YE OLDE TYME CONCERT HELD

A capacity house greeted the players of the musical "Ye Olde Tyme concert," which was heard in the First Presbyterian church Thursday night given under the auspices of the Bethany Circle.

Programs in old English print with a quaint dame bowing to her partner in the minuet were given to the guests who filled every available seat in "Ye Presbyterian Meetin' House."

Clever indeed were the costumes which were brought to Klamath Falls from San Francisco. Mrs. Olds was beautifully froed as was Miss Vera Houston. Both held prominent parts in the evening's program.

As Granther Veatch, who sat reminiscing of the days gone by. E. S. Veatch caused many a foot to tap and head to nod in rhythm when he called out the quaint old dances.

Those who took part are to be especially complimented upon the work which they undertook to make successful.

The program was given as follows:

- Auld Lang Syne—Men and women singers.
- Annie Laurie—Misses Lucas sang alone.
- Minuet—Four sweet maids.
- Those Endearing Young Charms—Ye melodious singer, Mistress McIntyre.
- Ye Mumblelogue—Ganther Veatch.
- Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes; Massa's in the Cold, Cold Ground—Ye men singers.
- In the Gloaming; Pilgrim's Chorus—Mistress McIntyre will play on ye organ.

Veatch in Ye Mumblelogue; Miss Vera Houston in Grandmother's Advice; John Houston in When Johnny Comes Marching Home. The Chamber of Commerce quartet will sing "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes," and "Massa's in the Cold, Cold Ground."

MARRIAGE OF INTEREST HERE

A marriage of interest in Klamath Falls was that of Miss Letitia Shamhart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Shamhart of Merrill, to Lowell Pleasant Dunn of Klamath Falls.

The wedding ceremony was read on Sunday afternoon at the home of Rev. and Mrs. A. I. Rice.

Mrs. Vera V. Offield attended Miss Shamhart. Roger DeWeese was best man.

The bride wore an attractive traveling suit and a small hat to match.

Mr. and Mrs. Dunn are now visiting in the north with Dunn's parents.

BUSINESS WOMEN'S DINNER PLANNED

Of interest on Monday evening is the George Washington dinner to be enjoyed by members and guests of the Business and Professional Women's club. The dinner is being arranged by Mrs. Leda Parker, secretary of the organization, and one happy feature is the cherry pie that is promised on the menu.

Among other things to be discussed during the evening is the basketball team which will be organized during the coming week and games scheduled to be played in the American Legion building.

ELKS MASQUE BALL EVENT OF MONDAY

Prominent on the social calendar of the week is the annual masque ball to be given in the Elks temple by the local lodge on Monday evening.

The masque ball, given every year by the Elks lodge, is always one of the most interesting and well attended affairs of the season. More than 500 invitations have been issued from the temple, and scores and scores of costumes, brought to Klamath Falls from San Francisco, have been obtained by those planning to attend.

A hula girl will probably dance with an Arabian shiek. And an old fashioned demure lady will long to take off the black masque that covers the eyes of her torseodor partner.

Always gay, the Elks masque ball of 1926 promises to surpass in every detail the affairs of the past season.

The committee in charge includes John Houston, Jack Gove and Ed Clark.

DRAMA CLASS MEETS AT J. A. PERRY HOME

Study of the beginning of romantic drama in England took up the greater part of the evening when the drama section of the American Association of University Women met at the J. A. Perry home.

Those present were Mrs. Avis McConnell, Mrs. Hal Ogle, Mrs. Levant Pease and LeLaine West, Virginia West, Aileen Mordoff and Jean Perry.

POSTPONE CAMPFIRE PLAYS THIS SEASON

Due to the rush of social activities during the spring season, and especially the many musical and dramatic activities in Klamath county high school, the three plays which were to have been given by the Sunchanco group of Campfire girls have been cancelled this season. It is hoped the girls may give the plays during the fall months or later in the summer.

MOVIE STUDIO IS REGULAR MUSEUM

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Feb. 20.—A movie studio, barring zoos, has a greater collection of freaks, human and animal, than any other museum or menagerie in the world.

The affable, smiling "yes man," distinguished by the soft quality of his vocal chords, is one of the most negative animals in the movie jungle.

One of his principal duties is to agree on all subjects with the important movie magnate, who hires him for his unblased and critical viewpoints on mooted subjects. The "yes man" always manages to stay on his lucrative job, because necessity and experience have taught him the proper things to say at the proper time.

One of his other duties is to spend his less important hours critically observing how the movie "extras" in evening dress make exposures for the camera man. If he is in the employ of a director, he will, at properly spaced intervals, laud the movie director's wonderful handling of delicate scenes. If the scene is not so well handled he will hold his silence, which is another form of commendation.

His theory is a "yes" when a "yes" is expected, with a few well chosen blandishments for good measure. In almost the same breath the "yes man" can emit an emphatic "no" if his employer has need of it.

Every studio has a dozen "yes men" to keep up the morale of executives who occasionally have need to be told that they are the best producing heads in the movie business.

If the "yes man" has what is vulgarly termed a "good line" he can reasonably expect some day to become an executive, in which case he is able to give his own "yes man" the sympathetic encouragement of past experience.

The affable fellow, however, is a very important cog in the film industry.

Without him the movie executives have trouble getting about their "rotten pictures," the need for a cheering word when one is wanted is readily seen.

The "yes man" is in no man's land when he forgets his business and speaks his real mind.

INVADE POLAND.

VIENNA, Feb. 20.—(United Press)—According to reports from Warsaw, a company of Lithuanian frontier troops has invaded Poland near Poldaj and retaliation by the Poles is expected.

SENTENCE PARENT AS CHILD BEATER

PORTLAND, Feb. 20.—(United Press)—District Judge Richard Deich overruled the biblical precept "spare the rod and spoil the child" here today, when he sentenced Mrs. Nancy Hansen to 90 days in jail for beating her eight-year-old daughter, Wilma Gates.

Mrs. Hansen pleaded to the charge of assault and battery and tearfully informed the court that she realized she was wrong and was sorry but that her little girl persisted in telling "stories." She also admitted that the "rod" was a washing stick about the size of two fingers.

"Consider yourself fortunate," said Judge Deich, "that I do not follow your biblical example by adhering to the command 'an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth.' What would you say if I were to order a policeman to treat you as you have treated this child?"

Mrs. Hansen was arrested upon complaint of the child's school teacher after she came to school battered and bruised.

SKULL ALONG IN YEARS

COPENHAGEN, Feb. 20.—(United Press)—A human skull, proven to be 9000 years old, has been discovered in Sweden, and it is the oldest ever found in Scandinavia. Scientists hold that it is the only skull which dates back to the period when Scandinavia was linked with the continent.

CURE FOR LEPROSY

HONOLULU, Feb. 20.—(United Press)—The use of radium as a possible new cure for nodular leprosy has been suggested to the Honolulu board of health, in a report from Dr. M. H. Neill.

Neill stated that he has achieved encouraging results with radium in the treatment of 42 cases.
