

FLAMES IN EYES AS STAND

Oberholzer's Former Partner Takes Stand on Moral Defense

SEASIDE, Ind., Nov. 11.—The reflection of the flames in the eyes of Miss Madge Oberholzer's former partner, Earl Klenck, as he took the witness stand Wednesday afternoon at the trial of the witness stand to testify that he had never seen Miss Oberholzer in the company of the man who was charged with the murder of her.

Miss Oberholzer died 29 days after the alleged assault. The prosecution claims death resulted from wounds inflicted while struggling with her assailant. The defense holds she died from poison, self administered.

Final arguments in the trial will be delivered Thursday. Judge Will Sparks announced that attorneys for each side will be allowed 3 hours in which to address the jury.

The speaker presented the farmer as a citizen, who is taking an intelligent part in the affairs of his community and the nation, and who is applying principles of business to a greater extent than ever.

He advocated cooperative marketing, opposed any renewed attempt to revive the child labor amendment and urged a federal taxation policy which would include abolition of special taxes for war purposes.

Putting the YARDSTICK on Progress

THE BUSINESS WORLD has an accurate measure with which it gauges the growing value of securities. It is PRICE.

Since 1922, when The California Oregon Power Company first offered its 7% Preferred Stock for public investment, the price has steadily advanced with each successive issue from $92.00 a share in 1922 to $100.00 a share in 1925, and is now above par.

How the Company Has Grown

In this same period, the Company's investments in generating plants, lines, equipment, etc., more than doubled in size.

Its net earnings were over $1,000,000.00 for 1924 as compared with $550,000.00 for 1920. It spent nearly $300,000.00 more (mostly in the communities in which it operates) for operating expenses and taxes.

It paid to Preferred Stock holders approximately $280,000.00 in Preferred Stock dividends in 1925.

The Measuring Stick Goes Up

The announcement of the new issue of Copco Six Per Cent Preferred Stock, to yield 6.52% at a price of $92.00 per share, marks another important advance in the progress of this Company and the communities which it serves.

Any member of our organization will gladly accept your order for shares of the new Preferred Stock. Ask him about it now—and particularly about the Copco Monthly Payment Plan for easy investment.
