

CHRISTMAS SEALS SAVE MANY LIVES

War on White Plague Made Possible By Your Use of Penny Letter Seals

Christmas seals at one cent each is the only method by which the National Tuberculosis association solicit their funds with which to carry on their national program of national health education, and their fight against tuberculosis.

Every year during the month of December, school children in every school all over the United States are given these penny stamps to sell.

Children are asked to help in this campaign because they are the most susceptible to tuberculosis. (Statistics show that the death rate from this disease is higher between the ages of 10 and 14 than at other time.) Therefore in this way the opportunity is made to explain to each child what tuberculosis is, what they should do in their every day life to prevent getting it. Further, that by selling these little seals they are actually helping to cure those who have the disease by providing sanitariums where those who could not otherwise afford treatment may be taken care of with a goodly percentage of complete cures. At present there is only one such sanitarium in Oregon, but there is hope of another one soon.

This, of course, is not the only object in selling Christmas seals: The more important object being the prevention of disease.

The method followed to prevent communicable diseases is to constantly teach the necessity of keeping physically fit and in that way be able always to resist contracting them.

This is done by distributing free literature; posters are made by the school children as well as adults, which will encourage children to carry out health habits. Clinics are held for babies and pre-school children for the diagnosis of defects which, if corrected as recommended, will prevent the child from contracting disease. School inspections are carried on by the public health nurse and the teachers of the school children, to determine whether they are physically fit. Other clinics of many forms are carried on in the various cities and communities.

Klamath county is much more fortunate than many of the other counties of the state, in that we have here a full health unit, directed by a full time health officer, and also our public health association.

Klamath County Public Health association is a branch of the State Tuberculosis association, and having such an association in our own county, we are given a stated percentage of the Christmas seal proceeds to be spent in our own county for health education, for materials to prevent disease, and last, but not least, to help pay for corrections of defects in those who are not able to pay for their own.

The other portion of the Christmas seal money is sent to the state association, who in turn send a small percentage to the national association. This year the state tuberculosis association is paying the salary of the first public health nurse to be had in Lake county, and we are helping in this, with the seal sale money we turn into the state association. Five years ago the children in Lake county did their bit in helping to pay for the first public health nurse in Klamath county.

Acre Lot Deeded St. Paul's Church

Rector J. Henry Thomas, Walter West and other members of St. Paul's Episcopal church, were made happy last night with the donation of an acre lot to the church building fund.

West, chairman of the finance committee, and a realtor of no mean parts, announced he had a buyer for the lot within five minutes after it had been deeded over by the Wishard Realty company.

A beautiful new church to cost $17,500 is now under construction by St. Paul's members. They got $10,500 for their old building and lot. West is trying to raise the rest of the funds before the edifice is completed. He has had several donations of $100 and many smaller sums.

KLAMATH FALLS KIDDIES ARE LISTENING IN TO SEE WHAT OLD SANTA HAS FOR CHRISTMAS

—and Bobby, you know—he's such a little fellow I thought maybe—

You wonder why a number of persons in Klamath Falls are volunteering their services that there may be a well-filled community chest on Christmas eve?

—I thought maybe, Santa Claus, that you might get him some marbles or a top or something. As for me, you see, I'm a pretty big girl and I'll get along. But it would be a pretty big disappointment for Bobby because, you see, he's so sure—

Over the shoulders of the committeemen, of newspapermen, the doubtful contributors should read some of the letters from children which, daily, arrive from the tots who live in the vicinity of Klamath Falls. Sometimes there is a smile to be found in the letters; again there is something more nearly approximating pathos.

And the community chest committee hopes to secure money and clothing and food that the unfortunate families here will have a Christmas that is really worth while.

Actual work is to begin by the members of the committee next Monday morning. Then there will be soliciting, and those who can afford to give are expected to furnish their portion. A meeting of the committee is to be held at the chamber of commerce Monday afternoon at 1 o'clock.

“Committeemen feel confident that the residents of Klamath Falls will not fall the little boys and girls who, unless contributions are received, will spend an unhappy day December 25,” Chris Barnstable, one of the workers, said yesterday. “Last year we provided for 80 families and, undoubtedly, there will be many more this year.”

Later on, during the drive, trucks will be furnished to pick up the clothing and food which persons will donate. Headquarters are to be opened in the Smith building, Fifth

With cold weather here, it is pointed out that there are some families in the vicinity who haven't even wood to provide necessary heat. There are any number of articles, it was explained, which must be purchased with cash, and such donations are to be more than welcome.

Fatal Collision in Southern California

BAKERSFIELD, Calif., Nov. 28.—Neal D. Barker of Los Angeles, was instantly killed, his wife and two boys are believed to be dying as the result of a head-on collision between Barker's light touring car and a stage of the California Transit company, headed for Fresno, near here this evening. The stage was declared to have been passing another car. Several of the occupants of the stage were bruised, while the touring car was completely telescoped.
