Klamath Falls is becoming the industrial center of southern Oregon—an established railroad transportation point, a pivot and centralized traffic destination—agriculture, dairying and produce are definitely increasing on profitable demand—transportation facilities, existing and assured, are placing Klamath Falls products at a great advantage with markets directly and urgently needing them. Klamath Falls, the opportunity of a life time, for investing, building, working to make a small nucleus the basis for a home and that "stake" which gives security.

Buena Vista Addition

Fastly being built up with comfortable, modest and slightly homes. Buena Vista addition offers decided advantages to prospective home owners. California avenue, center of Buena Vista addition, is to be paved. Water mains are being laid. Electric lights and power available to practically every lot. Stanford avenue, on the heights overlooking Klamath Lake, has been laid out and graded. Close in, yet distinctly appealing as a residence section in its topography, quality of soil and separateness. Buena Vista addition growing rapidly as a desirable investment for home building and increased property values.

Hillside Addition

Joining a residence district where fine homes are being built, with streets laid out and graded, and prospects of some streets being hard surfaced and graveled, Hillside addition lots are being sought for their ideal value as an exclusive residence district. Laying exceptionally well for landscaping and model homes, gentle slope, cooled in summer by breezes from Klamath Lake and protected in winter by the wood capped hills, Hillside addition presents an unexcelled appeal in its altitude above the valley and away from the heavy traffic section of the city. Buy, build and reap with Klamath Falls' growth.
