RECEPTION HELD IN NEW GARAGE

With an informal exhibition, dance and reception, H. S. Wakefield, proprietor of the new Dodge Garage, 170 Main street, opened up its new quarters officially last night. The new garage which is one of the finest in the city has been especially built for the business of a garage repair shop and accessory depot. Just recently the firm moved from its old quarters on Klamath to the new building erected at a cost of $50,000, according to city building permits.

During the evening scores of guests of the company viewed the various new Dodge models, after which a dance was held on the spacious floor of the garage. Galloway's orchestra furnished the music.

LABOR UNIONS IN NEW CITY HOME

Organizations Take Over Fine Quarters in Scandinavian Hall on Lease

The Central Labor Union now has a home of its own, and moved into their new quarters in the basement of the Scandinavian Hall, 5th and Walnut streets last week. The labor unions have taken a three year lease on the property and have filled up a number of rooms to be used as meeting halls. The Central Union has grown until the old quarters in the Old Fellows building were not large enough. A number of unions were forced to meet away from the central hall, this fault is now corrected and all unions in the city will meet in the new hall.

The various unions donated all the labor on the new quarters and a few of the material dealers also donated materials. The Central Labor Union wishes to extend their thanks to all who showed their friendliness in this direction.

The new hall is composed now of three separate halls for meeting purposes. One of which is large enough to hold mass meetings or entertainments, club rooms, office and ladies' and gentlemen's rooms.

A supper is being planned for in later part of the month to which all friends and relatives of unionists will be invited.

The Central Labor Union is now composed of 11 chartered unions, with four other charters applied for and now pending.

OREGON FIRST IS SCHOOL'S SLOGAN

"See Oregon first!" Such a slogan will be adopted by Klamath county high school for this season, whose first trip into the depths of seeing Oregon first will include a sight-seeing tour of the lava beds and historic scenes of the Modoc war.

A vote was taken yesterday afternoon among the student body of the high school, including the faculty. The issues before the students were the choice of a trip to either the lava beds or the ice caves. The former won by a heavy majority.

Led by Captain O. C. Applegate, who knows every inch of the lava bed country, the students, faculty and possibly a large delegation from the Daughters of the American Revolution, will form a caravan on Sunday morning.

All those who wish to make the trip have been extended an invitation by Captain Applegate. The time of starting on the trip will be announced later.

One of the interesting historical spots to be visited on the trip will be the Modoc stronghold.

If you are uncertain about the arrangement or wording of your advertisement don't hesitate to ask us for suggestions. We shall be glad to help you with the layout and the preparation of the copy at any time.

George Beckley Is K-O'd by Li'l Dan

George Beckley, well known machinist of Chiloquin, made a brief trip to Klamath Falls yesterday to obtain a marriage license in the office of the county clerk. Beckley gave the name of his bride-to-be as Miss Patricia LeMone of Klamath Falls. Miss LeMone is a hairdresser in the city. They are the second couple to receive marriage license during the month of October.

KLAMATH FALLS WOMEN REPORTED RECOVERING

Two Klamath Falls women, Mrs. Ed Jones and Mrs. Ed Kendall are sharing the same room in the Lane hospital in San Francisco.

Both are recovering from major operations which left them cut off from the outer world with the exception of communication which they are able to receive through the mails and through the papers they receive.

Yesterday word was received that Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Kendall were both recovering rapidly and they would be brought back to Klamath Falls as soon as possible. And in the meantime comes a letter of thanks from them to all their friends in the city who have sent them flowers, messages of cheer and miscellaneous bits of good will.

POLLUTED WATER DEATH TO SALMON

Wild life is one of the state's most important resources. Thousands of tourists are attracted to Oregon because of its fish and game. Each visitor contributes wealth to the state, and responsibility for the preservation of this resource depends upon the appreciation of its value and the full cooperation of everyone.

Statements similar to these have been received in Klamath Falls from E. F. Averill, secretary of the Oregon State Game commission, which is endeavoring to create throughout the state an interest in the protection of the rivers of Oregon.

In an article issued by Averill is found the following paragraph which is of interest to all sportsmen in the country:

"The rivers of Oregon belong to the people as a whole for public use and benefit. They are highways the same as tree-bordered county or state roads. Our streams are the homes of different species of trout and salmon which are important food products. The rivers of Oregon are, therefore, among the most valuable resources of the state. It is the plain duty of every citizen to protect his interest so that he may share in the benefits.

