WILL HAYS

Ralph O. Brewster of Maine and Governors of other New England states discussed plans to protect their states from a coal shortage in the event of an anthracite strike. Carl C. Magee, editor of Albuquerque, New Mexico, who aided in exposing the Teapot Dome scandal, shot and killed John B. Lassater, a bystander, while quarreling with Judge D. J. Leahy, a political enemy. Dr. Eckener appealed to the German nation to save Zeppelins from destruction. The fight of the motion picture industry against the new Connecticut tax and censorship law will be led by Will H. Hays, director general of the industry.

No Plans For Building Railroad Into Crater

The item printed yesterday to the effect that Wm. Sproule, president of the Southern Pacific company, said there was a possibility that his company would build a branch to Crater Lake was in error. Mr. Sproule did not mention any possibility of a line of railroad to Crater Lake. However, speaking before the Rotary club on Friday Mr. Sproule did discuss the matter of vehicular roads to Crater Lake, showing that the shortened automobile trip from the new Southern Pacific main line would attract thousands of additional tourists to this district, many of whom he predicted would wish to start from Klamath Falls or other points in order to enjoy the striking scenic attractions.
