Sports Done Brown

The recent surprising achievement of the Indiana university eleven in holding the usually powerful Syracuse eleven to two touchdowns deserves some consideration.

This close score can mean one of two things—either Syracuse lacks any semblance of its perennially powerful eleven or Indiana is about to resume its place in the football sun.

I'm inclined to believe the latter is the logical explanation.

Michigan's overwhelming victory over the Indiana team the other day temporarily made the Hoosier team look bad. A week later, however, Michigan met the powerful Wisconsin eleven, trained by George Little to Michigan's ways, and trounced the Wisconsin outfit handsomely.

Coach Yost sent against the Indians one of the greatest elevens the Wolverine boss has developed in years.

Bill Ingram, former Navy star, has been laboring quietly with his material at Indiana for a few seasons. He has been biding his time, waiting for an opportunity to herald a star now and then. Last year the team showed flashes of what was to be expected eventually. A 12 to 7 victory over Ohio State was the outstanding achievement in 1924. Added to this were a 21 to 0 victory over DePauw and a 21 to 7 win over Wabash.

This year Ingram seems to be "hot."

His team may not challenge the "Big Ten" brothers this year, but it is something to be noted.

Watch Indiana.

Stanley Coreleskie, retrieved from the baseball ash can by Washington, may have failed to come through in the recent world's series, but his work during the regular campaign was duly appreciated by President Clark Griffith and his associates on the Washington baseball club. This is indicated by the statement from Washington that Griffith handed the veteran spitball pitcher a bonus of $1,000 the other day—this amount in addition to Covey's share of the world's series melon.

Coveleskie may well be credited with winning the pennant for the Capital team. He was the leading pitcher for the league. But for his 29 victories the 1924 champions would have trailed the Athletics to the wire. He lost but five games, giving him an .899 average.

Covey started the season with a rush and piled up something like 13 straight before he missed fire one day. That he failed to carry his end in the clash with the Pirates cannot be taken as a reflection on Covey's ability or desire to help. He is a veteran. He has been hurling the elusive and arm-snapping spitball for many years. He pitched his heart out for the club throughout a torrid campaign. He simply lacked the fire when called on to turn back the young slugging Pirates.

The club, it is understood, also gave Fred Marberry the same bonus for his great work as a relief pitcher. Marberry's ability to go in in the late innings and baffle the opposition with a fast ball up around the chin has made him one of the most valuable pitchers in baseball.

Coats $7.50 and $15.00, at Barnhart's, McCarthy Bldg. N4-8