"The common practice of polluting our public waters if not corrected will in time destroy trout, salmon and other food fishes, the very misfortune that has fallen to many of the rivers of the Atlantic coast. Water to a fish is what air is to a person. Fish are subject to disease as are people. They cannot live in filth. A river can digest a certain amount of sewage, but if the stench is fed a stream year after year in increased quantities, the river, overloaded, breaks down and the water is poisonous for trout and salmon."

TOTAL OF $90 IN FINES ARE ASSESSED BY JUDGE

Ninety good dollars rolled into the desk of Police Judge Gaghagan yesterday afternoon when four drunks pleaded guilty and preferred to part with sorely earned ducats rather than be the guests of Klamath Falls in the bare city jail.

The first to appear was McKinley Jackson who paid his fine of $25, pleading guilty to a charge of drunkenness.

George Stuard and J. Turner both entered pleas of guilty and were fined $20 apiece.

The last to appear before Gaghagan and hear the musical request for $25 was J. Burns, whose love for the bottle caused him to be brought to the "jug."

COUNTY SCHOOLS ARE REPORTED DOING FINE

Conditions at the Chiloquin school and the Braymill school are exceptionally good, according to Fred Peterson, Klamath county superintendent of schools, who visited the two communities yesterday.

At Braymill a number of new dwellings are under construction, he said. Supplies have not been furnished all of the county schools whose increased enrollments have necessitated additional materials, according to Mr. Peterson.

ON SOUTHERN TRIP

Mrs. Will Houston and Miss Goldie Miller left yesterday for an extended visit in San Francisco and Regue River valley points. The trip will be made in the Houston car. Mrs. Houston and Miss Miller plan to be gone a fortnight.

CASES DISMISSED

Two cases pending in circuit court yesterday were dismissed by Judge A. L. Leavitt. They were the Klamath Supply company versus Mr. and Mrs. Fred McMillan and the Acme Motor company against A. E. Brook. In both cases, it was said, the claims had been satisfied.

RECORD HERD OF CATTLE SHIPPED

Twenty-two hundred head of cattle, one of the largest shipments of the season, went south yesterday from the Z-X ranch in Midland, known as the Shewackan Land and Cattle company holdings. The shipment was made by Buck Smith of Paisley, who with six picturesque buckaroos, spent yesterday in the city arranging for the final details in the shipment of 68 cars of beef cattle.

According to Smith, this is the first shipment of a series to go south for the next two months. The cattle are being shipped directly to Bakersfield to the Kern County Land company, of which the Z-X ranch of the Shewackan holdings, is a part.

Smith, a prominent cattle buyer of Paisley, speaks favorably for the cattle market for the remainder of the year. He returned, with his six men, to Paisley late Tuesday afternoon.

Another shipment to leave yesterday for the south was made by W. C. Dalton, of Malin, whose eight carloads of beef cattle were sent from the Midland district to southern points.

MURRAY CASE IS READY FOR TRIAL

bond. Some time later he was acquitted of a charge of assault upon an officer in the performance of his duty.

After Murray had declined to surrender his property, the Record instituted a mandamus suit against the sheriff and, at that time, Lloyd Low, sheriff, was in Portland. An alternative writ of mandamus was issued by Circuit Judge Kuykendall, which was answered by the sheriff's deputies with the explanation that Murray wouldn't let them have the property.

Judge Kuykendall was not long in acting. He held that the grounds set forth by the sheriff's office were insufficient, and consequently issued the uncompromising writ of mandamus, December 17, demanding that action be taken by the sheriff's office not later than Deember 31, 1921. About this time Sheriff Lloyd Low returned. He, too, was not slow in acting. Going to the office of the Record he demanded the property, and was, like the other officers, refused. With Marlon Barnes, a deputy, he went to the rear door, admitted himself, and walked away with the printing material. Mr. Murray offered no resistance to Sheriff Low.

Originally Mr. Murray submitted several causes of action: He charged conspiracy, malicious prosecution, false arrest, trespass on property, trespass on person and other charges.

Robert Benson Kuykendall, of Klamath Falls, will conduct the case for the defendants in the federal court.

CITY PROGRESSING DECLARES VISITOR

"To me Klamath Falls is scarcely recognizable. The city, undoubtedly, has a wonderful future. I believe it receives more publicity in the metropolitan newspapers, and is more talked of, than any community in the state."

It was Dr. H. H. Olinger, prominent Salem resident and active in the capital city's politics, who was in Klamath Falls yesterday on a hunting trip. He had not visited this community since 1913.

At present, according to word received from Salem, Dr. Olinger is being urged to run for the state senate. He is very popular in Salem where he has held many public offices. At present he is serving as chairman of the school board.

Dr. Olinger was in the city with Homer Smith and Dr. C. J. son, also of Salem. Expects to be joined here by who is acquainted with students of the community.
