TELLING THE WORLD
This section should capitalize its fishing attractions more than it does. Thousands of California sportsmen would gladly trek this way if assured of something worth-while in fly-casting and trolling.

MISSING OUT
Why should this city be importing eggs and poultry from outside points when the finest farm land in Oregon is right at our doors?

GROWING
The biggest railway project since the war now connects Klamath with Eugene and Portland. Fourteen tunnels have been built—one almost a mile long.

WESTERN UNION IS FRIEND OF THIS CITY

The early history of telegraphing, and stated that from April 1 to 4, 1845, following the first wire being strung by Prof. Morse, the cash receipts were one cent. The fifth day of April the receipts were increased to 12 1/2 cents, the seventh day to 60 cents and the eighth to $1.32. This is in remarkable contrast, he said, to the receipts last year by the Western Union which totaled $128,000,000.

Enormous Wire Mileage
The speaker said the Western Union has 1,600,000 miles of wire, 56 per cent being copper, and 215,000 miles of pole line that connect approximately 26,000 offices in hamlets, villages and cities throughout the United States, and furnishes a communication service so universal as to compare favorably in scope with the federal postoffice.

Picturing the Western Union as pioneering the way with civilization and emigration, the emigrant was followed across the plains, and with the completion of the telegraph to the Pacific coast came a new idea—that of an overland line from the United States via Bering straits and Asiatic Russia to Europe.

Touching upon the cable, of which the Western Union is the dominant figure, Newson related of the successes of Cyrus W. Field and of the ridicule to which he was subjected when he bulled the first line across the ocean.

Demonstration Given
Demonstration of the automatic telegraph was given and explanation made as to how eight messages are sent at the same time over one wire. At each end of the wire are four operators pounding keyboards that perforate tape that is automatically translated into electrical impulses. At each end of this tiny wire are four typewriter-like machines called printers that receive these electrical impulses and change them automatically into the proper letters and then types these letters on a blank or paper tape. The receiving operators do nothing but feed the yellow blanks to the machine.

Explanation was made in detail to those present, but it is beyond the efforts of a layman to explain the delicate intricacies of the inner workings, and one would have to be personally present to comprehend the full meaning of the wonderful advance that has taken place in telegraphy.

Veterans of 1861 March to Music Fife and Drum

MARSHFIELD, June 23.—(United News)—A parade of all delegates here attending the annual G. A. R. encampment and the state convention of allied patriotic bodies featured the morning session of the convention.

Members of the organization marched through the streets in perfect order to the stirring music of fife and drum and a large crowd turned out to watch the parade.

At the first day's session Tuesday reports of officers, memorial services and exchange and receipt of greetings, as well as addresses by visiting officials of various orders, constituted the chief business undertaken. Delegates were to visit the beach late today. This evening the annual campfire open meeting will be held with Circuit Judge J. C. Kendall delivering the address of welcome.

PATRON STIRS COFFEE BY USE OF REVOLVER
SAN FRANCISCO, June 27.—(United News)—Early morning patrons departed hastily from an all-night restaurant when Joseph Dubis whipped out a revolver and used it to stir his coffee. Dubis told police who arrested him that he was following a habit of years and meant no harm.

MILLIONAIRE ARRESTED LIKED TENANT TOO WELL

Airman Gives Girl Real Thrill and She Walks Home

SAN FRANCISCO, June 23.—(United News)—Emily Devroe, musical comedy dancer, is the first girl to walk home from an airplane ride.

Miss Devroe, somewhat hysterical, climbed from a plane Wednesday, as it touched for a few moments at an suburban town. She ran across the field, screaming that she was being kidnaped. The town marshal attempted to bring down the plane with revolver fire as it soared away.

According to the girl's story she met Harold Pellymouther and had been entertained several times by him while here. He invited her for an airplane ride, and she consented, but what started out as an innocent jaunt through the clouds became a bit melodramatic when Pellymouther informed her grimly that he was going to take her to Los Angeles and marry her, Miss Devroe said. The dancer kicked and struggled lustily until she de-raanged some of the mechanism and forced a landing she declared.

fresh from college at that time made arrangements for the party to stay at George Chloquin's cabin at the Williamson river bridge, but he omitted potatoes and flour from their supplies. These were necessities so far as the city men were concerned, and when they tried to buy potatoes in Linkville, now Klamath Falls, they found that an expected shipment had not arrived from Sacramento. At that time Mr. Fuller said, people believed the season too short for the growing of potatoes here.

Made Fishing Trip
Tiring of fishing Mr. Fuller and Fredrick Mann engaged an Indian guide with a large wagon and five horses to take them on a week's visit to Crater Lake. This trip cost them $10 and made both men bonobos for the occasion. The Indian lost one of his horses, but felt little or no sorrow over the loss as he insisted the horse had always been more or less a nuisance.

Wanders Over Globe
Since the death of his wife in 1905, Mr. Fuller has wandered over the face of the earth. During the war he was in Switzerland, and during that period did not make his usual trip here. At other times he has been in the South Sea Islands and other Pacific Islands viewing volcanoes and lakes, but never, he said, has he found anything to compare in grandeur with Crater Lake and the Yosemite park. Always these two places deeply impress him by their beauty and grandeur, with their great force, but it is not so with other scenes which seem to pall for him with repetition.

If the weather remains good Mr. Fuller to the lake next Monday or Tuesday.
