Age-Old Drama Is Enacted in Court

ALLISON, Iowa, Oct. 19.—(United News)—The age-old drama of a mother's love is being enacted here as 17 year-old Warrane Vandervoort awaits pronouncement of his punishment for the murder of his father, a Presbyterian minister.

The mother, Mrs. R. J. Vandervoort stands in the rear of the court room as officials unfold the story of her son's amazing crime. She listens with drawn face as they relate how the "model boy" crept down the stairway of their home one morning last August, a little rifle in his hand and how he shot down his father and then turned the weapon on her.

It is a strange crime, and to some, unexplainable. But Mrs. Vandervoort can explain it. And she is a little impatient that the elated story should go on and on without her explanation.

Mrs. Vandervoort is barely recovered from the wounds inflicted by her son. She still carries at the base of her skull one slug of lead from the rifle. She believes her boy to be mentally deranged. At least she believes he was not himself when he tried to kill his father and mother, although perhaps now he is himself—the same bright, intelligent youth who once stood at the head of his class in high school and who once loved his parents.

The County Attorney, B. H. Brauer and Sheriff H. W. Burma are trying to convince the court that the murder was deliberate and premeditated and that the "flaming youth" should hang. But, as Mrs. Vandervoort said during the afternoon recess, "they don't understand." They haven't heard her story.

After shooting his parents, young Vandervoort fled in the family automobile. Several miles from his home he lost control of the car and crashed into a ditch. When other motorists found him he was talking incoherently about the murder of his father and mother by a strange man who had kidnaped him.

Later he confessed, saying the constant quarrelling of his father and mother led him to attack them.

Injured Pioneer Is Reported Improving

While judging the contestants in a rodeo last week in Yreka, J. Frank Adams, pioneer of Klamath, and one of its most prominent ranchers, was severely injured, and is now lying in a Yreka hospital with a compound fracture of the leg, bruises and minor cuts.

Although his condition is somewhat improved, there is yet some anxiety felt for the man who has passed his seventieth birthday. His sons, who are in the south, are keeping in constant touch with hospital authorities, and are ready to rush to his bedside if there is a relapse.

While on his horse, Adams was in the middle of the arena, where the thick of the bucking contest was going on. A bucking horse, wildly plunging about the field, kicked Adams' horse, which fell, pinning the aged man beneath him.

Adams was rushed to the hospital where immediate medical attention was given him.

K. of P. Lodge Is Host to Boy Scouts

Obeys the thirteenth scout law, that of "A scout is always hungry," members of the two scout troops of the city, under the guidance of Everett O. Nord, in the absence of Julius Mueller and Percy Murray, were guests of the K. P. lodge last night in the lodge rooms.

The banquet was served at seven thirty, in time to whet an appetite for the hungry scouts. Scouts of Klamath Falls have work of their troops well underway, and will soon be in the midst of their winter activity.

THE ELEPHANT HAS NO JOINTS—people used to believe

THEFORE, according to medieval gossip, he is obliged to sleep leaning against a tree. When the nocturnal hunter cuts down the tree, the sleeping elephant falls and, having no joints, is unable to rise, and is easily captured or slain.

Superstitions Don't Work Out in Practice
An entertaining superstition, but no more absurd than that "eastern" motor oils are "somehow" better merely because they cost more and are made in the east.

As a matter of fact, the most suitable crude so far discovered for the manufacture of a motor lubricant is western naphthenic base crude. And the most highly developed refining process is this Company's patented high-vacuum process, during the use of which Zerolene is submitted to 15 positive checks for quality.

Zerolene Proves Quality in Use
Zerolene challenges comparison with any oil made, whether of eastern or western origin. If you have not yet tried Zerolene—remember it is successfully lubricating every make of car in use—high priced and low—more cars in the Pacific Coast States than any other oil made!

Why pay tribute to a superstition? Insist on Zerolene. Always ask for ZEROLENE by name.

Get the Facts!
A series of independent and impartial reports showing the experience of large users with Zerolene motor oil has been collected in our booklet, "Why Pay Tribute to a Superstition?" Ask any Standard Oil Company representative or Zerolene dealer for a copy.

Coming—
NEW COPCO 6% PREFERRED STOCK
Price $92.00, Yield 6.52%

A forthcoming issue of 6% Preferred Stock of The California Oregon Power Company is announced at this time, for the convenience of prospective investors.

Continuing the regular policy of making this investment easy to purchase, the Company will accept subscriptions not only for cash but also on time payments of $5 per share per month. Monthly payments will earn interest at the rate of 6% until the purchase is completed.

A Record of Development and Progress
The consistent progress made by this Company during the past few years, together with the growing appreciation of the stability and value of hydro-electric power securities throughout the country, has resulted in an active and steady demand for such investments.

A New Issue, at a New Price
These favorable conditions are fundamental and permanent. The Company sees no reason to believe that a high dividend rate will again be necessary to attract ample capital for the development of this rapidly growing property in an expanding and prosperous territory.

The Preferred Stock about to be issued will therefore carry a dividend of Six Per Cent, and will yield a return of 6.52% on its initial price of $92 per share.

Copco Preferred Stock has accordingly risen steadily in price, in keeping with its increased worth and the expansion of production facilities.

First offered to the public in 1922 at $92 per share, the 7% Preferred Stock is now quoted at more than $100 per share. All of the Company's 7% Preferred Stock has now been sold.
