HINT EMBARGO DUE TO DISEASE

Pine Blister Danger May Bring Ban on Shipment of Bushes

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(United Press)—Because of the appearance in Oregon of the white pine blister rust, a dangerous plant disease, the secretary of agriculture today gave notice of a hearing to be held at Washington January 8, on a proposal to prohibit the movement from Oregon into other states and territories of all five-leaved pines and currant and gooseberry plants, the latter being the intermediate host plants necessary in carrying the disease from one pine tree to another.

It is expected that with state cooperation it will be possible to limit the restrictions of the quarantine to the infected western portion of the state, Secretary of Agriculture Jardine said.

Plant pathologists of the agriculture department have discovered the rust on both wild and cultivated currants in Tillamook and Clatsop counties, Oregon, which brings rust infection within 75 miles of the northern edge of the great sugar pine forests of southern Oregon and northern California. The disease already exists in the northeastern states, and in the middle west, and also in the state of Washington. Quarantines have been established in the various affected states, and exhaustive studies have been made by federal and state authorities to delay the spread of the destructive rust.

NEGRESS WINNER IN JURY VERDICT

Mrs. Rhinelander Will File Action for Divorce And Alimony

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Dec. 5.—Chilled mist and drenching fog poured over the squat frame house in New Rochelle tonight where live the family of George Jones, mulatto taxi driver. But inside the house there was warmth and happiness. Alice Jones had triumphed against her husband.

Alice remains the wife of Leonard Kip Rhinelander. A jury of 12 men in Westchester county supreme court today adjudged her guiltless of deception of marriage. Her husband's charge that she deceived him as to her color was declared unfounded.

By this marriage Alice Jones became a member of an aristocratic "first family," descended from French hugenot settlers, who have stood forth prominently in state and national affairs of history.

But even as the joys of victory were being celebrated, Alice was planning to bring suit to break the union which brought her so much shame and suffering.

Lee Parsons Davis, her fiery young chief counsel, announced that a suit for separation would be filed against Rhinelander, whose attorneys already have been asked to accept service. A financial settlement will be sought, of course. The rumor has placed the wife's share of her husband's income at about $500 a month.

The status of the annulment suit now is bound up in legalities.

Former Judge Isaac N. Mills, after the verdict of the jury had been read, moved for his client, young Rhinelander, that the findings on six questions of fact be set aside. Supreme Court Justice Morschauer reserved decision on the motion.

COOK WANTS PAY

MARSHFIELD, Dec. 4.—Whether or not a wife may sue her husband for cooking services is a point at issue in the suit of Mrs. Eva Eblen against her husband and Henry Weider, logger for $621. Mrs. Eblen claims she had a contract at $125 a month to cook for her husband, Weider and other loggers in a camp near Coquille. She asks a lien on Weider's logs.

THE BEAST BLUFFS

Clean-up Campaign Must Be "Square"

(An Editorial)

Z. J. "Doc" Powell, new member of the city council, and head of the police committee, plans a clean-up campaign. He is urged to do so by the jungle beast of Klamath Falls. The beast always works at cross-purposes, and never in the interests of the public.

Little faith may be reposed in the police department as now constituted, or in those who have strings on it, to honestly conduct any clean-up of moral conditions in this city. This is no reflection on the patrolmen or special officers. It means that the heads of the department do not justify confidence. State officers cannot come into this city without warnings going down the line to the "boys" to get slot machines and punch board behind the counter. Is there any reason to suppose the police mean business, or that "Doc" Powell can be sincere when he starts his clean-up?

The ramifications of the beast are too numerous to permit any honesty of purpose in a clean-up campaign in Klamath Falls.

A number of citizens are greatly interested in "Doc" Powell's plans. They know that as chief of police he pulled an alleged campaign. Many good citizens who applauded his efforts were chagrined at the discovery that the then chief could be very easily discouraged. They wondered why. When he was running for the council those who supported him made the specious excuse that he had resigned while conducting his clean-up campaign as chief of police because he feared personal legal suits. Did anyone ever hear of a chief of police quitting for any such reason?

These citizens are watching "Doc" Powell and his supporters closely.

They know that:

There are twenty-five places in Klamath Falls where booze is sold.

There are thirteen places in Klamath Falls in which women of the night life hold forth, and where booze is sold.

There are nine places where booze is sold and gambling is permitted.

There is one gambling house with no evidence of booze.

There is one house with colored women, and where booze is sold.

When the clean-up campaign is started, if it does start, these interested citizens have these unpleasant facts in hand. They are going to demand that no favorites be played. If "Doc" Powell's and the unseen jungle beast's campaign is started some very determined citizens in Klamath Falls are going to make certain that it is on the square.

FAMOUS PRISON BREAK LEADS TO WARDEN OUSTER

Investigation Body Makes Report

DISCIPLINE WAS LAX

Jeff Myers, General White And Col. Thompson On Committee

SALEM, Dec. 5.—(United Press)—The resignation of Warden A. M. Dairymple as warden of the Oregon state prison was announced today by Governor Pierce.

At the same time he made known the appointment of J. W. Lillie, as warden. Lillie heretofore was deputy warden.

Lack of discipline created an undesirable condition at the Oregon state penitentiary last summer, and was partly responsible for the sensational prison break August 12 of Tom Murray, Ellsworth Kelley and James Wiljos, according to a report of a special investigating committee appointed by Governor Pierce, it was revealed here today.

Pierce released for publication the report which was made many weeks ago. Its release followed shortly after the announced resignation of Warden A. M. Dairymple.

The three convicts were later recaptured and are now under sentence to hang for the murder of a prison guard.

"It is our opinion that the escape of the four desperate criminals on August 12 was preventable had proper precautions been taken to prevent it, and had higher discipline and organized vigilance existed at the prison."

