

Coolidge Keeps Caller Waiting Till Game Ends

President So Interested in Fate of Senators As to Ignore Shriner

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—(United News)—President Coolidge was so interested in listening to radio returns of the last world series baseball game that he kept the imperial potentials of the shrines, James C. Burger, who had called to see him, waiting for 15 minutes Thursday afternoon.

The president left his radio set before the game was over, however, and did not learn what the final result was until a good while afterward, when he expressed his keen disappointment.

The government slowed down almost to a dead stop Thursday afternoon, bureau chiefs as well as clerks deserting their tasks and gathering in neighboring offices, where radio sets were at work. Some of these offices almost overflowed with the spectators.

These government workers shared the gloom of thousands and thousands of others who stood all afternoon before score boards waiting vainly for a rally at the last minute that would bring the Senators out on top.

SUBMARINE RISES TO STRIKE KEEL OF TUG was steering a zig-zag course to prevent the dummy torpedoes from the submarine striking her sides when the crash occurred.

The S-25, Capt. Haines reported, was maneuvering to fire a torpedo and was just coming to the surface to get her bearings when she struck the Ortolan.

Atlantic Tragedy Recalled
The maneuvers of the Ortolan and the submarine were not known to each other so that the zig-zagging course being steered by the Ortolan was entirely a secret to the commander of the S-25.

Had the S-25 come to the surface of the water an instant sooner the tug would have crashed into the side of the submarine as the City of Rome smashed into the side of the S-21 recently on the Atlantic coast. As it was, only the clever maneuvering of Capt. Haines when the presence of the Ortolan became known, saved the submarine from being sent to the bottom of the ocean.

A court of inquiry into the official responsibility for the crash will be called here within a few days. Capt. Haines stated that the commander of the Ortolan was not to blame as the course of the Ortolan was not known to the S-25. It is possible that Capt. Haines will be cleared of all blame.

LEGLESS MAN GRINS AS OTHER COMPLAINS

makes any particular difference," he added.

"What's funny?" he was asked. "Have you ever noticed," he explained, "how many persons tell you that a cripple makes lots of money? Seems a good percentage of them figure that way. Of course it hurts our business, to an extent, but you'll understand that what you write won't make much difference anyway. They'll still believe as they do now."

"But I'm telling you, personally, that the average man like me—you see I'm working pretty long hours—don't take in much. An average day in Klamath Falls would net me about $3. Oh, I'm not trying to make you see it wrong. Of course it's better on nights when the boys get their pay. But, even then, I never have had any big—really big—days."

Mr. Bush, who now is alone in the world, lost his legs in the year 1907, after they had been frozen in Alaska. He claims Portland as his home and travels about, chiefly, in the northwest.

"And don't you get pretty cold?" The legless man grinned again. "Not often," he said, as he smoothed out the newspaper on which he sat. "You see you get used to it. Haven't you?"

For a second there was an almost wistful expression on the face of the vendor of pencils. And then he heard a man, passing, bemoaning his ill-fortune over something or other. Instantly the gray eyes of the cripple lighted up. Again he pursed his lips.
"Pretty good world," he said, smiling, "and pretty decent folks in it."

TAX CUT WORRIES CHIEFS ON TOTALS

Democrat, advocates extension of this time to 16 years, which would require less each year for retirement purposes and thus leave more money for tax reduction.

He argues that the present generation should not be made to bear the entire brunt of the war, which contributed greatly to the public debt through loans made to foreign countries, the money secured by liberty loans.

TOM MURRAY FOUND GUILTY AS CHARGED

Immediately returned to his cell at the prison.

Immediately upon the jury in the Murray case taking the case under consideration Murray was taken to his cell and James Willos and Ellsworth Kelley, jointly charged with Murray for Sweeney's murder which occurred while the men were making a bloody escape from the state penitentiary were brought into court and the selection of a jury to sit upon the charge against them was begun.

