Crater Lake Lodge Tucked in Blankets

Snow in patches, the black bruns in hiding for the winter and a bleak lonesome wind blowing from Crater Lake is all that is left of a glorious summer of the famous lodge.

Windows in the English manor house lodge were boarded as protection against the weather and possible visitors. Even the water has been turned off for the winter and the caretaker has his precious supply on hand waiting for the snow which will give him opportunity to melt it occasionally for his use.

Only one person occupies the lodge for the coming winter. He is a youth probably 20 years of age, already needing a haircut and warmly dressed in army togs. One corner of the lodge has been prepared for his winter quarters where he will spend month after month not seeing a person or hearing a sound but the scurry of tiny paws of wood rats or chipmunks in search of food. There will be no fire in the huge fireplace until summer melts the banks of snow that cover the lower windows in great drifts.

than 50 persons from the Klamath Falls and Medford entrances made their way to the lake for the last visit of the season. A biting wind, blowing off the lake, made their visits brief and none made the long hike to the water's edge.

The engineers are pulling up camp and leaving today from the park and from Anna Springs camp. They are leaving their work uncompleted until the coming spring, when the highway with its detours will be finished.

With the departure of the engineers the entire park will be left in the care of only a few rangers, the sleeping bears, squirrels and chipmunks and the soft thud of pine cones as they hit the white snow.

Piggly Wiggly To Open Doors Today

This morning at nine o'clock Piggly Wiggly, No. 1858 of the world chain and No. 1 in the chain of southern Oregon stores, will open its door to the anxiously waiting public to receive them in their recently renovated quarters, which have been fitted over with the new Piggly Wiggly standard fixtures that have made the store novel throughout the world.

Although Oregon has been the last of the western states to be colonized with the stores, the state has received them well and they are fast being recognized as one of the most active of the chain stores in the United States. It is thought by those in charge of the installation of the stores that the next link in the huge chain will find to be placed

It was previously announced that the store would open at eight o'clock. However, due to the additional work being put into the building the store will be forced to open at nine o'clock today.

The new fixtures arrived the latter part of the week and have been installed in the building. They are the latest model in Piggly Wiggly fixtures which make shopping easier with shelves four inches from the floor to the average length.

T. J. Hampson, manager of the Klamath Falls store is a recent arrival in the city from Grand Junction, Colorado. His family is expected to arrive during the coming week to make their home in Klamath Falls permanently. His work has been the key to the success of Piggly Wiggly in the city.

The right foot of Charles Krueger was heavy Sunday. Which fact would not be worthy of recording had it not been resting on the foot accelerator of an automobile which Krueger was driving.
