Corinne Griffith Predicts Women's Next Summer Style

By CORINNE GRIFFITH (Written for the United News)

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 7.—Bobbed hair and short skirts! They're here to stay. No one designer or group of tailors or barbers can prevail upon the woman of today to let her hair grow into long tresses or to allow her skirts to drop an inch.

Youth means everything. Bobbed hair and short skirts add to youth and grace, and they will always remain with the American girl of today and tomorrow.

Long skirts are cumbersome and are excellent dust collectors. Long hair needs constant attention, and consumes too much time for the present day girl, whose hours are getting more precious than ever before.

The summer will see some beautiful creations in gowns, but the dress portion will remain many inches from the girl's shoe tops. Just having visited New York, I have made a careful survey of the coming styles. Modistes are in favor of the continuation of short dresses, but a certain group advocate long gowns. They will be overthrown.

Barbers have made bobbed hair part of their stock in trade. The barber owning a shop on the side streets and basements knows exactly how to bob a girl's hair. He knows the latest cuts and those most becoming to each type of patron.

Time was when modistes could issue orders for styles each season. This is fast passing and today the great majority of women and young girls demand a hand in deciding what is proper for new styles. They have decried with no little certainty what they want, and what they must get. The high shoe is almost obsolete now. Footwear is exclusively low in style, and colored leather will have a wide favor during the summer months. Stockings of light colors will also find favor in the American girl's eyes.

The coming season will be a colorful one insofar as feminine dress is concerned. Light hues will predominate in all dress. Small hats will grace the bobbed heads, and all in all the girl of tomorrow will be a blaze of color, beauty and grace.

RIFFIANS REPULSE SPANISH SOLDIERS: PARIS, Sept. 7.—The Riffians have succeeded in repulsing an attempted landing of Spanish troops at Alhucemas, according to information received here.

Under protection of a heavy bombardment from battleships in the bay, the Spanish forces attempted to storm the Riffian fortification but were heavily shelled by Riffian machine gunners, and driven back. The attack was preceded by a maneuver by the Franco-Spanish fleets, which aimed to divert attention from the landing party.