Undertaking of the case against Willos and Kelley was ordered by Judge Kelly in spite of the protest of District Attorney Carson, who requested that the case of the other two be postponed until the jury in the Murray case returned its verdict.

Try Two Others

Decision to try Willos and Kelley together was arrived at late Thursday afternoon by Judge Kelly upon the request of Will R. King, counsel for the defense. Hitherto it had been planned to try each of the three accused men separately.

Throughout the delivery of the arguments by his own counsel and by counsel for the state as well as the instructions to the jury by Judge Kelly, Murray had sat with bowed head, busily engaged with pen and paper, seldom glancing at either the jurors in whose hands his fate rested, or at the audience, composed largely of women and girls, which thronged the court room as it has on each of the 10 days over which the trial has dragged its weary way.

Parents Not Present

Although Mr. and Mrs. James Murray of Port Blakeley, Wash., had occupied front row seats all day, neither was present in the court room when the verdict was returned.

KLAMATH FALLS LEADS BUILDING

In the number of new buildings erected during the first nine months of 1925, Klamath Falls, with the exception of Portland, comes first, according to a statement received here yesterday from the S. W. Straus company, of New York city. Seven hundred and one buildings were erected here during the period, the report shows, Klamath Falls leading Eugene by 96 structures. The capital invested over the period was given as $1,397,587.

BABY GIRL ARRIVES

Another girl's name enters the list of Klamath county's younger citizens, with the arrival of a baby girl to Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Litzenberger at 2:30 Wednesday afternoon. The child was born at Shaw-Bertram mill, where the family reside, and where Litzenberger is interested in the mill.

Record Price Paid for This Lad

What is believed to have been the highest price ever paid by a Class A league club for a Class B league player was recorded when the Atlanta club of the Southern Association paid Asheville, N. C., in the Sally league $7,500 for the release of Clarence "Stuffy" McCrone, flashy young first baseman. McCrone hails from the sandlots of Cleveland. This is his second year out in organized baseball. He left Asheville with the remarkable batting mark of .376, topping all first basemen in the circuit.

Pennsylvania Road Condemned by Labor

ATLANTIC CITY, Oct. 15.—(United News)—The American Federation of Labor here in its 45th annual convention Thursday unanimously adopted a committee report condemning the Pennsylvania road on the grounds that it opposed labor unions.

W. W. Atterbury, the railroad company's president, favors "company dominated employee representation" and has declared "anybody and implacable hostility to genuine collective bargaining," the report said.

The Baltimore & Ohio railroad on the other hand, the report declared, has treated the workers fairly and enjoys better market stock quotations.

Detroit was chosen as the next meeting place. Sacramento, Birmingham and St. Petersburg, Fla., were also suggested.

Iowa Man Named Aide to Sec. Davis

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—(United News)—President Coolidge has further fortified his position in the west—once the center of discontent and still restless—by the appointment of Hanford MacNider, of Iowa, former commander of the American legion, as assistant secretary of war. Within a year Coolidge has selected three cabinet members and one member of the "little cabinet," MacNider, from that section of the middle and northwest, which has shown some dissatisfaction with the Republican regime.

It began with Secretary of State Kellogg, from Minnesota and has included Secretary of Agriculture Jardine from Kansas, Secretary of War Davis from Missouri and now MacNider, from Iowa, a string of neighboring states. While republican leaders feel that this section of the west now as safe as any section can be in a political way, no one can ever tell when the disaffection apparent there several months ago may revive, and it is just as well to be prepared. President Coolidge has made another shrewd political move.

Logging Is Subject of Luncheon Talk

Using logging as his discussion for the noon hour meeting of the Kiwanis club, Marion Nine, president and manager of the Shasta View Lumber company, and manager and part owner of the Nine Lumber company, spoke before a large number of members and guests yesterday.

Everything in the lumber game, from logging to the finest points in the industry, were brought out by Nine during his brief address.

Dr. G. A. Massey spoke, making a few general remarks for the interest of the luncheon club.
