent out the invitations to all state directors and divisional chiefs to confer with him here. Two or three of them who are located nearby, have been here already, including state director Murdock, of Pennsylvania. Those from far away probably will not be here until the last of the week.

Klan and Antis in Pitched Gun Battle

READING, Mass., Aug. 12.—A dozen or more men were under arrest here late Wednesday night following a clash between 500 or more ku klux klan members and nearly a thousand antis, about two miles from here.

The skirmish started shortly after 11:00 p. m., after the klan members had gathered in a field for a meeting when some one hurled a stone which fell among the members of the hooded order. Several shots were then fired, followed up with a discharge of tear gas bombs by the klanmen.

So far as could be learned no one was wounded by bullets but scores of antis were temporarily blinded by the gas from the bombs hurled by the robbed klanmen.

Several scores of police officers from nearby towns were rushed to the scene of the combat and shortly before midnight it was said they had the situation in hand.

Old Fashioned Steps To Battle With Jazz

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 12.—It may be only a dying gesture, but the old-fashioned dances are making a courageous stand against the on-sweep of modern jazz.

Across the bay in Martinez, which still is buzzing with talk of the Charles Henry Schwartz insurance murder, the Old-fashioned dancing club has started a campaign to convert Charleston and fox trot fans into devotees of the schottische, quadrille and lancers.

And they seem to be getting somewhere with it, too.

Another Check Artist In K. F.

Officers Search For Man Who Passed Check Here Without Account

A man who signed himself as A. T. Turner needed some money Saturday night.

He didn't take the trouble to call on friends for a loan.

Instead, according to E. L. Elliott, district attorney, he negotiated with J. M. Jones, of the Falls grocery store, and succeeded in cashing a check.

Turner, officers say, had no money in the First National bank, on which the check was drawn. A warrant charging him with obtaining money under false pretenses was issued today. The check was for $35.

ROBBERS RAVAGE EWAUNA LOGGERS

Between $250 and $300 in cash was stolen from loggers residing in six bunk houses at the Ewauna Box company logging camp about 16 miles north of Chiloquin, between two and three o'clock yesterday morning, according to information furnished Deputy Sheriff Hilton.

Although no clues were available last night, every effort is being made to apprehend the persons sought, according to Hilton.

The work, officers said, was that of sneak thieves and no evidence of an "inside job" was apparent.

Officers are of the opinion that the same persons who robbed the loggers stole an automobile from Gerald Buck at Pelican Bay Camp No. 1.

CONVICTS RIOT IN MESS HALL; OREGON JONES AMONG DEAD

Fleeing Criminals Strip Captives of Clothes and Go On

Tom Murray At Large With Stomach Riddled By Gun Buck Shot

SALEM, Aug. 12.—(United News)—Z. R. Zinn, Salem taxicab driver, and C. V. Ivett, a guard at the state hospital for the insane, who were forced to accompany the three escaping prisoners from the penitentiary Wednesday night, were located tied up, near the Pratum school house, eight miles east of here, about 10 p. m.

Zinn and Ivett had been stripped of the buff, the fugitives taking even their underclothing, after warning both men that if they said a word to the police about where the convicts left the car, they would return and kill them. The discarded prison garments of the fugitives were found nearby.

Zinn called the warden, and was ordered to rush back to Salem, but replied that he could not because of the lack of clothing. The warden learned that Tom Murray was the convict wounded by Warden Dalrymple. Murray had received a load of buckshot through the stomach from a distance of 35 feet.

RUM RUNNERS IN WEST NEAR END

Law Violators Raid Office Of U. S. Attorney To Steal Evidence

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 12.—(United News)—Rum runners in a last stand against the government raided the offices of the United States attorney here and escaped with the complete records of five cases against members of a liquor smuggling ring.

Announcement of the theft was made by United States Attorney Kucas Wednesday. He said he would seek to have a federal grand jury probe the mysterious disappearance of the documents.

Following the discovery of the theft, strict orders were issued regulating the conduct of subordinates in the offices where the documents were stolen.

The cases against the five bootleggers will be prosecuted, although most of the government's testimony is now in the hands of the rum runners.

Guards Overpowered, 3 Slain; Prisoners Escape in Sensational Riot Led By Desperate "Oregon" Jones; Prisoners Locked in Cells, Create All-Night Uproar.

SALEM, Aug. 12.—(United News)—Two prison guards and one convict are dead, another guard and convict are perhaps fatally shot, the result of the most spectacular prison riot in years, at the Oregon state penitentiary. The entire prison was thrown into an uproar.

Late tonight those prisoners who had not escaped were cowering in their cells, setting up a terrific uproar of shrieks and curses, but the heavy locks of their cells had safely clicked, and regular and emergency prison guards had the situation under control.

Three of the prisoners escaped and were at large at a late hour, with a posse of hundreds in pursuit.

The dead:
J. M. HOLMAN, prison guard.
JOHN SWEENEY, prison guard.
BERT "OREGON" JONES, notorious prisoner, who has figured in other prison breaks.

The three convicts who were at liberty, sped across the Marion-Polk county bridge over the Willamette river, in a commandeered automobile. They were Tom Murray, James Willos and Elsworth Kelly, all serving heavy penalties for violent crimes.

Governor Pierce, shortly after the outbreak, prepared to send an emergency order calling for troops, but when he found the situation in control, this idea was abandoned.

The fatal shooting occurred at 5:55 p. m., while practically all the prisoners were at supper.

The four convicts involved in the break were working with others at regular prison duties when the call for meal time was sounded.

They marched to their respective cells, but when the other prisoners filed out into the mess room they remained behind, hiding themselves from the view of guards.

The plotters then apparently got into one cell, through the roof of which a hole had been cut. This cell was on the upper tier, and by making their way through the opening they got onto the roof of the administration building. A rope knotted together with four pieces, dangled over the edge of the building, showing how they made their way to the prison yard. The prisoners then rushed into the arsenal, which is in the turnkey's office. There they overpowered James Nesmith, a guard, and each took a Winchester rifle, like those used by regular guards. Armed with these powerful weapons, they rushed the guard.

Warden A. M. Dalrymple, who had seen the men enter the arsenal, rushed to his own quarters and obtained a double barreled shot gun. Firing with this, he wounded one of the convicts in the stomach. The identity of this man was not learned.

John Davidson, another guard, made his way to the north side of the building and shot "Oregon" Jones, just as the latter turned from the wall.

Under a fusillade of shots from guards' rifles the three other men made their way to the grounds of the state hospital for the insane, some distance to the north.

Here they commandeered a taxicab, driven by Willy Zinn. The three sprang inside, forcing an asylum guard to accompany them.

The cab then went swaying down the driveway. Other hospital attendants said the convicts were forcing Zinn to drive, threatening him with their guns.

The hospital attendant, forced into the outlaws' conveyance was named Ineta.

Attendants said the wounded convict was bleeding badly and was probably fatally hurt. A trial of blood from the prison wall to the asylum grounds substantiated this.

From the asylum the desperadoes' machine was traced down the principal thoroughfares of the city to the Willamette river bridge, where it was last reported.

Prison guards, Salem police and a sheriff's posse from Marion county and from Polk county immediately set out in pursuit of the fugitives.
