

Cardinals Tighten Grip on Pennant, Defeating Pirates

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 1.—(United News)—The St. Louis Cardinals entrenched themselves more firmly at the top of the percentage column in the National League today, defeating the world's champions, Pittsburgh Pirates, in the last of a five-game series on the home lot.

The score was 5 to 2. The Cardinals won four games and lost one of the crucial series. The Pirates scored first in the encounter today, shoving one run across the plate in the third inning, but the Cards jumped ahead in the sixth with two runs. Bell got a nice single and Hafey walked. O'Farrell singled to center and Reinhart to first when Rawlings fumbled his easy roller.

The Cards made three runs in the seventh, one of them a homer by Hornsby with Southworth who had traveled to first on a nice single. Before the last straw had been cleared from the field Bottomly singled through McGinnis, which was followed by a double from Bell's bat which added another tally.

Bell was then scored on a single by Hafey, at which juncture Kremer was taken out of the game and Kopal sent in to relieve him. O'Farrell hit his first offering for a single, Hafey going third. He died there when Thevenow hit into a double play.

Pittsburgh attempted a rally in the ninth but only got one run.

The standing of first three teams after this afternoon's game is:

Outlook of Cards Winning Pennant Is Very Bright

(By United News)
NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—The St. Louis Cards have played the last of their home games and mound city fans will see them no more this year unless Rogers Hornsby's crew brings home the first national league pennant that fanatical baseball town on the Mississippi ever has raised.

In departing, the Cards treated a ball park full of rabid enthusiasts to a 5 to 2 victory over the world's champions, winning one of the most important series of the season, and raising the hopes of St. Louisans to the bursting point.

The prospect of St. Louis' first major league pennant appeared brighter after the Pittsburgh series than ever before. Reinhart joined little Scheidel and Alan Suthorn, as Pirate batters by turning back the world champions but six hits.

Ray Kremer, one of Bill McKenzie's chief twirling hopes, was going along nicely until the sixth, with a one-run lead and plenty of control. Then the Cards fell upon him and took the ball game away. The victory gives St. Louis a lead of nearly two full games over the Corsairs. What was more encouraging to St. Louis fans was the way in which the world's champions were beaten. With a good record on the road this year, the Cards look forward with confidence to winning their first pennant. They hook up with the Cubs at Chicago Thursday and then comes a really decisive series with Pittsburgh over the Labor Day week-end.

The Pirates, seemingly unable to hit at a most important turning point in the National League race, will enjoy no such enthusiastic support from their home fans as was accorded the Cards in the series just concluded. While baseball is played for money and not for glory, this spathy of Pittsburgh fans towards their team's success, following the dismissal of Carey, Adams and Bigbee, may have an important bearing on the outcome.

The tension under which the Cards and Pirates have been playing is illustrated by the fact that both teams made three errors in Wednesday's game.

Dempsey's Nose Brings Doctors To Court Action

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—(United News)—Who put paraffine in Jack Dempsey's nose? "I did," says Dr. William E. Ralffinger of Los Angeles.

"I did," says Dr. Henry Schireson of Chicago. And unable to wait until the fight in Philadelphia this month decides whether anyone would want credit for such a job, these two nasal architects will settle their argument in court.

Dr. Ralffinger's seconds filed application in the United States circuit court here for an order restraining Dr. Schireson from advertising himself as the man who remodeled the heavyweight champion's beak, a distinction which the Los Angeles surgeon claims for himself.

Dempsey Appears Same Old Scrapper While Training

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—(United News)—Jack Dempsey may not have learned much boxing in the past three years, but he has become an expert in showmanship.

The champion is certainly doing his bit towards stirring up interest in the forthcoming fight at Philadelphia.

Dempsey, whose fighting spirit was questioned when he turned his back on the ring and faced the Kleig fights for several seasons, is displaying all his old time ferocity. His starting partners are getting into dreadful shape and have to be changed constantly.

Jack flings a challenge at Harry Wills, uttering defiance of Jack Kearns, leaps into the ring at his training camp and batters several unwieldy young gentlemen into a state of insensibility. He snorts a prediction that he will stop Gene Tunney in a few rounds and shrivels ubiquitous bystanders with a scowl.

This is the old Dempsey stuff. It is what the crowd wants on the eve of a heavyweight championship battle. No more good natured laziness and cultured chatter about the world of Hollywood.

Hi! Bang! East 'em aff! That's what attracts the paying customers. Dempsey needs lot of them at the Sesqui-Centennial stadium this month. The concrete horseshoe and supplementary seats will hold 150,000 spectators—but will that number come?

The champion, in fine fettle, is doing his part. He is selling into this business of training with a will. His famous left hook may not be timed as accurately as he would like, but it certainly smacks over the husky sparring partners.

After all the quibbling over permits, licenses and lawsuits, the fight fans want action to whet their appetite for the bout. Dempsey, showman, knows this, and is producing it.

Tex Saves Game Of Boxing in N. Y. By Moving Fight

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—(United News)—Tex Rickard and Jack Dempsey unquestionably saved boxing in New York state when they decided to move the heavyweight championship fight to Philadelphia.

If the promoter and title-holder had gone into court to force the license committee to issue Dempsey a permit to box Gene Tunney, there would have been but one outcome. The Walker Law, which permits boxing bouts to a decision in New York would have received a death blow.

Rickard has other boxing interests besides this forthcoming heavyweight fight. He retains his lease on Yankee Stadium for outdoor bouts, and he has several big matches planned for Madison Square Garden. Tex would suffer more than anyone if boxing were banned in the empire state.

Had the promoter gone into court, he would have set one group of boxing authorities against another group—and divided against itself the house which now keeps the sport of fistieuffs more or less in hand.

Ridiculous as the boxing commissioners and members of the license committee have proved themselves to be by their vacillation and indecision regarding Jack Dempsey's next fight, they serve Rickard's purposes very well as far as prize fighting in general is concerned.

The law in New York is clear. No boxing board, no boxing. Court action would have wrecked the boxing board and subsequently done away with the sport in this state.

inseparable companions-

P. A. and jimmy-pipe joy

YES, indeed. Prince Albert and pipe-pleasure go together like "fair and colder," "Romeo and Juliet," "song and dance." Inseparable companions . . . in fair weather and foul. Wherever you see one, you see the other. Prince Albert means jimmy-pipe joy . . . precisely that!

P. A. is cool as picnic lemonade. Cool and consoling when problems press. Sweet and fragrant as wind-blown blossoms. Mild with a mildness that lets you smoke all you want, morning to midnight. Yet with sufficient body to let you know you are smoking. Nicely balanced!

You'll like the taste of this fine old pipe tobacco. More men have liked it than any other brand. This is a matter of record. Quality through and through. Real tobacco for real men. That's Prince Albert. Kind to your tongue and throat. Friendly in spirit and friendly in fact.

If you haven't smoked P. A., you can't possibly know how much deep-down satisfaction that old jimmy-pipe can give you. No matter how set you think you are, buy a tidy red tin of Prince Albert today. Tamp a load into your pipe and take a deep drag. Good? You said it!
