Religious Fires Are Smoldering In Fort Worth

FORT WORTH, Tex., July 21.—(United News)—Fanning the fires of religious hatred which have long been smoldering in this community, J. J. Mickle, public relations director of the First Baptist church here, issued a statement today charging that men of Catholic faith dominate the grand jury investigating the slaying of D. E. Chipps, wealthy business man.

Chipps was shot and killed last Saturday by the Rev. J. Frank Norris, pastor of the Baptist church, who said he fired in self defense. The shooting occurred in his study in the church. He was admitted to bail and the grand jury has been investigating the affair since Tuesday.

Stop Forest Fires Drive Proved Pronounced Success

Above picture shows inauguration of the drive by the Stop Forest Fires association, sponsored by the county chamber of commerce. This picture was taken just previous to the drive in which the Boy Scouts and Camp Fire Girls participated.

Six thousand pledges were secured from the residents of Klamath Falls wherein each signed promises to do everything in his or her power to prevent the destruction of our greatest resource—lumbering—and in order to carry out the provisions of the pledge, each and every signer will endeavor to stop the fire fiend from damaging local property. Thus, the property owners of Klamath Falls and surrounding towns are assured of better protection.

Stop Forest Fires had its origin in Klamath Falls three years ago and so successful has been the result that other communities similarly situated have adopted same plan. A drive is now under way in northern California, with Yreka the headquarters, and effort is to be made to sign every resident in that section of the golden west state.

In the accompanying picture Chief Keith Ambrose of the Klamath Falls fire department is shown, as is also Mayor F. R. Goddard. Chief Ambrose signed a card presented by a Boy Scout and Mayor Goddard signed a card presented by a Camp Fire Girl.

Iowa Farmers Get Recognition In Iowa Convention

DES MOINES, Ia., July 21.—(United News)—Iowa's state republican convention today was like a firecracker which failed to explode and the powder in it is being saved for future demonstrations before congress.

Touched off by the keynote speech of Dan W. Turner of Cornland, it sizzled and adjourned after adopting a set of harmless resolutions. The most vociferous of these rejoiced "in the prosperity of industrial America," and insisted that "equal opportunity for prosperity be extended to agriculture."

Turner's address, full of things which might have been made political dynamite, made a louder noise than did the action of the convention group itself. The keynote praised Lowden's leadership in the struggle for agricultural equality, criticized the Coolidge attitude on the same question, at the same time lauding his record of economy, welcomed Brookhart, scolded the agricultural policies of Mellon and Jardine, threatened the tariff if it fails to protect agriculture and told the country that Iowa and the middles west "have just begun to fight," for the farm relief.

Two thousand union members, representing both sexes, walked out. Their demands included a closed shop, a 44-hour work time and a half for overtime work and a minimum wage scale running from $25 to $60 weekly.

The strike affects 72 shops.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—(United News)—Edward M. Croisan of Salem, former sheriff of Marion county, farmer and politician, will be the next collector of customs for the district of Oregon. His name was agreed on by Senators McNary and Stanfield at a conference this morning and the recommendation will go at once to the President so a recess appointment can be made.

Croisan was a supporter of Senator Stanfield in the recent primary campaign, he also is an old friend and supporter of Senator McNary. He thus answered the requirement that the appointee be a trusted friend of both candidates.

Chicago Secures Dempsey-Tunney Heavyweight Bout

CHICAGO, July 21.—(United News)—Tex Rickard announced definitely tonight that Jack Dempsey will defend his heavyweight title against Gene Tunney here on the afternoon of September 11 in a ten-round bout.

A referee's decision will decide the contest, which is to be staged in one of the ball parks or at Soldiers' field, the New York promoter said.

Gene Normile, Dempsey's manager, denied that the champion has a contract with Doc Krone and Billy Clements to fight Harry Wills here in September under the auspices of the Chicago Coliseum club. Clements said the contract was valid, however, and that Rickard would be enjoined by the courts if he attempted to go through with his plans.

Neither group of promoters has been given a permit by the new state boxing commission, but both say they are confident it will be forthcoming on application.

Central Europe Friendly Towards United States

VIENNA, July 21.—(United News)—Central Europe almost untouched by demands from the United States for debt payments, feels envy rather than bitterness for America and her people.

While France and England feel the pinch of straitened finances, partly as a result of American debt demands, Hungary, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia and Jugo-Slavia remember the sympathetic attitude of Woodrow Wilson, the postwar relief from the United States and most recently the $60,000 gift to Hungary made by Jeremiah Smith of Boston.

Where there is blame for the United States that blame is chiefly directed at American bankers and is confined for the most part to central European socialists.

Hostile French Hoot Americans Visiting Paris

PARIS, July 21.—(United News)—As thousands of hostile Frenchmen swarmed around the houses of parliament tonight following the Herriot cabinet's resignation a nightseeing automobile carrying many Americans crossed the Concorde bridge and was sighted by some of the French demonstrators.

The automobile was soon surrounded by a hissing, hooting crowd. Insults were hurled at the Americans and one of the demonstrators jumped on the running board and attempted to strike a tourist with his cane. He was arrested immediately.

Once the Americans and other sightseers were out of sight the mob centered its attention on communist deputies who were attempting to leave the chamber of deputies. Canes were swung at the head of Communist Deputy M. Coutourier and another communist parliamentarian was chased to a subway where he found refuge. In all parts of Paris the scene being enacted in the chamber had its reaction. Veritable riots were precipitated at department stores during the day by purchasers anxious to spend their last francs.

Orpheus Offering "Love and Glory" To Movie Fans

President Poincare, Georges Clemenceau, Joffre, Petain and Cozans of other French celebrities, as well as ambassadors from foreign countries, all exact duplicates of the originals, made up the highest-priced crowd of "atmosphere" since "The Stranger's Banquet," when, at Universal City, Rupert Julian filmed the presentation of Legion of Honor crosses to French heroes.

Well known picture players, chosen for their general likenesses to the celebrities to be portrayed, and made up from photographs, did the work of "extras," for most of the celebrities in the gathering were but "atmosphere." Still, because of the need for exact makeup and careful acting, ordinary extra people could not be employed.

The remarkable scene was taken in "Love and Glory," and featuring an all-star cast including Charles De Roche, Madge Bellamy, Ford Sterling, Wallace MacDonald, Gibson Gowland, Charles De Ravenne and Priscilla Dean Moran. The picture comes to the Orpheus theatre today and tomorrow.

In the scene in the Salon of Honor, at which heroes of various wars are presented with medals of honor, Jules De Briac enacted the part of Poincare. Almost the French president's duplicate physically, a carefully applied beard and facial lines made him the living image of the man imitated. Kate Lester appeared as the duchess who aided him in distributing the honors.

The story itself, while laid in France, and extending over a lifetime, shows the principal characters first as youths, and later, in the modern sequences, as aged folk. Charles De Roche, Madge Bellamy and Wallace MacDonald, first appearing as young people, are made up as people of fully seventy years of age at the close of the story.

This is Julian's first big production since he made "Merry Go Round," one of last season's triumphs.

To make a program complete there will be shown the International News, "Beauty and the Bandit," and "A Lucky Accident," two of the best and most popular comedies that have been screened in a long time. Popular prices prevail.
