DASH WILL REPORT OREGON CAMPUS ON MONDAY A. M.

Following communication from school of Journalism of the University of Oregon will be primary to a number of young men and women who are anticipating entering the institution this year. Freshmen who attend the University of Oregon this fall will report on the campus at Eugene for a busy week of pre-registration formalities. Next Monday is devoted to physical examination. Tuesday and Wednesday the students will take the freshmen examination and the placement or intelligence test. Entrance to the university is not conditioned on the showing made in the intelligence test, which will be given for the first time this year. Rather, it is for the purpose of supplying the advisory committee and faculty information upon which it will be possible for departments voluntarily to section classes later upon intelligence and performance. Registration material will be distributed Wednesday. The freshmen consult faculty advisers and their courses arranged Thursday and will file class cards Friday. Students will register on Thursday and Friday also.

Three general freshmen assemblies are scheduled for Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. Dr. Geo. W. Dean of the graduate school professor of philosophy, will outline what the university expects of the student in order that the new ones may more readily orient themselves to their surroundings and to themselves to their responsibilities. Registrar Carlton Spaulding will outline registration procedure at the second assembly. On Wednesday Walter Malcolm, student president, and other student officials will discuss extracurricular activities and the extra-curricular life of the institution.

ENGINEMAN DIES FOLLOWING TEN DAYS' SUFFERING

After putting up an heroic fight for his life, William Holt, logging engineer, aged 46, died in a Klamath Falls hospital at 11 o'clock yesterday morning from burns received 10 days ago, when an engine of the Shaw-Bertram Lumber company overturned, scalding and burning Holt and two other companions. The other two are out of danger.

Of the three who were severely burned and injured, Holt was in the most serious condition, and shortly after the accident, brought to a Klamath hospital, where his condition would be watched with greater care.

For several days Holt seemed to be gaining strength into the body which lay swathed in bandages from his head to his feet, and life seemed to gradually surge back into the injured man.

A relapse was suffered late Sunday night, and until 11 o'clock Monday morning the pain increased until death came.

Holt was one of the most popular men in the mill, where he was regarded as a trusted and reliable employe.

Funeral arrangements have not been made, according to Whitlock's mortuary, where the remains are held. It is anticipated that brief funeral services will be held here, and the body sent to his former home for burial.

COUNTY FARMERS SMILE AS BUMPER CROP IS CHECKED

A bumper crop of grain for Klamath has been the prophecy from late spring, and now that the prophecy has come true, Klamath farmers and ranchers are smiling with pleasure over the figures as set before them by County Agent C. A. Henderson.

Following a general check of flour mills, and a survey of the lands now producing grain, it is estimated that more than 600,000 bushels will be taken from the soil this year, making it a million dollar crop.

The figures were prophesied some time ago in the Klamath News, when W. C. Dalton gave an estimate of the bumper crop, especially in the Tule lake country, where more land had been put under cultivation than in the previous 10 years.

An estimate was given yesterday by Henderson, when he stated that approximately 35,000 acres were under cultivation, 15,000 in the Tule lake country and the remainder in the various Klamath projects and surrounding districts.

Rain, which fell heavily during the past week, did small damage to the grain crop this year, as the majority of the grain had been harvested earlier in the season.
