

LEAGUE QUARREL GETS ONLY YAWN OUT OF CAPITOL

Local Scandals Monopolize Time

BORAH CROWD HAPPY

News of Big Squabble Has Bitter Significance To Pro Leaguers

WASHINGTON, March 15.—(United News)—With the countess of Cathcart hating her soul nightly at 3:30 including tax, senators fighting off the bootlegger as he makes his daily rounds of the capitol and the arrival of a fine young wild cat at the Coolidge mansion, Washington only yawns at mention of the quarrel that threatens the very life of the League of Nations.

Although Geneva dispatches are printed here in type indicating that they represent something of world import, Washington, like the gossip village it really is, turns away to read a poorly written novel that reports the romantic propensities of several nationally known politicians.

Yet, though Washington prefers to gossip, there are some who view the confused proceedings at Geneva with various emotions. First there are those agents of the battalion of death who still love to parade around in the old uniforms. These shrewd worn characters found consolation in the current agonies of the league. This is just what they said would happen. Intrigue, trickery and all the devious ineptitudes of European diplomacy are trotting across the stage in Geneva in more gaudy raiment than ever Borah pictured them. Those who have always thought the league an evil thing see grim vindication of their worst prophecies in the row over admission of Germany.

Geneva News Sad.

The other group includes those dogged worshippers of the league who have clung at every hope that some day the United States would enter it. Events repeatedly have smote them in the face, but they still cling to the vision. They are the real bitter-enders. For them the Geneva news is painful. It is like a confidential report to a parent on an erring child. They only hope and try to make the best of it. So their explanation is that the League of Nations, like the early league of American colonies, is bound to have its troubles. The old colonial federation was as badly cut up with local jealousies as is the modern confederation of nations. The constitutional government of the United States, which is now such a solid flourishing thing, began under auspices more discouraging than those now witnessed at Geneva.

But for these two extremes, Washington is indifferent to what happens at Geneva.

Whatever the insiders may think, the public is convinced that if we go into the league it will only be after its stability is demonstrated. Until that time whatever happens overseas matters little here.

Believes League Only Experiment, World Court O. K.

CHICAGO, March 15.—(United Press)—The world court is a hopeful experiment in international justice, while the League of Nations is a dangerous experiment, Senator George Wharton Pepper of Pennsylvania said in an address tonight.

"I regard it as the interest of the United States to stand aloof from the league. I regard it as a duty of the United States to do its bit to help the court," Pepper said. "Of course I realize there are patriotic public men to whom the distinction between joining the league and adhering to the court is not so clear.

"I should have preferred complete disassociation of the court from the league and I worked for such disassociation until it became hopeless. But while disassociation would have strengthened the court, the senate reservations are an adequate protection to us," the senator said.

World Champs to Play Coast Stars

PASO ROBLES, Cal., March 15.—(United News)—Lee Meadows, Pittsburgh's star moundsman, probably will be used in the first game of the Pirates' exhibition series against the San Francisco Seals.

The world champions will leave for the bay city Tuesday night, playing their first game Wednesday and staying in San Francisco until Sunday night.

The condition of Meadows, whose arm caused him some trouble during the winter, is the outstanding matter of speculation in the Pirate camp.

During the last few days Lee has been flinging them in a manner that would indicate a return to last season's form, but a session at actual competition is expected to give a better line on his possibilities for this year.

With Meadows in shape, Pittsburgh will have the same pitching strength that won the world title.

6 Eskimos Rescued From Floating Ice

NOME, Alaska, March 15.—(United News)—Marooned on a section of ice that was drifting rapidly toward the open sea, six Eskimos lived through hours of suspense before men from the Nome coastguard station rescued them.

A strong northerly wind caused the ice to break up a mile from shore and three men, two women and a boy, with eight dogs were cut off from land. Not at first realizing their situation, the Eskimos had drifted several miles toward the Bering sea before they began frantic cries for help.

The coast guard finally was apprised of the situation and took the Eskimos from the ice by boat.

Eight Foreigners Gouge Americans

WASHINGTON, March 15.—(United Press)—Indicting eight foreign governments for instituting controls over production and exploitation of necessary raw materials, the house interstate commerce committee, in a majority report tonight said that the American public would be gouged of $758,618,968 unless rubber prices fell below the November-December level of $1.01.

Great Britain, Brazil, Chile, Germany, France, Egypt, Japan and Mexico were the nations named.

The committee warned that the controls would ultimately have a disastrous effect on international good-will. It urged that conservation and substitution campaigns be started by American consumers; that rubber plantations be started in the Philippines, synthetic rubber be developed, Texas, Utah and other states' potash resources be developed and vital growing possibilities investigated.

MIKE M'TIGUE IS BADLY DEFEATED

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, March 15.—(United News)—Mike McTigue succumbed to Father Time and the savage rushing attack of Jack Delaney of Bridgeport Monday night, and heard himself counted out for the first time in a long and honorable career.

The old Irishman's flush came in the fourth round, when Patay Haley, the referee, stopped the bout with only a second to go.

McTigue was kneeling by the side of the ring, his head through the ropes, virtually out, when Haley stepped in. Mike had staggered to his feet before the fatal 10 had been counted, but would have been knocked out in another round.

The Dublin boxer, who once held the world's light heavyweight championship, went into the fight carrying too great a handicap of age. He is 34 on the record books and actually older. Delaney is 26. Mike was just in there to exhibit his defensive skill and stay the limit if he could. It looked for a time as though the ex-champion would succeed in lasting the limit, but in the fourth, Delaney's lucky round, the Bridgeport boxer caught Mike with that famous right uppercut. Down went McTigue for the first time in his career, to take the count of nine. He came up and Delaney flew at him like a tiger, hitting him with everything at his command. Delaney quickly had Mike groggy and practically out on the ropes.

FIRE INSURANCE MAN HURLS BOMB

Attended Fire.

While attended one fire while in Klamath Falls, a slight blaze in the Herald publishing office. It was here he observed the lack of police support of the fire fighters. The report says:

"We regret to find poor co-operation between your police and fire departments. Our engineer, Mr. White, attended a fire while in Klamath Falls and lack of police assistance was very much in evidence, as the curiosity seekers were crowded into the doorway of the building where firemen were working.

"This condition not only interferes with the progress of the fire department, but endangers the lives of people when they are permitted to get too close to the fire. For some reason the layman does not realize the danger, or trouble they make the fire department by getting in the way of firemen just when every minute counts. The fire department and police department should co-operate at all times as they can be of great assistance to each other. If the above condition is corrected there should be an approximate reduction in the insurance rate of 44 per cent."

Tribute to Firemen.

It is recommended that a building restriction ordinance be passed and rigidly observed. Also an ordinance covering the handling and storage of combustibles.

A tribute is paid to the department as it exists at present, as follows:

"Your fire department record for the year of 1925 was very good and shows the efficiency of the fire chief and his men."

If the full suggestions of the bureau are complied with it will mean a reduction of 11.9 per cent in the insurance rate, which taking care of the present deficiency of 6.3 per cent would mean a reduction of 5.6 per cent.

The recommendations were referred to the fire committee.
