Traverse Viking Route to America in Craft of Same Size, in 80 Days

In an effort to prove the Viking path across the North Atlantic could be followed successfully in a small boat, three venturesome Norwegians sailed from Bergen in New York in a 46-foot yawl, completing the journey in 80 days. Their ship, approximately the same size of that of Lief Ericson, who visited America about 1000 A. D., is shown. Inset are two of the mariners, W. Wickstrom and J. Grosgrand.

INTEREST MANIFEST IN BUSINESS AFFAIR

In any convention there are many interesting events, happenings and stunts put on by the different delegations, many mirth provoking incidents which many miss. Mrs. Sadie Davis will cover the "Highlights and Generalities" of the convention.

From Salem, three members attended the convention. Dr. Mary Purvine, ex-president of the Salem club, who played an important role on Prankfest night, when, at the conclusion of the Oregon stunt on behalf of the Oregon clubs, she presented Miss Prichard and Mrs. Wright, each with a Pendleton Indian shawl, the gifts of Clarence M. Bishop of the Pendleton Woolen Mills to the convention committee.

Prankfest night is fun night, all delegates engaging in stunts and pranks, many unique costumes, being seen and some really wonderful skits being presented. Dr. Purvine will describe the outstanding events of this evening.

Mrs. LaRue Ross of Salem, will cover the entertainment features, for always there is the annual banquet, with its many notable speakers, the birthday and vocational luncheons, aside from the many trips to points of scenic interest.

Miss Grace E. Smith, prominent attorney of the capital city was also a convention delegate, her stay however being limited to the opening sessions. It is indeed a kaleidoscopic treat to watch the arrival of the different delegations, the bustle and excitement of the opening of the convention and Miss Smith will do justice to her impressions of this great event.

Mrs. Alice Maloney of Marshfield, national vice president for Oregon, will act as toast mistress. Miss Louise M. Hacker, state president, presiding at the dinner.

Mrs. G. J. Frankel, the first vice president of the state federation will read Mary Stewart's Collect, a prayer, which is dear to the heart of every business woman.

Members may bring guests, all reservations to be made by mail and reach Miss Ann Sherlock, 711 Corbett Bldg., not later than Thursday, September 10.
