Pittsburgh, Sept. 23.—(Unit- ed)—Sniffing the lush frag- orance of non-resident bankrols ...

When the Braves and Giants met on August 16 at New York the Giants had the edge, but young Cooney proceeded to shut out the Gothamites on three hits, and there- by evened up the score.

The game, however, probably in a spirit of desperation, took both games on Labor Day, the first by a score of 5-4 and the second by a 7-4 score.

way to handle ball players is to talk in money. "Tell 'em what you expect and if they don't walk the mark, fine them. That's the only language they know," he says. Apparently Mack's players know a different language. He has not only made his team a winning one by such tactics, but he has steered it clear of the pitfalls that await a club of young, confident, peppery ball players.

The Boston Braves have little to show for their season's work. The heroic work of Davey Hancock and Dick Rudolph is not indicated in the standings. The team has, however, shown promise that much more can be expected of them next year. And what is more, the team can take some of the credit for making the year a tough one for the four-time Giants. But for the logs, old ties, tacks and glass that the Boston club sprinkled on the roadway, McGraw's team might have been out in front at this time. For the team records to date show that the Braves had licked McGraw's team ten out of twenty times when they last par- tied, to meet again Labor Day.

When the Braves and Giants met on August 16 at New York the Giants had the edge, but young Cooney proceeded to shut out the Gothamites on three hits, and there- by evened up the score. The game, however, probably in a spirit of desperation, took both games on Labor Day, the first by a score of 5-4 and the second by a 7-4 score.

DAILY MARKET QUOTATIONS

Railways Edge Up NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—Railway issues came more to the front in the bond market today. This was principally due to the expectation of favorable August earnings statements. As a matter of fact, it seemed questionable whether these statements would come up to the highly optimistic predictions, which have been made regarding them. An interesting feature was the much smaller transactions occurring in French government issues, this was taken to mean a disposition to await the developments of the French debt negotiations.
