Common Sense Candidate

Smith Makes No Undue Promises

O. A. Smith, who will seek election as councilman from the second ward, has started off his campaign with a common sense policy, which speaks well for him as a future contributing factor in directing the affairs of the city.

Smith, who is a successful business man himself, is credited with being a sagacious and trustworthy citizen in his relations with other men. He is also a well known and respected citizen of Klamath Falls, a taxpayer and a resident of this city for a considerable time.

Aside from these attainments, which apparently well fit one seeking public office, he has evidenced another, and one without which no man, however well meaning, can add much to the welfare of any community—that of common sense.

Naturally, many of Smith's friends, who are backing him in his candidacy, have asked him what his policies would be in event that he is elected.

Smith's reply was simple, but it gave his hearers a faith in the man that no protracted peroration could possibly have done.

His reply was, in effect, that he would be guided solely by the desire to serve the best interests of the city, that he had no axe to grind, and that he was pledged to no man, nor firm nor corporation.

In this simple, but common sense policy, the aspirant for the second ward seat indicates he is not going to put forth any flowery promises which he might find, when seated within the councilmanic circle, that he would not be able to fulfill.

Few, if any, men have the perspicacity to foresee with any degree of surety, events which may transpire in the future. The majority of candidates during various elections in past years have been in the habit of making strong and verbose promises before election, most of which, and oftentimes all of which, are never kept at all.

Smith, apparently has too much sense, knows life and humanity too well to make promises on situations which neither he nor anyone else can possibly visualize understandingly.

So he makes no rash promises. Instead of promises, the candidate evidently intends to give service to the people who place their trust in him.

Members of the board of directors of the chamber of commerce Tuesday placed themselves on record as being citizens believing in prompt action when much needed civic improvements are underway. That body urged that no time be lost in placing the new street sign posts, and also that steel signs be placed on the city business street intersections immediately. Truly this is a much needed improvement and the chamber of commerce is to be complimented on the active progressiveness of its directing board.

Recognizing the fitness of having Chinese pheasants to grace our Sunday table, and that the season is open, seven of us able-bodied men, fully armored a car, and motored to the alleged haunts of the gorgeous pheasant. And there they were in profusion, but they had nothing on the no hunting signs. And we could see a certain heartless justice of the peace doing a cherubim and seraphim stunt over each sign. We ran out of John D. looking for a field that wasn't posted and had to walk four miles and back for gasoline. We got one small quail that thoughtlessly lingered in no man's land and we are nearly ran over with the car. At home we found two of the wives cooking Chinese pheasants. They had walked out and got their limit. I'll say it was the limit.

O'er the garden fence the conversation had suddenly turned acrimonious.

"An' if yore boy, 'Erbert, ties any more cans to our pore dog's tail," was Mrs. Moggin's stern ultimatum. "e'll tear about it, that's all. Oh, an' per'aps you've done wiv that sauceman wot you borrowed last Monday."

"'Erbert," asked Mrs. Grubb, shrilly, "wot 'ave you bin doing to Mrs. Moggin's dog?"

"Nothin', ma!" replied the small boy unblushingly. "There!" said his mother, triumphantly. "An' you returned 'er sauceman yesterday, didn't you, dearie?"

"Sent it back by 'er dog!" said 'Erbert, calmly.

A young Englishman went to Edinburgh and devoted his days and nights to an earnest endeavor to drink all the Scotch whiskey there was. He couldn't do it, and presently went to a doctor, complaining of a disordered stomach.

"Quit drinking!" ordered the doctor.

"But my dear sir, I cawn't. I get so thirsty."

"Well," said the doctor, "when-ever you are thirsty eat an apple instead of taking a drink."

The Englishman paid his fee and left. He met a friend to whom he told his experience.

"Bally rot!" he protested. "Fawncy eating forty apples a day!"

Mrs. O'Flarity, a scrubwoman, had been absent from her duties for several days. Upon her return her employer asked her the reason for her absence.

"Sure, I've been earin' for wan of me sick children," she replied. "And how many children have you, Mrs. O'Flarity?" he asked. "Seven in all," she replied. "Four by the third wife of me second husband, three by the second wife of me first."

Visiting in Klamath—Of interest to his many acquaintances is the arrival in Klamath Falls of Dave Lenox, who, with a party of friends, is in the county for a week's hunting trip. Lenox is well known in Klamath Falls, where he resided for some time, formerly owning the Shasta confectionery. He now makes his home in Roseburg. During this visit in the city he will spend some time with his two sisters, Mrs. Lottie Agos and Mrs. Edith Ream.

In from Sprague River—Among the many business visitors in the city yesterday was Fred R. Bowen, resident of Sprague River, who spent the afternoon transacting business affairs in the county court house.

Here from Bend—Among the visitors in Klamath Falls this week is Rev. Francis H. Ball, rector of the Bend Episcopal church. He is spending his time here with Rev. J. Henry Thomas, who now has charge of the parish of St. Paul's Episcopal church in Klamath Falls.

Last of Deer Season—Hunters from the outlying districts who have been out for several weeks have returned to Klamath Falls with the close of a most successful deer season. Three cars were seen on the streets yesterday with many horns buck on both front fenders.

Be sure of your furnace!

Your comfort—even your health—depends on the kind of heat you obtain from your furnace. That kind of heat depends on the construction of your furnace and the skill with which it is installed in your home. Health requires an abundant circulation of warm moist heat! Not just heated air. Comfort requires adequate heat at minimum expense and effort.
