Lightning Crashes Coastwise Steamer

ABERDEEN, Wash., Dec. 18.—(United News) — How a bolt of lightning crashed into the steamer Esther Johnson, breaking a foremast and demolishing a range light, was told here Friday night, by Captain T. A. Jameson, after he brought his vessel into Gray's harbor.

"It was a thrill of a lifetime," Captain Jameson said. "Hailstones as big as pigeon eggs were pelting the ship when the lightning struck. A million sparks filled the air, momentarily blinding the crew. It felt as though a hot furnace blast swept over our ship."

YOUNG INDIAN DIES AT RIVERSIDE CALIF.

Word has been received in Klamath Falls of the death of Osbert Ball, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ball, prominent Klamath Indians. Ball is a member of the Indian Tribal council.

Following is the obituary notice received from Mrs. Ball who is now in Riverside, California:

Funeral service for Osbert Ball, 18 year old Indian boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ball, who died Saturday morning following a long illness, was held at 10 o'clock this morning from the Simons funeral chapel. The service was conducted by Rev. D. L. MacQuarrie, pastor of Magnolia Presbyterian church, and C. W. Cell, director of religious education at Sherman Institution. Interment was in Evergreen cemetery. The deceased was the older son of Mr. and Mrs. Ball, whose home is at Klamath Falls, Oregon, but who are temporarily residing on Cover street, Riverside, while two daughters are attending Sherman Institute. The Sherman mixed quartet sang at the service and a group of Indian students were in attendance.

New Coast Steam Ship Line to Run Out of Portland

PORTLAND, Dec. 18. — (United News)—Organization of an intercoastal steamship company — the Quaker line—which will provide fortnightly sailings between the Columbia river, Philadelphia and way ports, was made known here Friday night.

The company is fostered by a combination of the Oriental Navigation corporation, owning the steamers Orleans, Orineco, Orient, West Jappa, and West Jester; and the Forest Transportation corporation, controlling the steamers West Jena and West Jessup.

The Columbia-Pacific Shipping company will be general Pacific coast agents, and the Inter-Ocean Steamship company of Philadelphia will handle affairs on the Atlantic coast. Williams, Dimond and Co. will be agents in San Francisco and Los Angeles.

Pioneer Railroad Builder Passes on

SPOKANE, Wash., Dec. 18.—(United News)—Michael Jennings, 73, contractor and pioneer railroad builder, died at his home in Spokane Wednesday. Mr. Jennings was one of the few remaining pioneer railroad builders who endured hardships and overcame tremendous obstacles in the construction of the first roads through the northwest. He had to do with building parts of the Northern Pacific, Butte, Anaconda and Pacific, the Great Northern, and his last and perhaps most important activity was the construction of the Milwaukee through the mountains of Montana.

FORCES OF THE LAW SPEND QUIET EVENING

Bootleggers—if such there be in Klamath Falls—were not molested by state prohibition officers or attaches of the sheriff's office last night.

"News?" repeated Sheriff Burt Hawkins. "It's too darned cold for news. There hasn't been a thing happened all evening."

McBride and McMills, both state men, are planning an active clean-up campaign here in the near future, according to their statements.

Dawes Gets Hard Boiled in Senate

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18—(United News)—Vice President Dawes had his first opportunity to reprove a senator when Swanson of Virginia became so excited in the world court debate that he neglected to address the chair for permission to interrupt Borah.

"The senator will address the chair to ascertain whether the senator who has the floor will yield," Dawes said.

"The ruling of the vice president is very excellent," observed Borah.

Swanson attempted a second time to interrupt Borah.

"The senator will address the chair," Dawes snapped in a sharp voice.

JAIL NOT SAFE

MARSHFIELD, Dec. 18.—Burglars broke into the North Bend city jail last night and stole fifteen gallons of confiscated moonshine.

LIQUOR CHARGE STOPS QUEST FOR MILLIONS

WORCESTER, Mass., Dec. 18.—Troubles are multiplying for Hyman Klatzky, who only two years ago had visions of sharing a $30,000,000 estate.

Klatzky intended to make a trip to England to press his claim as one of the heirs to the Hoffmann millions, but was forced to change his plans by a sentence for selling liquor.

Airplanes to Dust Orchards Advocated

MEDFORD, Dec. 18.—There is a growing use of airplanes for dusting orchards for pest control, according to Prof. Don C. Mote of the Oregon Agricultural college, who addressed the Oregon State Horticultural society here.

The annual convention of the society will close today.

Mote said dusting was being done on a commercial scale by airplanes in the Georgia peach orchard districts, where a great many orchards are found close together.

JUDGE FINES SELF ON TRAFFIC CHARGE

PASADENA, Calif., Dec. 18.—Police Judge Frank Dunham pleaded his own case in court here Friday and despite some very good excuses, fined himself $10 for violation of the traffic laws.

"I didn't make the boulevard stop" the judge said, "because the stop sign was obstructed by a tree. But having heard that excuse before, I deny myself leniency."

Judge Dunham paid himself.

Bishop Pleads for "Religious Unity"

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Dec. 18.—(United News)—"Catholic, Jew and protestant are in touch with one another and each can feel the throb of the other's heart," Bishop Ernest Stires, head of the Episcopal diocese of Long Island, told 3,000 persons gathered to welcome him here.

"We have reached a day when a defeat for one sect is a defeat for all, where a victory for one is a victory for all," the bishop said, in pleading for religious unity.

A telegram from Governor Alfred E. Smith, wishing Bishop Stires a successful administration, was read.

MARRIAGES

Another marriage by Justice of the Peace Clifford Butler, of Yreka, on December 7 was that of John Dale Handy and Gladys Hazel Hazen, both of Weed, and George Crane and Lonita Baker, both of Chiloquin, on December 11.

Lemuel R. Berryhill and Gertrude Marvin of Etna were wed in Yreka December 6 by Rev. Charles D. Miller. Another marriage by Rev. Miller on the same date was that of Frank Leslie Ward of Chiloquin and Inez Mary Cowan of Modoc Point.
