

JUNIOR SENATOR ADDRESSES CLUB ON LAND STATUS

prevented additional withdrawals without the consent of congress, nearly 23 per cent of the area of the state of Oregon was forever withdrawn from settlement and taxation. Lands which are part of the state of Oregon, lands which will forever be a burden upon our taxpayers under the present policy. Lands which will have a value in a 50-year cycle of forest removal and re-forestation of more than $500,000,000 or an amount equal to one-half of the present taxable wealth of Oregon.

He pointed with pride to the fact that Oregon had received $49,000,000 in appropriations from congress during the past four years for roads, harbors, reclamation of arid lands, etc. That she had participated in the federal road aid, forest highway, forest road, and development appropriations and apportionments to the magnificent total of $16,234,322. During that time, however, New York received $70,289,923; Pennsylvania, $27,991,861; Ohio, $22,954,759 in federal road aid appropriations and proportional amounts provided for every state in the union. The senator exclaimed that it was not just or equitable for states having their entire area upon the tax rolls to participate in the resources of our reserved area to the detriment of Oregon. In fact, the senator said, the conservation policy will be beneficial, not only to all the American people, but its benefits will be world wide, and such a gigantic undertaking can not be carried out at the sole expense of the people of Oregon.

In short Senator Stanfield maintains that the resources of the 11 public land states, forever withdrawn and which can never reach the tax rolls, are the property of these states and must when turned into cash by use or timber sales be paid to those states and the counties therein. That the diversion of one dollar of forest money, show the zeal of administration, into the federal treasury is certification.

The purpose of the senator's campaign in this matter, which has been fostered in the hearings held by the U. S. senate committee on public lands and surveys of which he is chairman, is to impress the people of this state—the tax payers into whose pocket this matter goes—that they are about to be peaceably divested of a great inheritance. He believes that the people of the east, when made to understand the injustice of the operation, will favor justice. He also believes that every citizen of Oregon should continue to keep in touch with the growth and development of this issue to the end that he may be able to assist in this effort to divert from the coffers of the federal treasury and into the treasuries of the several counties of Oregon the proceeds from the utilization of our natural resources of which we are today losing 65 per cent. The amount today is comparatively small but it will increase with leaps and bounds within the next few years.

Two letters were found on a table in the room. One was addressed to "Mr. C. Williams, Miami, Fla.," and was signed "your wife," and the other was addressed to "Mrs. G. H. Chesser, Sioux City, Iowa," and began, "dearest mother."

Banks Show Huge Clearings in 20 Mos.

Banks of Klamath Falls, The American National and the First National banks, report a clearing, from January 1, 1924, to October 15, 1925, far in excess of $29,000,000.

Building permits issued by the city in that length of time amount to $3,132,296.

These figures were obtained in the office of Police Judge Gaghagen who has compiled them at the request of Thomas McCuskie, secretary-manager of the Manufacturer's and Merchant's association of Portland, Oregon. McCuskie will attend a meeting of the American Railway association to be held in Seattle on December the fourth and has asked for similar figures from leading cities in Oregon.

According to Judge Gaghagen these figures far surpass any others in the annals of Klamath Falls' history. The past 20 months have been more prosperous than any preceding length of time since Klamath Falls' growth became so apparent.

Especially noticeable was the increase in the joint clearings of the banks in the city showing the rapid extension of industry and commerce which has become indicative of the growth of the city.