This sums up the findings of the special committee, consisting of Jefferson Myers, Adjutant General Geo. A. White and Col. A. A. Thompson, manager of Crater lake national park, named by Governor Pierce to investigate the prison conditions, following the break of August 12. Col. Thompson did not sign the report because of his federal position, but is said to have concurred in its conclusions.

Police Hold Two Robbery Suspects

Two men, giving their names as W. E. Johnson and W. A. West, were picked up by the Klamath police last night and booked on a liquor charge, although from certain evidence in the hands of the police the pair are suspected of being in possession of a stolen car.

When the prisoners were searched loaded revolvers and a quantity of pool hall merchandise was found in their possession.

At twelve o'clock noon today at the Pine Tree theatre, the Klamath Falls Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks will offer their annual Memorial exercises.

The public is invited, and officials of the lodge state that the program this year, both as regard to speaking and from a musical standpoint, will be one of the best ever delivered in Klamath Falls.

MARION BARNES QUOTES THE LAW

Says There Is No Limit On Ducks to Be Eaten Monday Night

Judge Marion Barnes of the Superior Game Court has handed down a decision which will be startling in its far reaching effect on the great army of nimrods who make a practice of pursuing and taking feathered game fowls, commonly known as "Green Heads" and "Speckled Bellies."

It appears the learned judge has deduced from his perusal of "Sandstone" or Sanscript that while the law permits the hunter to kill, pursue, or capture only 24 ducks and six geese, nothing is mentioned of the number any member of the Sportsmen's association or anybody else can eat.

This little slip on the part of the lawmakers of the ages may result in serious complications at the big Duck Feed to be staged by the Klamath Sportsmen at the Moose hall tomorrow, Monday night.

Judge Barnes sentences all Sportsmen of the Klamath Realms to be there ready to do their stuff, and to remember that while there are no legal limits, still there are physical impossibilities.

OLD SANTA MEETS 2000 LOCAL KIDS

Boy Scouts Herd Kids In Mad Scramble for Candy Bags

Christmas is in the air! The very atmosphere has a holiday feeling!

There was a Santa Claus literally eaten up by scores of boys and girls when he passed out 1,680 bags of candy in front of Perkins' Toy Shop and Furniture store. Little of Santa's white beard was left from the mask when he completed his distribution to the children of their candy; his stiff red suit he had had made by quaint oldsmen in the northland was wilted by the pressure of the nearly 2,000 children.

Scouts who helped Santa Claus keep the hundreds of children in line to receive their candy included Stanley Reed, Lawrence Williams, Leslie Hargraves and L. Pruitt. Two others who assisted and who will soon become scouts are William Smith and R. Parker.

A sombre side of Christmas brought out the proximity of the holiday season when men and women garbed in Salvation Army uniforms stood watch through the clear cold day with their bells attracting the attention of the passerby. The familiar pots on tripods were seen on four or five corners of the city's business district and are to remain until after the holidays, seeking the good-will of the shoppers in order to give a happier Christmas to the less fortunate.

Disgraced Kip To Drop from Sight

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Dec. 5.—As a result of the sensational evidence brought out in his trial for annulment of his marriage to Alice Beatrice Jones, Leonard Kip Rhinelander, will change his name and go into seclusion, it was reported tonight.

The period of his voluntary seclusion is undetermined, Rhinelander will leave New York within a few days. His destination has not been revealed.

MYSTIC GETS FIVE YEARS

PORTLAND, Dec. 4.—Dinspah Ghadiali, parsee mystic, was today sentenced by Federal Judge Bean to serve five years at McNeil Island prison, and to pay a fine of $5,000 for transporting pretty Geraldine McCann, stenographer, to Malaga, N. J., and back to Portland, for immoral purposes. Ghadiali is head of the Spectro Chromo Therapy institute of America.

EWAUNA OPENS THREE SHIFTS IN LOCAL SAWMILL

Lumber Market Is Reported Good

BIG LAKES SHUT DOWN

Klamath Mills Are Making Plans for Capacity Runs in 1926

The Ewauna Box company's sawmill soon is to operate three shifts instead of two.

The announcement, coming yesterday from Fred Schallock, secretary of the company, is considered extraordinary in view of the fact that winter soon will claim Klamath county. The move of the Ewauna company also is held indicative of the excellent business conditions prevalent in the vicinity.

"The third shift," Mr. Schallock said, "will in all probability begin its work Monday. Approximately 45 men will, in consequence, be added to the payroll," he explained.

"Our decision to work 24 hours, rather than 16, is the result of market conditions—the increased demand for our products," he said. The market, he added, is "fair and steady."

Mill Shuts Down

Coincident with the announcement of the Ewauna company, came the news that the sawmill of the Big Lakes Box company has temporarily closed down. This, however, is only temporary and is done because repair work is necessary, according to A. J. Voyer, vice-president of the company.

The Northwest Blower and Kiln company recently has installed, through Louis Porter, local contractor, five additional dry kilns, and the plant is now said to be the most complete in the county. The planing mill, it was announced, is operating at full capacity.

When the Big Lakes company again starts its sawmill, it will employ two shifts of workers, Mr. Voyer said. He, too, declared that the market is in good shape.

Open Big Camp

In the spring, Mr. Voyer said, his company plans to open a big camp at Squaw Flat, near Sprague river. The new camp will have a crew of no less than 150 men, he explained. Lumbermen, generally, seemed to feel well satisfied with present conditions and are optimistic as regards the future.

The Big Lakes outfit will reopen its sawmill just as soon as the ice goes out of the lake, Mr. Voyer said.

MORE STORMS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Sweeping in behind the tropical storm that ravaged the seaboard during the middle of the week, two more disturbances of marked intensity are bearing down on the Atlantic coast, the weather bureau warned today.
