Coal Strike Can Be Solved Through Public Pressure

PA. Nov. 8.—Gov. Gifford Pinchot to align the forces of public opinion against the operators, following the end of the hard coal strike negotiations according to his proposals, was indignant when the governor's business men of the region on strike conference was expected to reject the rejection of the week without reaching a conclusion. The conference was called to discuss Pinchot's part in the suspension of the coal to the consumer.

NOTHING BUT ROUTINE

Nothing but routine work is to be considered by the county school board when it holds its regular meeting in the county courthouse today, according to Miss Vera Otfield, clerk.

Several bills will be considered, and it is possible that some unlooked-for discussions may arise. The gathering, however, gives all promise of being quiet.

SEATTLE MAYOR TO FACE RECALL

SEATTLE, Dec. 8.—United News.—The Seattle city council late Monday accepted a petition containing approximately 6,500 signatures asking for the impeachment of Mayor Edwin J. Brown.

The council referred it to the judiciary committee, with a request for early recommendation. Opponents of the mayor say they were confident the matter would go before the people for a recall vote before the end of the year.

Monday's action followed closely on the heels of a grand jury report last week which assailed lax law enforcement by the mayor, chief of police and Sheriff Matt Starwich of King county, and recommended impeachment of the mayor.

Although the mayor has been the target for criticism and charges of "wet tendencies" ever since his inauguration nearly two years ago, he weathered the storm until struck by a squall in the shape of Rev. Ambrose Batley, pastor of the First Methodist church.

Rev. Batley some weeks ago denounced Mayor Brown and went into the district known as the "skid road" to obtain information first hand on vice conditions. It is a district where lumberjacks and seamen hold forth.

The pastor told of his visits in sermons from his pulpits and gave the grand jury information he obtained. He has since assailed the mayor from the pulpit, while the mayor replied in public statements and from other pulpits.

Seattle is stirring much as it did several years ago, when the controversy between Mayor Hiram Gill and Rev. Mark A. Matthews developed along similar lines.

FIGURES SHOW RACE SUICIDE IS PROBLEM

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—While Americans are continuing to flock to divorce courts in increasing numbers, marriage license bureaus throughout the country are experiencing a marked slump, a survey of marital relations by the census bureau has disclosed.

There were 45,175 fewer marriages in the United States during 1924 than there were in 1923, the government figures show. At the same time 5,771 more couples were divorced than during the previous year. The marriage rate decreased 3.7 per cent, while the divorce rate increased 3.5 per cent. Marriages in 1924 totalled 1,178,206, compared with 1,223,924 in 1923. Divorces increased from 165,096 in 1923, to 170,876 in 1924.

The pupils of Swan Lake are preparing an excellent Christmas program. Others in the vicinity are showing the Christmas spirit by helping out in various ways.

Christine Jansen was honor student in Swan school last month. Henry Wood and family left last week for California.

Messrs Hutchinson and Shepherd have their new house on the Edgewood ranch nearly completed.

TURKS DEFEY LEAGUE

GENEVA, Dec. 8.—Turkey has defied the league of nations and its court of international justice at The Hague. The mosal dispute therefore has reached a grave point where all efforts at mutually acceptable settlement have failed. It is feared that if the council should impose an arbitrary decision regarding the territory in conformity with the court's order of last month, hostilities between Great Britain and Turkey would be inevitable.

Sports Done Brown

By NORMAN E. BROWN
Issuance of the official batting averages of the American League for the 1925 season, which show that Harry Heilmann led the American league by four points instead of three, arouses again interest in the rumor that Speaker is trying to cook up a cash deal or trade with the Tigers to acquire Heilmann.

One stated reason for hoping that Heilmann can be pried loose from Detroit is the generally accepted feeling that Heilmann and Cobb are not and never have been on friendly terms. It has been stated frequently that Cobb and Heilmann have always been at loggerheads, and that the slugging right-hander has refused to take orders from the Tiger boss.

All this may be true, but it is a question as to whether, regardless of his personal feeling in the matter, Cobb could "get away" with such a move. Managers have sealed their dooms before now by disposing of a popular star. And as long as Heilmann is the leading batter of the American league he will have many friends among the Detroit fans.

On the other hand, I doubt whether the Cleveland club has any players with which it is willing to part that Detroit would want. Ty Cobb, my guess is, would prefer Joey Sewell to any other member of the team. And you can take it from President Barnard of the Cleveland outfit that the Alabama foghorn is not for sale or trade.

I am still unable to figure out why anybody wants to ride a bicycle for six days and nights. (They're at it again in New York.)

There are some things in favor of the six-day bike races, however. Officials have eliminated the traffic congestion by making the track a one-way street.

But imagine a traffic cop after he had seen the same guy fly by him the 798th time. His pledge to lay off the soothing lotion would be as fervent as a prohibitionist's vow to limit himself to two shots a day.

The race isn't so awful hard on the boys, however. Every time a rider becomes worn out he is retired. So is his bike.

The most diligent egg we ever saw in a bike race was Oscar Egg.

Bobby Walthour, the old bicycle star whose son is now claiming his dad's fame, was so accustomed to sitting on a bicycle that he had the dining room chair at home equipped with pedals and two legs of the chair sawed off so that he leaned over a bit.

Bobby Jr.'s cradle was equipped with a coaster brake.
We had a bike once. Ruined it carrying groceries home on the handle bars. Or was it Mickey Burns, the kid next door, whom we rode most of the time? That was the trouble with owning a bike. You had to be the pusher. The other guy rode free.
Your ideas of humor, however, were quite flexible, the measure of your glee depending upon whether it was your tire of the other guy's that was left flat by some busybody while you were buying some Long Tom gum.
