American Saved From Death in Desertion Case

PARIS, June 8.—(United News)—Quick action by Premier Briand to stay the execution of B. J. Doty, alias Gilbert Clare, an American, threatened with sentence of death for deserting the French foreign legion, has been followed by a foreign office promise to Ambassador Herrick that Clare's offense will be viewed leniently.

The combined attention of the premier, the ministry of foreign affairs and the ministry of war centered Tuesday on preventing passage of the expected sentence against this veteran of the A. E. F.

Before official confirmation of Doty's sentence had been received in Paris, Briand, acting on information received in newspaper accounts, used his powers of grace and without securing permission from President Doumergue, ordered Minister of War Painleve to stop the execution in case it had been ordered.
