

NAVAL COMMITTEE ASKS DIRIGIBLES

WASHINGTON, March 1.—(United News)—Picturing dirigibles crossing the Atlantic at 60 knots an hour with a full military load, the house naval committee in a report today urged congress to enact legislation for continuance of lighter than air development.

The committee recommended passage of the Butler bill providing for a five year building program for the naval air service which would give it 1064 planes and two dirigibles of six million cubic feet capacity.

Airships of adequate size, the committee said, hold greater possibilities as adjuncts of the fleet. To abandon lighter than air development as a result of the Shandaoah disaster, they declared "would be un-American."

"The committee does not feel," the report said, "that the crash of last September, terrible as it was, should discourage further experiments in airship navigation. All the world's air accomplishments that are of any value have cost money and lives. Money and lives are not wasted if only the work goes on. They are wasted if the work is abandoned."

DIVIDE KLAMATH SCHOOL DISTRICT

Approximately 2850 acres of land, lying south of the city limits, has been withdrawn from the city school district and placed in the hands of the sub-county district by order of the Klamath county boundary board during a meeting Saturday afternoon, according to Fred Peterson, county school superintendent.

Construction of a new school in the Altamont district has been authorized by the boundary board. Land, lying south of the city limits, had previously been divided so that children living on the south side of the highway attended Summers school, on the north, Klamath Falls schools. The new order will make it necessary that all children of that section attend the Altamont district school.

tions for the purchase of some of the affected property, and terms as to price not having been reached, that the application for a boom franchise was for the purpose of forcing the sale. Most of the protestants believe they have potential mill sites and are endeavoring to show that the boom franchise in front of them would render their property valueless for this purpose.

Attorney R. C. Groesbeck represented C. H. Helntzerling, Thomas Largent and M. R. Burnett as protestants.

After Groesbeck cross-examined Kimball in the morning, Manning cross-examined in the afternoon. Kimball's testimony consumed the greater part of the day. There were no other witnesses.

The session in the afternoon was cut short to give the commission time to view the river where the booms will be placed. The session will be concluded today.

Dempsey the Best, Says Joe Swindler

Joe Swindler, Klamath boy, arrived back home last night after a two years' absence following the fight game in Florida and California.

Since January 18th Swindler has had an experience which carries intense interest for every dyed-in-the-wool fight fan. The local boy was taken under the wing of Jack Dempsey, world's champ, and accompanied the big boy on his recent barnstorming trip to Cuba, as a boxing partner.

"I believe Dempsey is just beginning to be the world's champ," said Swindler, who has the keenest regard for the champ's two fists. "Take it from me, Jack is in good shape and ready to go one with any of them."

"I boxed with Gene Tunney, and as a scrapper he looks mighty good. He is about as good a boxer as Jack, has a good punch, but not as good as the champ. Dempsey will meet Wills before he does Tunney, and when he does I'll bet my shirt on the rugged champion."

Swindler says he may mix in the game around here after he gets rested up, having suffered a slight illness before his return home. "If Dempsey opens a camp in California in April for his next fight, I will go back and join up with him there."

WASHINGTON, March 1.—(United News)—Motorists will get the entire benefit of the $11,400,000 automobile and tires and accessories tax reduction of the new revenue bill, Thomas P. Henry, president of the American Automobile Association has been assured by manufacturers.

Purchasers of new automobiles will save the entire $11,400,000 involved in the reduction from five to three per cent on automobiles, Henry announced tonight.

Elimination of the tires and accessories tax will save motorists $25,000,000, he said.

"Manufacturers have notified the national automobile chamber of commerce in writing that every cent of the tax reduction will be deducted from the f. o. b. price of vehicles."

The parts and accessories manufacturers also have promised to discount prices to the extent of the war tax repeal, Henry said. The rubber people, however, have refused to commit themselves definitely on any price reduction by reason of the uncertainty of the rubber market, but intimated that the tax reduction would be discounted in full.

Telephone Co. to Mark Anniversary

Fifty years ago today there was no telephone.

Fifty years ago on Wednesday, March 10, the telephone became a demonstrated reality.

Re-enforcing the printed invitation notice received yesterday by the customers of the service, posters were yesterday placed in the telephone office windows and on company bulletin boards, expressing the hope that the public would join in helping to commemorate this March 10 birthday event.

The poster speaks of the nationwide observance of the occasion which will unite the "360,000 men and women who supply the every-hour human effort in linking together America's 16,000,000 telephones." Such is the growth in 50 years from the two crude telephone instruments of March, 1876.

Speaking on behalf of the employees, who are the real hosts of the occasion, Manager F. Ray Dunn, of the telephone company said that the hours when visitors would find it best to visit the central office will be from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. "It will be a week from next Wednesday," said Mr. Dunn, "and we hope that the day will bring a large response from our patrons and friends."

RECONCILIATION OFF, SAYS WIFE

NEW YORK, March 1.—(United News)—Mrs. Hazel Manton today denied that there had been a reconciliation with her husband, Key-ut Manton, Marjorie Hamblan's "cousin."

Although it was announced that Supreme Court Justice Isador Waserogel had effected a reconciliation between the Mantons it appeared today that the family was far from united.

Mrs. Manton had a long conference with Warren I. Lee, her counsel, at the conclusion of which, Lee made the following statement, at her request.

"The fact that the jury was hopelessly deadlocked, coupled with Mr. Manton's repeated expressions of admiration and respect for Mrs. Manton, both in private and on the witness stand, led to a suspension of all present litigation between the two parties."

"It is not to be expected, however, that Mr. and Mrs. Manton will resume living together."

New dresses in today at Bee Beggin's Store. 129 So. 7th.

The First Message

"MR. WATSON, come here; I want you!" exclaimed Alexander Graham Bell on March 10, 1876, during an afternoon of experimentation, and over a wire connecting two rooms, the young assistant heard the words,—the first spoken sentence to be so transmitted.

Fifty years have passed. Today there are 17,000,000 telephones in the United States, giving voice to human need, as Bell's crude transmitter did then. Fire breaks out in the night; law-breakers invade a home; sickness strikes at a family circle. "Come here, I want you," is the summons the telephone speeds its way. Business of importance demands the decision of the man on the far side of the globe. "Come here, I want you," summons again, and magic, a personality is transmitted through space, questions asked, answers given, problems solved—by telephone.

Every telephone is an echo of the first message whether it is the physical presence or the listening ear is desired, the important lifts the telephone the "I want you."
