

SENATORS BATTLE HARD TO CLOSE GAP BETWEEN THEM AND TOP PLACE

Walter Johnson Gets Batted Out Of Box But Marberry Saves The Day; National Race Remains Unchanged As Giants And Pirates Both Win

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—(United News)—The Washington Senators closed in on the American league leaders, Tuesday and as the result of their victory over the Indians and the defeat of the Athletics in St. Louis, were only one full game from top position.

With Walter Johnson starting on the mound for them in Cleveland, the Senators won a 7 to 4 victory after Marberry had been called in to relieve the veteran hurler. At the same time, the Athletics playing loosely and making three errors, dropped a game to the Browns, 6 to 7.

The Yanks won from the Tigers, 5 to 2 and the White Sox defeated Boston, 5 to 2.

STRIBLING HANDS DELANEY BEATING

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 18.—(United News)—Young Stribling, of Georgia, decisively out-classed Jimmy Delaney in their ten-round fight here Tuesday night.

From the first to the final round, Stribling's body weaving and left hand kept his opponent non-plussed. He piled up all the points there were to pile up.

At the ringside to cheer their son was "ma" and "pa" Stribling. At the end of each round they left their seats and whispered advice to their son, who since his comparatively brief ring career began, has, it is said, earned half a million dollars.

SPORTS DONE BROWN

The recent activities of Jack Dempsey and Bill Tilden in becoming a law unto themselves as far as their respective sport fields are concerned has raised again the query as to whether any man can be bigger than the game he represents.

No need for discussion there. Babe Ruth found out that he was not only smaller than the game but took the count from a dish of French fried potatoes.

Matt Hinkel, well known sportsman and co-promoter with Tommy McGinty of fights in and near Cleveland, O., has pulled the most startling one-round knockout of recent months.

Hinkel booked Eddie Anderson and Pete Sarmiento, Philippinebantawweight, for a bout a couple of weeks ago in Brooklyn, a Cleveland suburb. The battle drew a fair house. Most of the fans were agreeably startled when the fighters, never considered K. O. punchers, started knocking each other down. Each had floored the other three times by the time the late rounds arrived. Then Sarmiento scored another on Anderson.

The fight looked good to all present except a few at the ringside who weren't impressed with the severity of the punches.

Nevertheless the boys were matched for a return engagement. The size of the house was trebled—likewise the receipts. Knockdowns galore were staged. But they came too easily.

The next day Hinkel, who refereed both fights, announced that the last fight had been "hippodromed" and that neither of the men would be allowed to appear in future shows with which he was connected.

He asserted that he realized, before the fight ended that the knockdowns weren't on the up and up, but believed they were staged "more out of a desire to give the public what it wanted than to 'fake the fight'."

This shows again the reason why boxing is constantly under fire. Herculean efforts are being made in some centers to keep the game clean. In other sections the men who are in a position to put it on a high plane and keep it there are usually interested financially in the game.

A promoter cannot give his entire time to uplift work or look at fights and fighters in a clear, unbiased light if he is getting a 50-50 split on the net receipts. He is only human.

Evil angles to the game are existent even where state or municipal commissions seek to control the sport. These commissions collect a percentage of the gate receipts. The amount in the treasury, after various expenses of the commission, etc., have been taken

DEMPSEY THREATENS TO QUIT IF MUD-SLINGING DOESN'T STOP

Champ Is Raving Mad At Kearns For Baiting Pic To Stop Wills Fight Scheduled For July 4 Next

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 18.—A monkey wrench that may completely wreck the machinery of the prospective Dempsey-Wills fight, was tossed into the works, when Jack Dempsey announced Tuesday that if the "New York funny business" continued much longer he would announce his retirement as a fighter and become an actor.

Several stage offers were made him recently that sounded like easier money than fighting, the champion said. "One of these offers I may still accept—it all depends on how far Kearns thinks he can go with me."

"I am sick and tired of this business that is going on behind my back," the champion told the United News. "I had already given my signature and promise to Floyd Fitzsimmons for a bout with Wills somewhere in the middle west."

"Then along comes that meddler Kearns. He puts his hand in the pie, whispers behind my back to the New York commission, and foolishly forfeits $25,000 guaranteeing my presence there in a championship fight."

"Kearns," declared Jack with some heat, "is just simply out $25,000 and perhaps a meal ticket for the next year, and I don't mean

Neutral Umpires To Officiate in Weed-Klamath Falls Game

Special Train May Fail If 100 More Tickets Not Purchased Today

The 2 best umpires in the Siskiyou-Klamath league have been assigned by president J. P. McNamara of the league to make decisions in the pennant deciding game Sunday, when Klamath Falls plays at Weed.

Umpire Morrison of Mount Shasta and Wright of Yreka will be the arbiters of the game.

Referring to the McCloud umpire here Sunday, who nearly caused a riot with his biased decisions McNamara declared, "If that man Snyder was used by McCloud it was without my knowledge or without my permission. I assigned Umpire Patch to umpire in the McCloud-Klamath Falls game. I'm going to look into the matter."

The special train to Weed is up in the air. Only 100 have been purchased tickets thus far and 100 more must be bought by late this afternoon in order to make the special a certainty. Many who intend to go to the game on the special have neglected to place their names. Unless these names are presented today the special may fail. Hundreds will journey to Weed from here by automobile.

The special rate is $4.14 round trip. Tickets may be purchased from the Mecca pool hall, Glover Jewelry store or Lee Crawford at the Acme garage.
