Look in your mail order catalog for tacks. You'll find them. Now look for tax. You won't find it. You have to get THAT from your local merchant. Isn't it true?

Big Improvements In Store For Falls

By HOWSON LOT

Klamath Falls is to have much in the way of city improvements during 1926. A proper sewer system is promised, and the plans are focusing toward culmination. The water company is completing its plans for doubling the present capacity at a cost of $90,000 to $100,000. Adequate lighting facilities are, however, still a matter of befuddlement.

There will be a total of five reservoirs supplying water to Klamath Falls when the present plans are completed. A new reservoir site has been secured at the head of Shaft and F streets, off Oregon avenue. The Center reservoir is to be given a capacity of 250,000 gallons.

Mayor Goddard and his fire committee of the city council, together with Fire Chief Keith Ambrose, are working in conjunction with the water company for the purpose of installing additional fire hydrants at the time the company enlarges mains in various parts of the city. There are now 130 mains and the number will be increased 50 to 75. The consideration now rests with the approval and advice of the state fire marshal's office, a representative of which will be called to Klamath Falls.

The city needs sewers and is getting ready to vote a bond issue for this purpose. There is a hitch between Mayor Goddard and members of the council as to the methods of employing a sanitary engineer as consultant. But the council plans to meet this week in special session to thresh out the differences.

An immense amount of paving is projected, and if it all goes through as petitioned, the old town will begin to shine.

The Sixth street association is quietly working and its achievements will stand out before the close of the year. A $130,000 viaduct over the Southern Pacific tracks is one of the association's big bets.

And all the time a commission of freeholders is studying the city manager form of government.

It does look like Klamath Falls is building.

Klamath Farm Land Brings $100 an Acre

Important among the transactions of the week was the closing of a deal for the 1500 acre George Tramel ranch, located six miles south of Klamath Falls. The purchaser is R. L. Davidson.

The price was announced at $100 an acre, and the purchaser, a partner in the Eagle pool hall, regards the purchase in the light of an investment. The Tramel, or Davidson place, lies between the Hilyard ranch and the Shor; estate ranch on the Dalles-California highway.
